Bill Dodd Threatens To Fire La. Employes

By James McLean

Abbeville, La., Sept. 22.--(AP)—Lieut. Gov. William Dodd warned today he would fire "some of the people shaking down state employes" for campaign contributions, if Gov. Earl Long ever leaves the state.

Dodd, a Long foe, was one of eight candidates for governor who injected red hot politics into a carefree but rain - dampened Louisiana dairy festival and fair here today.

Speaking at a courthouse building under construction, in the heart of Abbeville, Dodd declared "we should stop the practice of deducts."

He has charged, but Gov. Long has denied, that Long ordered state employes to kick in for the state campaign fund of Judge Carlos Spaht.

The governor and Spaht, the man Long wants to succeed him in 1952, were elsewhere in Louisiana today. Gov. Long has insisted that state employes were not forced to

Aussies Vote To Keep Red Party

Sydney, Australia, Sept. 22.—(AP)—Australian voters apparently rejected today a bid by Prime Minister Menzies' federal government for authority to outlaw the Communist party.

A proposed constitutional amendment which would have given parliament the legal power to deal with communism trailed from the start in the counting of returns and a late tabulation showed:

"Yes" 1,708,000; 'no" 1,873,000.

About 1,280,000 votes remained to be counted.

U. N. Commander Tells Communist High Command He Is Ready To Discuss Offer To Reopen Korean Truce Talks They Suspended

By TOM BRADSHAW

Tokyo, Sunday, Sept. 23. —(AP)— Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway today told the Communist high command he was ready to "discuss" their offer to reopen the Korean truce talks they suspended August 23.

But he bluntly rejected their key move to keep alive charges of Allied neutrality violations at Kaesong.

"The cases were closed," the supreme Allied commander firmly reminded North Korean Premier Kim Il Sung and Chinese Red. Peng Teh-Huai.

In a note dated Sept. 19 and delivered the next day, they had proposed immediate resumption of the talks — and simultaneous set-up of "appropriate machinery" to deal with Red charges of Allied violations at Kaesong.

Their note suggested that liaison officers meet in the Kaesong zone purely to set a date and time for resuming the talks.

Today Ridgway suggested such a meeting at 10 a. m. Monday (8 p. m. EST Sunday) in the Kaesong area of western Korea. But he stated the purpose was to "discuss conditions mutually satisfactory" for the resumption.

The Reds have flung a round dozen charges that Allied planes and troops violated the Kaesong zone. The Allies, investigating each charge, have denied 10, said the other two were valid although cases of mistake and not deliberation.

Today Ridgway's reply to Kim and Peng said their suggestion that instances of alleged violations remain unsettled "is rejected."

His point appeared to be that, if "appropriate machinery" is necessary, it presently has no undisposed business.

Ridgway's reply first was broad-

'LIGHTS ON' TO PLEAD FOR AID

Cancer Drive Leaders To Visit Homes Seeking Final Donations

Tonight, it will be "Lights On" in the Twin Cities, with volunteers of the Ouachita parish unit, American Cancer Society, working to put the annual cancer crusade over the top. Quota for Ouachita parish is $7,000, of which $3,800.00 has already been contributed according to Parish Chairman George Weaks.

Reminding citizens that the hour between 9 and 10 p. m. has been designated as "Lights On" hour, Weaks said, "At that time, to be signalled by the ringing of church bells, all those who wish to give to this worthy cause are asked to turn their porch or other outside lights on. Our volunteers, under the direction of the Pilot Club of Monroe, will be standing by. They will call at all homes with lights on to pick up contributions. They will be identified by official re-

Fount Price Released In Crooks Death

Jena, La., Sept. 22.—(Special)—A LaSalle parish grand jury, meeting in its regular fall term this week found no grounds for a criminal charge against Fount Price, who had been released from jail under a $2,000 bond following a preliminary hearing into the fatal shooting of D. D. Crooks, Jena livestock impounding official, here last month.

At a preliminary hearing August 30, Price's case was given to the grand jury for further examination. After the preliminary proceeding, Price was charged with homicide and released from jail under bond, pending the meeting of the grand jury.

Following the grand jury proceeding this week, Vinson Mouser, of Columbia, 28th judicial district court judge, ordered that the bond be removed and that Price be released from custody for lack of substantial evidence.

Crooks was killed August 25, in a gun duel resulting from an argument about some of Price's cattle that had wandered inside the corporate limits of Jena. Price is a cattle raiser located at Summerville.

Man Injured In Choudrant Crash

Choudrant, Sept. 22.—(Special)—A 75-year old man was seriously injured here at about 1 p.m. today in a truck and car collision at the intersection of Highway 80 and a city street.

A. S. Raley, a Choudrant barber, was rushed in a Kilpatrick Funeral Home ambulance to a Ruston hospital. Attendants there described his injuries as both arms broken below the elbows, fractured skull, broken foot and lacerations about the face.

Police here reported that Raley, who was driving a Buick coupe, attempted to make a left turn and that a truck, driven by Joe Henry, a Ringold Negro, crashed into him. The automobile was demolished, having been thrown about 160 feet by the collision.

Four other Negroes were in the truck with Henry, but none of them was seriously injured and none was taken to the hospital.

MEMPHIS MAN IS KILLED AT L. P.

Lake Providence, La., Sept. 22. —(Special)—A Memphis man was killed instantly at 11:50 a. m. while installing machinery in Terral's Grain elevator here.

The man was identified as John J. Wright, about 30, who was sent from Memphis several days ago by the Pittman Electrical company of that city to install the equipment.

Dr. Don F. Davis, East Carroll parish coroner, said Wright was killed instantly when an electrical drill which he was using shorted out. Wright was standing on a wet concrete floor when the short occurred.

Preliminary investigations indicated that no one was at fault for the accident. Some reports in-

Two-Way Television Is Slated To Begin Today

By Wayne Oliver

New York, Sept. 22.—(AP)—The first two-way coast-to-coast television program takes to the air tomorrow—A 13-hour all-star show in behalf to the Crusade Of Freedom.

Although the first cross - country telecasts were of the Japanese peace treaty conference Sept. 4-8, tomorrow's show will establish two firsts.

It will be the first time viewers on the west coast have seen programs originating in the east. And it will be the first time a program originating in Hollywood has been seen in the east. The peace treaty telecasts were from San Francisco.

The program will start at 11 a. m. EST, from New York, with pickups from Washington, in the crusade for freedom's 1951 drive for members and funds for its worldwide fight against Com-

Natural Gas Blast Probe Is Underway

Rochester, N. Y., Sept. 22. —(AP)—A double investigation was under way today in an effort to fix the exact cause of a series of natural gas explosions that claimed three lives in the fashionable suburb of Brighton.

A team of experts from the State Public Service Commission moved in.

The Rochester Gas and Electric Co. president, Alexander M. Beebee, said a preliminary investigation indicated that a regulator valve in a principal main might have failed.

He added that a workman's flare, left near a vent to the underground regulator vault, could have touched off the rapid - fire explosion, which demolished 16 houses, damaged 24 others and Washington, Sept. 22.—(AP)—GOP National Chairman Guy G. Gabrielson replied to criticism in the senate by saying tonight he had only done his duty in seeking extension of a reconstruction finance corporation loan.

Despite the fact that only Republicans had lifted their voices in public criticism, Gabrielson called the attacks on him "blackguarding."

Three Communist Planes Aiming At Kimpo Air Base Run Into Allied Night Fighters; One Enemy Plane Downed, Others Flee

U. S. Fifth Air Force Headquarters, Korea, Sunday, Sept. 23. —(AP)— The sharpening Korean air war was marked by an unsuccessful Red raid on the Seoul area early today following what may have been history's greatest jet battle over northwest Korea Saturday.

Three Communist planes, apparently aiming at the Kimpo air base 15 miles northwest of Seoul and at the Seoul airstrip in the city suburbs, came in from the east at 1 a.m. (11 a.m., Saturday, E. S. T.).

Allied night fighters immediately attacked, shooting one down in flames as it fled northwest. It fell about 10 miles west of Kaesong, apparently in Red territory. The other two escaped to the north. One or two bombs were dropped, but no damage was reported.

Lone night intruder planes have penetrated the Seoul area from time to time but usually have sped away quickly.

The type of craft in the three-plane raid was not disclosed, but it was reported that they flew slowly. This would indicate they were propeller-driven, not jets.

In Saturday's 25-minute jet battle over "MIG-Alley," 34 U. S. F-86 sabre jets tangled with 85 Russian-made MIG-15's—a total of 119 jets

TREND IS TOWARD GOV. SETTLEMENT

Labor, Employers Reported Willing To Let Government Fix Peace Terms

Washington, Sept. 22.—(AP)— Officials reported today a growing trend among both unions and employers to get the government to fix peace terms in their labor disputes.

These officials said President Truman's action in referring several disputes in the important copper industry to the wage stabilization board "may open the floodgates" for similar handling a host of other troubles.

Up to very recently the wage board confined itself to making broad rules on how much unions and employers could raise workers' pay, then deciding whether specific cases fit those rules.

But under powers given by Mr. Truman the board also must recommend, at the president's request, settlement terms for disputes threatening to stall defense production.

It is discretionary with unions or employers whether they accept board recommendations for settling their differences.

So the recommendations carry not quite, but almost the weight

Man Charged In Juvenile Case Is Held

A 33-year-old man, arrested at a West Monroe theater Thursday and charged with indecent behavior with a juvenile boy, was being held in the parish jail yesterday on a $1,000 bond.

West Monroe Police Chief Jeff Caldwell identified the man as Albert Chrissman, of Brunswick, Maine.

Caldwell said Chrissman was arrested Thursday night after a 12-year-old boy and his mother pointed him out to officers as the man who molested him at the theater the night before.

Police, called by theater ushers Wednesday night, barely missed capturing the man.

Chrissman told Caldwell that he had been arrested on several other occasions for what he said were "different offenses."

Chrissman was charged by District Attorney Fred Fudickar, Jr. yesterday morning.

EXCHANGE CLUB PLANS DISPLAY

Merchandise Jubilee' Will Be Conducted Oct. 27-31 At Skateland

A city-wide merchandise exposition will be presented here next month by the Exchange Club, announced the club president, William R. Crow, yesterday. "The merchandise jubilee" will open October 27 and will run every night through the 31st at Skateland on Louisville. Entertainment, door prizes, and a number of unusual displays are planned for the event.

The latest developments in merchandise of all kinds will be exhibited by local businessmen, and all stores will be invited to participate. Space is limited, however, to 50 booths.

Members of the Exchange Club will be contacting local merchants during this month to arrange for their entry and to help them with plans for their booth. The jubilee committee is headed by Fred Hancock. Jimmy Harbuck, Paul Goldman, Evans Ethridge, C. B. "Smitty" Smith, Bill Crow, Bill Goldsmith, and Charlie Reagan are on the committee.

Merchandise shows of this kind have been acclaimed across the country by both manufacturers and merchants as an amazing stimulus to business and an excellent means of consumer education. Recent shows in Little Rock and Baton Rouge presented latest products to thousands of people in city-wide expositions. This is the first time a show of this kind has been given in Monroe.

King George Suffers Lung Ailment

Hour Drawing Near For Operation On 55-Year-Old British Monarch

By Jack Smith

London, Sept. 22. —(AP)— King George VI strolled about Buckingham Palace and chatted with his family tonight as the hour drew near for a major operation for his mysterious lung ailment.

The 55- year - old monarch was reported in good spirits but haggard, and the nation was worried.

Silent, anxious crowds grew to 3,000. Outside the palace walls they watched the delivery of oxygen tanks and medical equipment, saw doctors come and go.

Commoner and noble stood in respectful silence as the king's mother, 84-year - old Queen Mary, and Princess Elizabeth, the heir apparent to the throne, arrived in limousines for visits.

A belief during the day that the operation already was being performed finally was dispelled late in the afternoon by a palace spokesman.

He said the operation had not been performed and was "most unlikely" to take place tonight. Asked if it would take place tomorrow, he said the doctors would decide. But it seemed the king, devoutly religious, would not want the operation on Sunday unless the need was urgent.

The nation's newspapers began hinting that the operation might have been performed when five doctors went to the palace shortly after 8 a.m. The doctors stayed most of the day. Sir John Weir, who is a sort of family physician to his majesty, returned to the palace tonight.

Diplomats called to sign the palace register, the traditional way of expressing their nations' sympathies. Ministers across the land prepared special prayers to be said in the churches tomorrow. Expressions of concern arrived at the palace from many commonwealth, American and European countries.

Prime Minister Attlee, in the first government comment, said the operation would be a serious one.

"The nation is distressed that the king should have to undergo a serious operation," he told a Scottish labor conference.

All the monarch's engagements for several weeks were cancelled. These included the ceremonial opening of a new parliament Nov. 6, after the Oct. 25 elections, and armistice day services at the Ceno-

YOUTH RALLY IS PLANNED TODAY

Young Group Of Moral And Civic Foundation To Hold Mass Meet

The Youth Division of the Louisiana Moral and Civic Foundation Parish Unit of Ouachita Parish is sponsoring a big youth-rally Sunday afternoon, at 2:30 in the Neville High School auditorium. Walter Bennett, Jr., dynamic youth leader, will preside at the rally and will introduce the various young people who will give testimonies on the subject of "What Christ means to me and what I desire to mean to Him." There will be participating, the Neville High Band and the Ouachita Parish High school ensemble in the fast-moving program which has been geared especially to challenge the youth as well as the adults of Northeast Louisiana. All Protestant and Evangelical denominations are cooperating in this undertaking.

Dr. W. Earl Hotalen, State director of the Louisiana Moral and Civic Foundation in Louisiana, will bring the closing message on the interesting subject, "Accept No Substitutes", according to Mrs. C. V. Sanders, Chairman of the Youth Division.

Parents are especially urged to attend with the young people, and with the caravan of cars expected from surrounding parishes an overflow crowd of three-thousand is anticipated. Rev. C. S. Cadwallader, Jr., pastor of the College Place Baptist Church and general chairman of the local parish unit, has stated that this great Youth Rally should prove to be highly helpful.

Frenchman Crosses River In London On Tight Wire

London, Sept. 22. —(AP)— M. Charles Elleano, a Frenchman who likes to cross rivers unconventionally, walked over the Thames today on a tight wire.

A million people watched, near Charing Cross in the heart of London. The distance, 40 feet over the water, was 1,050 feet, but M. Elleano figures 1,100 feet because of a sag in the wire which made it necessary for him to walk up hill toward the end of his 29-minute crossing.

It was a festival of Britain stunt. At the festival end of the wire were M. Elleano's wife and six children with flowers and a jug of wine.

Karlsruhe, Germany—Pvt. Watt Robinson, son of Mrs. A. Williams, route 1, Mangham, La., has arrived on Karlsruhe military sub-post in the U. S. zone of Germany. He is a truck driver with the 62nd transportation truck company.

Robinson was employed as park attendant at the Monroe baseball park, Monroe, La., before he entered the U. S. army in September, 1950.

Prior to his overseas assignment to Germany, he was stationed at Fort Story, Va.

Presque Isle Air Force Base, Presque Isle, Me., Sept. 22.—Cpl. Winifred R. Coody, United States air force, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. D. Coody, of 402 East Oghbourne street, Tallulah, La., has been assigned to the 23rd air police squadron of the 23rd fighter-interceptor wing at the Presque Isle Air Force Base, Me.

The 23rd unit of which Corporal Coody is a member, originated from the "Flying Tigers" when a group of AVG pilots volunteered to be absorbed into the 23rd pursuit group in Kunming, China in 1942.

The flamboyant flying tiger painted on noses of P-40's and P-51's gained recognition in 1941-42 when its originators, the American volunteer group, established the remarkable combat record in China of 287 enemy aircraft destroyed with a loss of only 23 of their own ships. The 23rd stayed on in China, flying tactical, offensive and defensive missions against the Japanese until the war's end.

Karlsruhe, Germany— Pvt. Joe Fleming of Gilbert, La., has arrived on Karlsruhe military sub-post in the U. S. zone of Germany for duty as a truck driver with the 62nd transportation truck company.

Before going overseas Fleming was stationed at Fort Story, Va. He first entered military service in Setember, 1950.

The private attended Rollwath High School in Gilbert.

Sgt. James Sanders Goes To California

Staff Sgt. James Sanders of Columbia left Thursday for the army base at Pittsburgh, Calif., and on arriving there is expected to receive an overseas assignment lasting about a year.

Let Your Light Shine

Today has been set aside by the mayors of Monroe and West Monroe as "Cancer Memorial Sunday" and it will be the purpose of a small army of volunteer workers, between the hours of 9 and 10 p.m. tonight, to visit residences in bath cities where porch lights indicate that those living there are desirous of making a cash contribution.

There has been raised, states Chairman George Weaks, a total of $3,800 but the goal was set for Ouachita parish at $5,000, so that $1,200 additional should be raised tonight to achieve the goal.

With headquarters in Hotel Virginia, a crew of willing workers has held forth, headed by Mrs. C. K. Crandall, chairman of volunteer services. The workers have spent many hours and have at no time allowed their enthusiasm to lag in the effort to provide needed cash to fight a fearful scourge.

Every dollar epended will be charged with a practical mission and will be able to swell the relief rund so vitally required.

Do your bit! See that your light burns brightly tonight and you will be afforded the sweet satisfaction of having assisted a most worthy cause.

Parking Ordinance

One Monroe city ordinance dealing with traffic appears to have been generally ignored or disrgearded. We refer to that ordinance which says it is unlawful for any person not an officer to attempt in any way to regulate parking on the city streets. The ordinance reads:

"It shall be unlawful for any person not authorized to move or change the location of any official traffic or parking sign of the city of Monroe; and it shall be unlawful for any person to place, maintain or display, upon or in view of any street or alley, any unofficial sign, signal or device which purports or attempts to direct the operation or parking of vehicles. Every such prohibited signal or device is hereby declared to be public nuisance and any police officer is hereby empowered to remove the same, or cause the same to be removed, without notice." Ordinance 2788, section 65.

In the metered zone of Monroe, as in other cities, practically all available parking space is utilized, about the only exceptions being spaces reserved for the parking of buses and other special vehicles and some loading zones when the business house at that place does not have any other suitable loading zone.

Outside the meter zones there has been a tendency of property owners to claim the portion of the street on which their property faces. Some of these owners seek to prohibit parking for the distance of half a block on streets adjoining their property.

The city ordinance not only takes the position that the streets are public thoroughfares and that the people in general have a right to use them but it specifically prohibits anyone not so authorized from attempting to prevent any person from parking at any place on any street.

Anyone having a valid reason for asking that parking be restricted may apply to the police department for an authorized police sign restricting the parking.

Under the ordinance a motorist may park at any place not prohibited by city ordinance or police signs.

100-Billion Question

How much longer will this nation's economy support the government in the manner to which it has become accustomed in recent years? This is the question the people must answer, and quickly, not only because it affects their immediate future, but the ultimate destiny of the nation as well.

The cost of federal government, including the military, is headed toward $100,000,000,000 a year, perhaps to remain at that figure indefinitely. Add to this stupendous sum the cost of state and local governments and the total constitutes a burden which could wreck the national economy.

The point at issue is not that expenditures must be great under present circumstances. But what the American people must be assured of is that it will attain the purpose for which it is being used. If it is for peace then there must be a guarantee that peace will come. If it is to be used for war only complete victory will justify the cost.

What the nation cannot stand indefinitely is the expenditure of such vast sums for government which makes no progress toward peace, either through war or negotiation.

In the meantime, and with apparently little thought for tomorrow, a great debt is being piled up which must of necessity be passed on to future generations. Little is being heard about a balanced budget, nothing whatever about paying off the debt. And as war expenditures mount, there is no effort to economize on unnecessary ordinary expenditures of the government.

No Fear Of Air Raids

Congress has turned down a request for an appropriation to finance the erection of air raid centers throughout the nation. A California citizen, who built one for his own use, is offering it for sale at a bargain price, and has had no answers to his advertisement.

He says the neighbors laugh at his fears, and if they want to be blown to kingdom come, that is their business. All this points to the fact that American citizens are not anticipating bombing attacks, and refuse to prepare for them.

There are those, however, who hold to the theory that war with Russia would be launched by the bombing of principal cities, such as Chicago, for the purpose of throwing the nation into panic and disorganizing efforts at either offense or defense.

One of the most jittery prophets has pointed out that Russia could reach the United States from the north in a matter of hours, and with atomic bombs level such industrial centers as Detroit.

The public's widespread feeling of security is prompted largely by the impression that in the event of hostilities United States planes would be over Russia in a few hours, dropping atomic bombs where they would do the most good. Russia's industrial machine could not stand such a strafing, at least not now.

A single bomb, dropped anywhere in the United States, could mean the end of Russia. At least that is what the American people have been led to believe.

Latest football suggestion is to prohibit the game after the high school age, before the boys come under the baleful influence of higher education and fall by the wayside.

Bones of a man who lived 100,000 years ago were found in a cave, proving that the housing shortage isn't something new.

Tito, Franco and all the other comic opera directors are still less loud and funny than Mussolini was.

It is said there are more than 1,000,000 American women who are overweight. These presumably are round figures.

George E. Sokolsky:

THESE DAYS

MR. COUSINS'S REPLIES

Some time ago, I published in this column various statements made by Representative John Taber of New York concerning Norman Cousins, editor of "The Saturday Review of Literature," and his activities in India under the auspices of the state department. The main contention of John Taber was that Cousins spoke not for the United States but for the world federalists, although he travelled on the American taxpayer's expense account.

Mr. Cousins telephoned to me and wrote me a letter. He did not quarrel with me or accuse me of lack of good faith. Nor did he say that Representative John Taber spoke in bad faith. His attitude is stated in his opening sentence:

"I do not question Congressman Taber's good faith in criticizing my trip, nor your good faith in commenting on the case in your column . . ."

Now when anyone approaches a difference of opinion in that spirit, he is entitled to state his case. And Mr. Cousin's case is that he did a good job for the United States and lost money on it. This is what he says his job in India was:

"My job, as it was explained to me, was to talk to opinion moulders — writers, editors, newspapermen, teachers, ministers, government officials, businessmen, etc.— as well as to lecture before university groups, commerce associations, civic organizations, etc. The arrangements for these lectures were to be made by our local consular and information service people. I was to speak as an individual American citizen. It would be made clear to the lecture groups that, though I came under the auspices of the American government, I was completely free to give my own opinions, just as I did in the United States. The advantage of this was obvious: It would dramatize the traditional concept of American free speech."

Of course, the question is not the wisdom of speaking to persons in foreign countries about the United States, but what one says. For instance, if, the Lord forbid, I were running the Voice of America, I should not do the job as it is now being done, because I think much that is being beamed to various countries, while well - intentioned, is not understandable to some of these peoples. Many are not interested in things but in ideas. Unfortunately William Benton, an advertising man, gave our propaganda agency its general tone, and his forte is selling things, not propagating ideas, beliefs, faiths.

So, my quarrel with Mr. Cousins was based on newspaper clippings reporting what he said, which gave Congressman Taber and myself the impression that Cousins was promoting world federalism, a concept which has never been part of American policy. It has never been supported either by the people, congress or publicly by the state department.

On the subject of what he said on the trip to India and other places, Mr. Cousins comments:

" . . . I was frequently asked why it is that a great deal of war talk emanates from the United States, and why it is that only talk of peace comes from the Soviet Union. I tried to establish the fact that, Communist propaganda to the contrary, the American people were openly dedicated to the cause of peace. It was important for the world's peoples to know (that) . . . We were not interested in peace if it meant the shattering of moral and Democratic values in the world. We were not interested in peace if it could be obtained only by spending our lives on our knees . . .

'Making it clear that I spoke only for myself, and as an individual American citizen, I said I believed that true peace could only be achieved through the creation of world law. The United Nations, I said, required the full support of all peoples sincerely concerned with the conditions of peace . . .

" . . . In short, I argued for a United Nations authority to enact, interpret, and enforce world law . . ."

Although I cannot see how the United Nations can enforce the law or anything else, Norman Cousins is entitled, in a free country, to his views and to an opportunity to say it. The human race has been seeking a road to peace since Isaiah and has not found it. Shall we say that no one will ever discover a road to peace? That is too pessimistic a view of human mentality and character. Thus far, there is no evidence, however, that the United Nations has the formula for peace.

Economic Aid To Iran Is Pledged

Frankfurt, Germany, Sept. 22.—(AP)— Henry F. Grady, retiring American ambassador to Iran, said on arrival here today that the U. S. should "continue and increase" its economic aid to Iran.

He expressed concern that Iran may be forced into Communist hands unless its oil dispute with Britain is settled.

Without revenue from oil, he said, Iran is endangered by economic turmoil and a possible Communist coup. U. S. aid, he said, would cheer the Iranians with the belief that they "belong to our camp."

He added that he did not believe American oil companies would "scab on the British" by intervening in Iranian oil operations.

Our Children

OUR CHILDREN RESPECT DIFFERENCES

If a gardener were to select a flower in his garden and decree that all the other flowers there must be like it, nobody would agree with him. He would be told very plainly that a rose was a rose and a petunia its own self and the whole garden company quite as they should be, including the weeds.

Children, belonging in Nature's world, are in the same situation. Each one is himself and like no other, and it is quite useless to decree that he shall be otherwise. All parents have dreams about their children, each differing in detail from his neighbors but all of them alike in one respect: the child shall stand head and shoulders above his fellows in his special field. For the accomplishment of this ideal education is essential and by education is meant schooling.

Education changes nobody in the fundamental characteristics of his being. If he is endowed with a talent it will show itself and insist upon being developed into usefulness. If he is not so endowed, no amount of schooling will add it to his original endowment. Either he is or he is not fitted for the place his parents dreamed for him.

A tremendous amount of unhappiness in parents and children could be spared if this was recognized early in a child's schooling, and his energy channelled into ways congenial to his mind and body. A great amount of anxiety and grudging and jealousy could be spared fathers and mothers if they accepted the truth that one child differs from another in endowment and that each of them can do better and rise higher in the social scale when allowed to develop his own peculiar treasure.

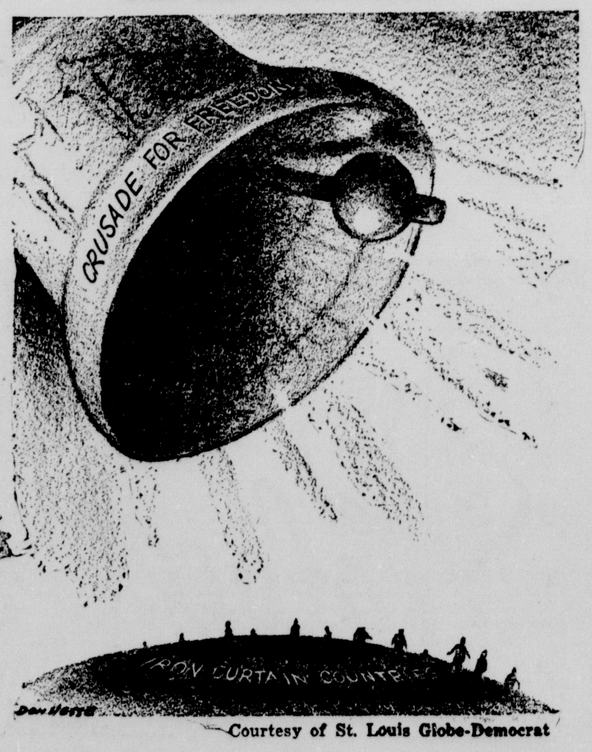

There are as many kinds of education as there are experiences. Each experience educates. For many years, more than anybody can count now, books have been the symbol of education, books and nothing else, yet all the world of experience, of things, of people, of work, of thought, stand ready to do their part in the education of an inquiring mind.

The fundamentals of learning must be mastered by all children, and thoroughly. Everybody should be able to read intelligently for reading unlocks the stored wisdom of the race. Everybody should be able to measure and count because life among people demands that. Writing a letter is an accomplishment that everybody needs at one time or another, with imperative need at times. The tools of education must be mastered in the early years of a child's life.

After that, study the child as he is. Face the facts of his endowment or lack of it and develop what he has, the person he is, and so allow him to be successful and happy. But don't set up a dream child and try to bend the real one to the dream. It won't work.

Lying is a bad habit and must be cured. Some children lie because of fear. Dr. Patri in his leaflet P-15, urges parents to find the cause for lying and tells how to overcome it. To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin to him, c-o this paper, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

IN HOLLYWOOD

Hollywood, Sept. 21. — As the "companion feature" on its bill, our neighborhood theater is currently offering a ten-year-old hunk of cinematic froth in which Jane Wyman played the feminine lead. Seeing it, I couldn't avoid being impressed by the extreme importance of the luck element in the average screen career.

When that little turkey was filmed, Jane (already a Hollywood veteran) was about as unlikely a candidate for top-flight dramatic rating as any young lady could possibly be. Had anyone predicted, at that date, that she would ever be capable of handling such roles as the ones she since has done in "Johnny Belinda" and "The Blue Veil," the prophesy would have been greeted with amused incredulity. In fact, had anyone offered to wager that she would even be in pictures, in this year of 1951, he would have found plenty of eager "takers." Miss Wyman apparently had little to offer other than a winsome smile, an animated personality and a very shapely pair of legs — commodities which all are a dime a dozen in Hollywood.

The amazing part of it all is that she must have had, during that long period when she was playing vapid young things in second rate pictures, the same tremendous flair for great dramatic acting that she has today. She simply had no chance to display her ability, no more than a Bergman or a Davis would have had had they been relegated to the same frothy roles. Jane, somewhere along the line (and I must confess that I've forgotten the exact turning point in her career) finally landed a part that let her light shine through the bushel under which Hollywood had been hiding it. She was lucky.

I wonder how many of the hundreds of other young leading ladies who have been shunted aside during the past decade could also have achieved dramatic heights had they, also, found a chance to prove their talent.

Idol Chatter: Off-hand, I can't recall an actress more popular with her co-workers than is Jean Simmons, femme star of "Androcles and the Lion" ... In-a-word description of Jane Wyman's performance in "The Blue Veil"(Tear-mendous! ... If Clark Gable had said "I'm through with marriage" instead of telling pals "I'm through with women," I'd be inclined to believe him ... Overheard at Pat and Eloise O'Brien's recent party for Georgia Neese Clark, U. S. treasury department official: "Isn't this a case of feeding the hand that bites you?" ... I like Irene Ryan's witticism: "He's so blase that he can describe Jane Russell without using either hand!"

In the entire history of the movie business, to the best of my memory and belief, no producers have ever been so widely publicized as Jerry Wald and Norman Krasna. Reading the daily stories about them and their projects in the Hollywood columns, I would have gambled that their names were as one of Hollywood's best known lic as those of any of their stars. But it seems I would have lost the bet. The other day a press agent, making arrangements with a group of Los Angeles business men for a big exploitation stunt, was asked which movie celebrities he could deliver for the occasion. He started his list with the names, Wald and Krasna. And at that point the spokesman for the merchants' association interrupted.

"Who," he demanded, "are Wald and Krasna — a new comedy team?"

Alan Young, a descendent of Scotland's Clan Wallace, dressed in kilts and blowing lustily on a bagpipe, was posing for a fan magazine photographer when one George Allan, employed in the studio's art department, spotted him and ventured on a criticism. "That's no proper way to hold a bagpipe," he observed.

"What makes you think it isn't?" demanded Young, more than a little nettled.

"I don't think, I KNOW," retorted Allan. "I was a bagpiper in the Canadian Army in World War I."

"And I," countered Young, "played with the Wallace Clan Pipers in Canada a few years ago!"

"Exactly what instrument?" insisted the critic, thereby ending the debate. Young had to admit that he played the bass drum.

Bob Perry might be described as one of Hollywood's bes- known unknowns, for, though seldom given featured billing, he's played bits in hundreds of movies. In his current picture, "The Pride of St. Louis," he claims to be perfectly cast at long last, and expects to turn in a performance so authentic that the studio bosses must give him recognition. "The Pride of St. Louis" is a baseball yarn, based on the life story of Dizzy Dean. Perry is playing an umpire, and doing the role without wearing his glasses. Without those specs, he's too near-sighted to see a bright red barn five feet away.

Peddling His Papers

Our anecdote last week about Frank Costello's golfing scores brought this space-filler from a Scripps - Howard staffer who probably enjoys the anonymity of no by-line: "A columnist continues his role of apologist for Frank Costello, even to the point of defending his prowess as a golfer."

Good reporters (it says here) acquaint themselves with Names That Make News in every field... Because any entertaining or interesting story about them is news. The adverts used by The N. Y. Times to salute Meyer Berger (its reportorial ace) included this: "Berger knows New York intimately as few have ever known it... He knows its characters — priests and pugs, the law and the lawless — as Damon Runyon knew them. Even Dutch Schultz spoke softly and with respect when Mike Berger of the N. Y. Times was around."

The N. Y. Times, incidentally, published an amusing anecdote about Gromyko that same day... Does that (we get so clever when we have a pushover) make the N. Y. Times an apologist for Russia? ... Jes call me Sugar Ray Winchell.

We were on holiday when that Sioux City story broke about the Indian soldier hero being refused burial there because his skin was red ... Spoiled our whole vacation because we had no handy soapbox ... At any rate, Sgt. John R. Rice was buried with full military honors in our national cemetery at Arlington, thanks to the President's thrilling punch - in - the - nose for those Sioux City foreigners ... The irony of it: Sgt. Rice, a Winnebago Indian, refused burial in a city named after a great Indian tribe.

The Dep't of State refused to rule on whether it regards Tass (the Russian news agency) primarily as a propaganda or news-gathering group ... There is more stupidity than diplomacy in this decision ... Obviously, every newspaperman representing a dictatorship must serve as a propaganda agent for the dictator. Otherwise he becomes a target for a firing squad.

P. S. Tass men are registered as Foreign Propaganda Agents!

"The Rise and Fall of Hermann Goering" (published by Houghton-Mifflin) offers this eyebrow-lifter: "When Goering was a youngster he and his parents were maintained in a luxurious castle—by rich Jewish friends... But this news (about his ashes) is something to enjoy: The cremation was carried out at Dachau concentration camp, where hundreds of thousands of Jews and Anti-Nazis had been imprisoned and met their death. The last remaining incinerator of original Nazi design was used. At the Tribunal's order, the ashes of Hermann Goering, originator of concentration camps, were thrown onto the trash heap.

The Big Illusion gripping and choking many network and advertising execs (that teevy has almost obliterated radio and other entertainment media) was effectively shattered by John Crosby, an authority on the subject ... He quoted this from Fortune: "The big sotry about teevy today is no longer one of irresistible power. It lies rather in the unexpectedly strong bargaining position of teevy's competitors, heretofore given up for lost, and in the equally unexpected weakness of the new medium."

Then there's variety's report that the motion picture business is thriving, despite pessimistic assertions a year ago that teevy was murdering it . . . Mr Crosby (in the Herald Tribune) added: "These are just a few of the portents indicating and tv has reached a state whereby it may very well be losing its audience."

That, John, is hardly a skewp to our readers. We have repeatedly proved that radio's audience outnumbers teevy's — and that radio's profits still provide teevy's major financial support . . . Translated, this means that radio is not only alive — but is rich enough to pay teevy's funeral expenses.

The president has attacked Russia as a government of "fear and tyranny." He declared any Kremlin agreement "is not worth the paper it is written on" . . . Back in 1945 (at San Francisco) this reporter began alerting the people to the danger of war with Russia . . . We frequently stressed that the nature of communism makes amicable relationships impossible . . . We proved it with Stalin's own quotes from speeches articles and books . . . Yet, while we were warning the American people (and the president), his administration pooh - pooh'd the perils and slashed funds for defense . . Even after the Korean War exploded Mr. Truman declared it was possible to settle all problems with Russia peacefully.

Now the president echoes what we've been saying since 1945.

The Nat'l Security Council suspended the Ken Amendment recently . . . That means Congress has failed to stop American aid to foreign nations exporting military supplies to Russia . . . In short, Business As Usual . . . For fear of offending our dear allies American factories will continue to supply the Red war machine.

Scrap - iron to Japan was a bouquet of Forget - Me-Nots compared to what our allies are selling to Russia . . . It is a great mistake, however, to think that everything connected with international diplomacy is two faced . . . There are whole wards, for example of soldiers who have no face left at all.

The other day Congress struck America another Pearl Harbor by slashing the Nat'l Science Board's budget by 98 per cent. . . . Dr. Conant warned the congress that in slashing the budget it "has threatened our future national security and welfare" . . . What irony! The same congress which voted 20 billions for Europe—refuses American scientists 14 millions. . . . That's three per cent of what we sent to Greece. . . . It is less than the price of one new destroyer. . . . But the discoveries these scientists make already saved millions of lives.

On the very day that congress voted down the scientists it voted to continue its barbershop at the taxpayers' expense . . . Proving the heaviest thing on a congressman's mind is a free haircut.

Capt. Anant Singh, a newspaper publisher from New Delhi, India, went very big with a favorite dog story in Chandler's the other night . . . You know — the one about the man at the movie— who sat near a fellow and his dog . . . They obviously were enjoying the flicker . . . The dog applauded like mad and barked "Bravo!" several times . . . When the film ended, our Hero went over and expressed his amazement at the hound's human behavior. "Flabbergasting," he said. "Most astounding thing!"

To which the dog - owner agreed that it astounded him, too inasmuch as the dog "hated the book!"

Runyon Fund won again at Aqueduct Wed. $7.80.

IN MOVIELAND

Perhaps you know his son, Jim Backus. He is a radio comedian who lately has made a career of being the hero's friend in movies. He performed that function for Arthur Kennedy in "Bright Victory" and now he's Dana Andrews' friend in "I Want You." He's sort of a free-lance Keenan Wynn.

Jim has many stories about his dad, who is an engineer in Cleveland and is unimpressed or unaware of the Hollywood hoopla. Recently Mr. Backus was visiting here and Jim had a golf date with Ben Gage. Jim left his father to visit with Mrs. Gage, Esther Williams.

"You know, Jim," said Mr. Backus later, "that girl—the one who's married to the guy with the cigar you played golf with—she's a darned good swimmer. Any time she wants to swim at the Cleveland Athletic Club, I think I can fix it up for her."

A month later, Jim received a long-distance phone call from his father, who said excitedly, "Say, Jim, you remember that girl who could swim so well—the one who's married to the tall guy you played golf with? Well, she's all over Cleveland in a movie!"

Mr. Backus has constant doubts about Jim's future and often inquires if he needs some money. When Jim assures him he's drawing a good salary, his father replies, "Well, I notice that other fellow from Cleveland, Bob Hope, is doing fairly well."

Jim often takes his father to the night spots during Hollywood visits. Mr. Backus was unimpressed by the film newcomers who were pointed out to him. Then Jackie Coogan was sighted.

"Now there's an example of a boy who let himself go," he told Jim. "Look. He's bald and fat. He should have stuck with that funny little man with the mustache. I wonder what ever happened to the dog in that show?"

Once the Backuses were driving past RKO studios, where a painter was working on the outside wall. 'There," said Mr. Backus, "is a good studio. If they keep it painted like that, it's run correctly all along the line, up to the top man."

When Jim was on location with "Bright Victory" in Philadelphia, his father suspected that he had lost his Hollywood job. Jim tried to explin that it was the same job.

"Don't feel bad," consoled Mr. Backus, "and don't try to cover up. We all lose jobs, Jim. And maybe it's a good thing that they're making movies in Philadelphia. Maybe they'll make them in Cleveland now, and you can live at home again."

COLLINSTON

The Sunshine Friends of the Methodist women's Bible class held their summer party at the educational building recently. Seventeen members were present to enjoy the entertainment provided by Mrs. A. H. Harper and Miss Marie Hodges. Punch was served by Mrs. R. O. Richards and Mrs. E. L. Hinton with a variety of sandwiches brought by the class.

Contest gifts were awarded to Mrs. Louise Keller and to Mrs. A. J. Tarver. Gifts were exchanged among the Sunshine Friends, who revealed their identity at this time. New friends were drawn, who will be secret until their Christmas party.

Present were Mrs. B. W. Hopgood, Mrs. A. J. Tarver, Mrs. Louis Keller, Mrs. J. T. Howell, Mrs. A. H. Harper, Mrs. B. H. Miller, Mrs. R. O. Richards, Mrs. E. L. Hinton, Mrs. Lena Hodges, Mrs. David Herrell, Mrs. W. B. Norsworthy, Mrs. Fannie Pagan, Mrs. R. B. Harrington, Mrs. W. T. Fontenot, Mrs. Forrest Trippe, Mrs. Alton Norsworthy, and Miss Marie Hodges.

Mrs. John Gobble is visiting in Monroe with her daughters and their families, Mr. and Mrs. Olan Dawson and Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Harding.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Barham of Simsboro have been recent visitors here among friends. They were house guests of Mr. and Mrs. Buster Moore.

Mrs. Angea Smith of Natchez, Miss., and Mrs. Jack Whitehurst of Pennsacola, Fla., spent a recent week-end here visiting in the home of their mother, Mrs. Lutie Whitehead.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Boyd of Moss Point, Miss., and Mr. and Mrs. Herman Goodnight and Erma Jean of El Dorado, Ark., were recent guests in the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Goodnight.

Collinston High School has three new teachers on the faculty this year. They are Mr. and Mrs. Thomas L. Smith and Miss Joy Ray Blume. Mr. and Mrs. Smith are graduates of Louisiana Tech. He will teach social science and physical education. She will teach English and library. Miss Blume is a graduate of Southwestern Louisiana Institute and will teach commerce.

Mrs. Cecil Dampier and children of Wisner have visited here in the Clyde Thompson home.

David Linzay spent a week visiting in Arcadia. He was a guest of his former teacher, Billy Caskey.

Mr. and Mrs. Waltman Harrington and son, Billy, of Monroe, and their daughter, Mrs. J. H. Gay of Graymont, Ga., were recent guests for a day in the home of Mr. Harrington's mother, Mrs. Mabel Harrington.

Miss Dorothy Anne Norsworthy recently returned home from a visit in Cleveland, Miss., where she visited in the home of her cousin, O. W. Reily, Jr.

Miss Patricia Waldrop spent a recent day from her duties at KMLB, Monroe, here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Waldrop, and Susie.

Collinston students to leave for college this fall will be Miss Dorothy Anne Norsworthy to L. S. U.; Miss Walter May Dalgarn to Sophie Newcomb; Miss Ann Boyd and Miss Elizabeth Trippe to Louisiana Tech; and T. B. Pratt, III to Tulane.

The Collinston Woman's Society of Christian Service met in the home of Mrs. Lena and Miss Marie Hodges for its September study. The opening chapters of Elizabeth M. Lee's book, "He Wears Orchids," was reviewed in a most interesting manner by the study leader, Mrs. Jack Waldrop. Each chapter tells an entrancing story of people who represent a cross section of Christian life in Latin America.

Mrs. A. J. Tarver presented the devotional, taking texts from Psalm 24:1-5, and Romans 13.

Mrs. Alton Norsworthy presided at the business session. Mrs. B. W. Hopgood gave the treasurer's report; Miss Marie Hodges served as secretary.

The hostesses were assisted by Mrs. R. L. Pollock and Mrs. D. J. Pollock in serving an ice course to those present: Mrs. Alton Norsworthy, Mrs. B. W. Hopgood, Mrs. A. J. Tarver, Mrs. Dale Lowrey, Mrs. A. H. Harper, Mrs. R. O. Richards, Mrs. J. T. Howell, Mrs. Jack Waldrop, Mrs. W. T. Griffin, Mrs. J. G. Pyron, Mrs. Torris Eldridge, Sr., Mrs. R. L. Pollock, Mrs. D. J. Pollock, and the hostesses, Mrs. Hodges and Miss Hodges.

Mrs. Susie Campbell has sold her home in Collinston and moved Friday, Sept. 14, to Monroe. Mrs. Sallie Eskridge, who made her home with Mrs. Campbell has also moved to Monroe.

Lord Maenan Dies At 97

Ellesmere, Eng., Sept. 22.—(AP)—Lord Maenan, believed to be the oldest man ever made a British peer, died at his home here today aged 97.

Maenan, born William Francis Kyffin Taylor, became a baron at 94 on retirement after 45 years as presiding judge of the Liverpool court of passage. None of his decisions ever was reversed on appeal to higher courts.

There is no heir.

Arabs Won't Agree Not To Wage War

Paris, Sept. 22.—(AP)—Four Arab nations will refuse to promise not to wage war against Israel again, Syrian Diplomat Achmed Shukeiri said today.

Shukeiri said in an interview that Syria, Egypt, Jordan and Lebanon would not go along with Israel's demand yesterday that the nations sign a declaration against warlike acts in Palestine.

Israel had stipulated she would sign such an agreement and would continue discussions in the present middle east conference here only if the others did so too. Renunciation of war-like acts was proposed by the U. N. Palestine conciliation commission at the outset of the Arab - Israeli peace talks here.

Qualified observers said this Arab decision made the chances "very slim" for making peace.

The conference began Sept. 13 in an effort to bring peace to the middle east and solve problems of the aftermath of Jewish - Arab fighting in 1948.

Local Man Charged With Drunk Driving Released

Monroe city police arrested a Monroe man for operating a vehicle while under the influence of intoxicating liquors and causing property damage.

I. Z. Mathis, Route 2, was released last night on bond of $350.

Also arrested and being held in the city jail was Jimmy Johnson, 25, Negro, who is charged with disorderly public conduct and carrying a concealed weapon — a knife. He is being held on a $225 bond.

La. National Guard Begins New Drive

Louisiana National Guard Company "I" has launched a rather unusual campaign, in the form of a "flag pole" sitter to recruit new members for their company.

Cpl. Gene O. Gree, a squad leader in the company, will climb aboard the pole at 218 South Grand street at noon tomorrow and will remain there without coming down until the unit has enlisted 25 new members in the unit.

Inasmuch as this is a difficult and trying feat, all officers and men urge all young men in this community who wish to retain their civilian jobs and remain at home, to enlist during this campaign and stay in the Twin Cities where they can learn and earn at home.

Sgt. Philip D. Duncan advanced the idea of flag pole sitting as a new stunt on recruiting to Lt. James L. Roberts, commanding officer of the unit, and the plans were made. Many outstanding local citizens have endorsed and contributed to the project with M. Kaplan and Son generously constructing a sturdy pole and doing an excellent job. W. J. Riley and Company donated cables and necessary accessories for securing the pole on top of the local armory, with Cecil Hill upholstering the chair, biilt by the James Machine Works, that Greer will use. Charlie's Cafe will contribute Greer's meals.

The men of Company "I" have put in many hard hours on this project and the public is urged to get behind this effort to build up the strength of our local National Guard, who stand ready for any emergency whether it is of local or national nature.

Radio station KNOE will broadcast by remote control from the pole each day, keeping the public informed of the progress of recruiting.

The public is cordially invited to visit the Armory and see Corporal Greer on the flagpole and view the various displays of the weapons of the company. Personnel will be on hand to answer any question that might be asked in the way of recruiting and training of the unit.

This project clearly depicts the determination of these young men to build up the prestige and strength of the Louisiana National Guard and the National Guard of the United States.

Thief Gets Watches That Won't Give Him The Time

Miami Beach, Fla., Sept. 22.—(AP)—A thief in Miami Beach today had $10,000 worth of watches which wouldn't give him the time of day.

Louis Fried, a salesman for the Benrus Watch Co., of New York, told police that 272 dummy timepieces were stolen from his car last night while it was parked in front of his apartment.

The watches, intended for display purposes, had dials and hands but no movements, Fried said.

He told Detective Henry Dworkin that it would cost $10,000 to replace the watches. He said 35 of the cases were studded with diamonds.

IN TRAINING

Roy John Soignier, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Soignier, is in training at the U. S. Naval Training base in San Diego. He graduated at St. Paschal's High school this year. The family home is 219 Hoover street, West Monroe.

Beef For Army May Not Come From Argentina

Buenos Aires, Sept. 22.—(AP)—Trades sources said today it is unlikely Argentina will be able to enter bids to supply the United States army with 10,000,000 pounds of beef.

U. S. Army Undersecretary Archibald Alexander yesterday authorized the purchase of beef from European and South American countries, among them Argentina, Uruguay, Germany and Spain. Spokesmen for packing houses which handle Argentine meat export trade said the Peron government has banned all exports and diverted production to local markets to ease a critical shortage here.

A serious drought during the past three years in beef producing areas has cut supplies sharply. Packers said unless there are heavy rains within the next two to six weeks ranchers will be forced to ship unfinished cattle to market. This means only a fraction of the normal supply would be available during the big production months of January and February.

Packers said the government has bought about 70,000 head of cattle on ranges for local consumption, "which reduce supplies for future export." They pointed out that about the only meat which will be available for export will be mutton lamb.

Red Move Is Not Very Surprising

New York, Sept. 22.—(AP)—Francis Cardinal Spellman said today the moving of Communist party headquarters from East 12th street, Manhattan, to Harlem was no surprise because the party plan for 1952 was to "concentrate on the Negroes."

"For years, the Cardinal said, "the Communists nave been playing on their emotions in the hope of stirring up race hatred and mob violence."

The Cardinal's statement was made as he presented a check for $10,000 from the Alfred E. Smith Memorial Foundation to the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Cornelius J. Drew, pastor of St. Charles Borromeo Church, 141st street, in Harlem.

Presentation of the check was to start a fund raising campaign for a building to house the St. Charles Parochial School and community centers in Harlem.

It has been estimated that properly installed lightning rods will reduce the chances of lightning damage to less than five per cent of what it would be without rods.

Dewey Fight With Ewing Is Ended

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 22.—(AP)—A quiet compromise has ended a bitter fight between Gov. Thomas E. Dewey and Oscar Ewing, the federal security administrator, over administration of welfare funds in New York State.

The state welfare department disclosed today, in answer to an Associated Press query, that the state and federal governments had buried the hatchet in consequence of a series of high - level conferences.

Dewey and Ewing had exchanged bitter charges as the state social welfare department and the federal agency grappled over whether the enpire state would set up a "single standard" for distributing welfare funds to needy persons.

The single standard, required by Ewing's agency, calls for all persons, wherever they live in a state, to receive the same relative amount of assistance. Such aid now is given in varying amounts in relation to the differing needs of relief clients in various parts of the state.

Dewey charged that Ewing had threatened to withhold federal welfare funds from the state if it did not adopt a "single standard." But Ewing denied this.

The empire state receives about $80,000,000 annually in federal welfare funds.

The settlement plan, which state officials term a "compromise," sets up a statewide assistance standard, drawn by the state welfare department.

Musician Serves Prison Sentence

McNeil Island, Wash., Sept. 22.—(AP)—Accordionist Dick Contino, serving a six months sentence at McNeil Island federal penitentiary for draft evasion, was described today by Warden Fred Wilkinson as "a routine prisoner."

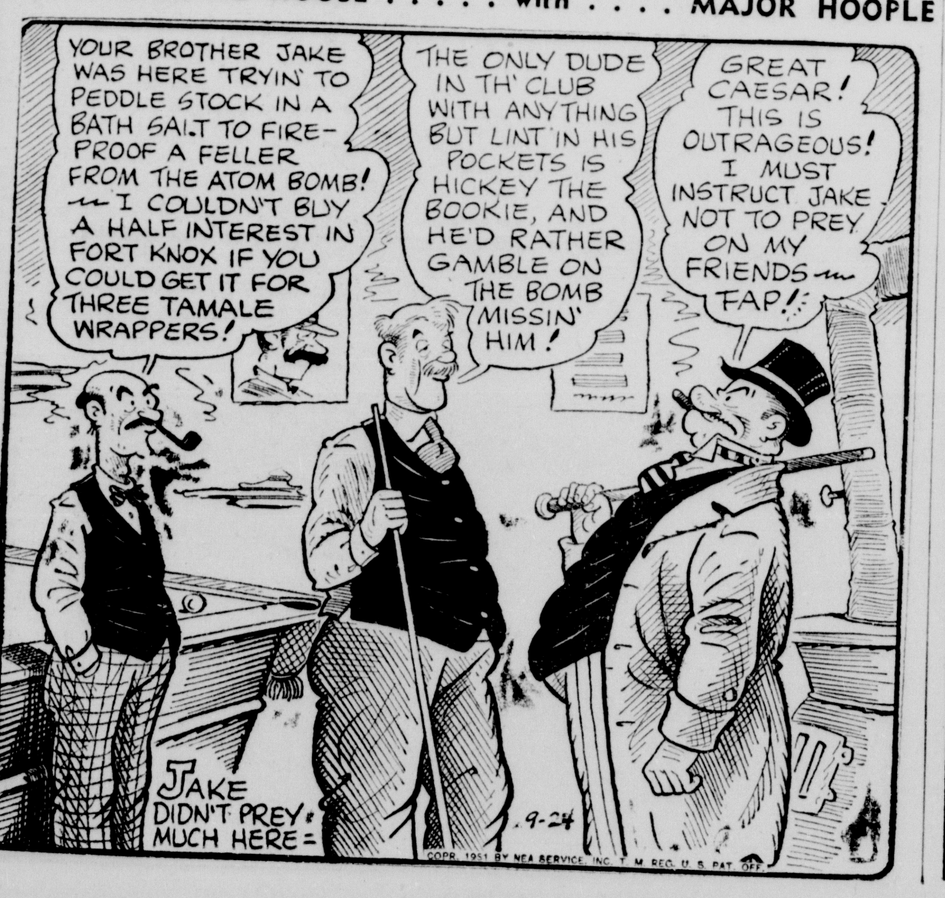

Wilkinson said Contino has adjusted himself without difficulty and is now working on the prison farm under a "minimum custody" classification.

"Contino has probably realized his mistake and will be straightened out when he is released," the warden said.

Contino takes an active part in recreational activities, plays the accordion, sings in a prison farm trio and occasionally plays the organ during church services.

The young musician, who was earning $4,000 a week before he skipped out of Fort Ord, Calif., on the eve of his induction into the army, will be eligible to apply for parole on Oct. 7.

OF THE

of THE OUACHITA NATIONAL BANK

CORNER JACKSON & LAYTON

TUESDAY, SEPT. 25th

MR. JAMES F. BENTON

Who has been associated with the Ouachita National Bank for a number of years, will be the manager of the Jackson Street Branch.

The Ouachita National Bank is pleased to announce the opening on Sept. 25, 1951 of a Drive-in Branch on Jackson and Layton for the convenience of the people of the community. The Ouachita National Bank invites all of you to make use of its facilities. It is designed to relieve you of the parking problem of DeSiard Street.

FOR YOUR CONVENIENCE– OUR SECOND DRIVE-IN BRANCH

Our Jackson Street Branch will operate in the same manner as our Fourth Street Branch at Fourth and Arkansas—YOU DO NOT HAVE TO OPEN A NEW ACCOUNT. Banking at the Jackson Street or Fourth Street Branches is the same as coming in to the main office. You may transact your business one day at the Jackson Street Branch, the next day at the main office and the next day at the Fourth Street Branch —there's no difference.

FOR YOUR CONVENIENCE – NO PARKING WORRIES

If you want to make a deposit and do not wish to find a parking place downtown, simply drive in our parking lot, enter the branch, and make your deposit. It will be sent to our main office within a few hours and credited to your account the same day exactly as though you had made your deposit in the main office. If you do not wish to leave your car, you may drive up to the drive-in window instead.

FOR YOUR CONVENIENCE – USE OUR DRIVE-IN WINDOW

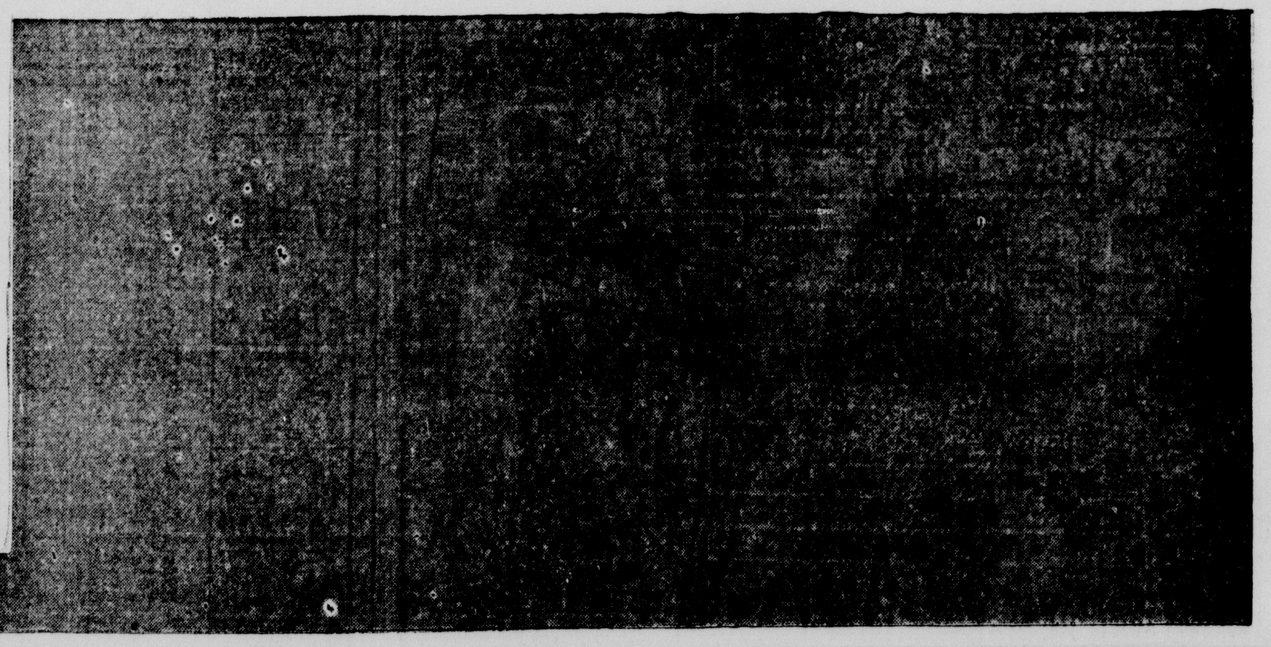

If you wish to cash a check, stop in our Jackson Street Branch or drive up to the drive-in window. We have a facsimile of your signature in the branch. Your check will go to the main office and be posted just as though you had cashed it there.

OUR DRIVE-IN BRANCHES OFFER COMPLETE BANKING SERVICES

You may use our Night-depository chute for after hour deposits, note payments, and any other bank mail matter.
You may use our regular night depository requiring usual bag and key.
You may negotiate loans, large or small, through our managers.
You may make payments on loans already made or make renewals at our branches.
You may buy bank orders, bank exchange, travelers checks, and E Bonds.
You may make deposits or withdrawals from your savings account or make your Christmas Club payments.

ALL TRANSACTIONS AT OUR JACKSON STREET AND FOURTH STREET BRANCH-ARE HANDLED JUST AS THOUGH YOU HAD WALKED INTO OUR MAIN OFFICE ON DESIARD AND ST. JOHN.

With reference to the mounting cost of food, a Monroe resident preacher recalls with amusement a time when a young man in Virginia acquired twelve frying-size chickens paying for each $58.33!!

A woman living on a farm near Lynchburg raised a dozen frying size chickens. Someone broke into the henhouse and stole them all. The next day the woman found the chickens missing but she found on the floor of the henhouse a purse which contained $700. She kept the purse and said nothing about the theft of the chickens.

A few days later a young man came and wanted to buy her farm, saying he had heard it was for sale. He asked permission to look over the place and she consented, but said that she was busy and would just let him go where he pleased. He spent a long time inspecting the henhouse and she watched him from the window. He finally went away without speaking to her again.

Then she advertised the purse requesting the owner to call in person and identify his property and explain how it happened to be lost in her henhouse. She reportedly in unchallenged possession of the money and has since boasted that she got the all-time top price for one dozen common barn - yard chickens.

Shortly after 3 p. m. today, summer will fade into autumn according to the almanac, and only the memory of a summer that seemed to many to break all heat records will remain. Football games, frosty nights, leaves turning all sorts of rainbow colors and falling profusely to the ground, will be the regular expectation. Well it's fine that we do have changes of season for how monotonous it would be to have summer or winter all the time.

Down in South America and other places south of the equator, a winter is ending and spring is being welcomed. Just read this dispatch of the Associated Press out of Buenos Aires, Argentina: "Argentine school children today got off to take part in fiesta parades — in this part of the world it was the first day of spring and it was given official celebration.

"Art shows, poetry reading and carriage processions with pretty senoritas in period gowns were part of the observance. The weatherman cooperated. After a cold wave the temperature stood at 70 degrees."

Minden is to have a radio station, states Ven Marshall, of Shreveport, who is to serve as general maager.

Marshall said the station, to be owned and operated by the Parish Bradcasting Co., of which Mrs. Anita P. Kirsch of Shreveport is the principal stockholder, will be Minden's only commissioned radio station. The call letters will be KAPK.

The 100-watt KAPK will begin operations in approximately 60 days, he disclosed, and will broadcast from 6 a. m. to 11 p. m. daily on 1240 kilocycles. He added that an application to operate on a power of 250 watts already has been made to the federal communications commission.

Negotiations also are in progress with the American Broadcasting Co. for ABC network programs and KAPK will broadcast news from the wires of the Associated Press.

J. Arthur Smith, Jr., special agent for the Prudential Company of America in Monroe, has qualified for one of the highest honors awarded by the firm — a trip to Palm Beach, Fla., for an annual business conference October 5 and 6.

Mr. Smith is one of 299 Prudential agents among thousands in the United States, Canada and Hawaii who will make the trip.

Energetic young women of the D. B. S. sorority outclassed all their seniors when they contributed from their own savings a total of $100 in cash for the cancer drive. Fine young women, and they are early in life starting out on a program of helpfulness and generosity. Incidentally, too, their gift was larger than any other that was received here in the campaign.

L. C. Grimsley has opened his dance studio in a new location, 1004 Riverside at the corner of Louisville avenue. He has been teaching for six years in surrounding towns but will now devote his time to Monroe exclusively. He is a graduate of the University of the Arts of Hollywood; charter member of Dancers Internationale; and member of Ballet Arts in New York city.

Veterans of World War II and those serving in Korea, will receive free instruction if their children are enrolled in classes. Mothers also will be similarly instructed cost free. Children in tap and ballet will receive ballroom and jitterbug instruction.

There will be dance routines taught from teachers such as Nick Castle, who taught dances for the movie "Royal Wedding"; Leroy Prinz, Gene Nelson, newest screen discovery; Lola Montes, Johnny Mattison, Alexandria Danilova, "Star of the Ballet" and many others. These pictures are on display in the studio.

Three of the Red planes were listed as damaged before the Communists retired to the safety of Manchuria. No U. S. losses were reported.

The U. S. Far-East air forces said, however, that in the past three months, June 21 to September 20, 55 Allied planes had been shot down by Red ground forces. Losses included 40 fighter - bombers on frontline support missions.

In the same period, the FEAF stated, 56 Red MIGs have been shot down or damaged in air fights.

Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway's Tokyo headquarters reported September 4 that the Reds had assembled more than 1,000 fighters, light bombers and ground-attack planes in Manchuria, were improving airfields in Manchuria and North Korea, and had a large force of Caucasian technicians and engineers from Soviet satellite countries.

On the battlefront, American infantrymen twice stormed up the bloody slopes of "Heartbreak Ridge" in eastern Korea Saturday —only to be hurled back each time.

The renewed assaults on the bitterly-disputed ridgeline north of Yanggu marked the major reported action on the mountainous battlefront.

There was an absence of reports of action in central Korea, where powerful Allied armored columns stabbed into the old Communist iron triangle Friday only to withdraw at nightfall.

In far northwest Korea—along "MIG alley"—119 American and Communist swept-wing jet fighters tangled in what probably was history's biggest jet air battle.

Only three Russian - type MIG-15 jets were reported damaged. The dog-fight lasting 25 minutes, involved 34 U. S. F-86 Sabrejets and 85 MIG-15s. The air force reported no U. S. losses.

The damage claims were made by 1st Lt. Arthur O'Conner of St. Joseph, Mo., 1st Lt. Raymond C. Barton of Augusta, Ga., and 2nd Lt. Eugene Conley of Akron, Ohio.

O'Connor gave this description of part of the swirling battle, which ranged from 37,000 feet to 20,000 feet:

"I was sitting up in the sun looking for MIGs when two of them came from the south heading for home. I got on the tail of one and fired some short bursts.

"There was an explosion in his tail pipe, where the bullets hit, but he kept on going."

The new dogfight coincided with a report by the Far East air forces that 56 MIG-15s had been shot down or damaged from June 21 to Sept. 20. FEAF reported that in the same 90-day period, Red ground forces had shot down 55 Allied warplanes, including 40 fighter - bombers used for close support for U. N. ground forces.

The fighting on "heartbreak ridge" was the 11th consecutive day of bitter contest for that four-mile series of crags dominating the Red supply route on the Yanggu sector.

The Americans pushed off their first attack at 6 a. m., in a chilly mist.

Up the rocky, barren sides of the highest peaks, they blasted their way foot by foot with grenades and rifle fire.

As they attacked, other bayonet-wielding Allied infantry hit the northern slope.

Gen. James A. Van Fleet eighth army commander, toured the eastern front Saturday accompanied by Maj. Gen. Frank H. Everest, commanding general of the fifth air force, whose planes have been giving the infantry close support whenever the weather permitted.

AP Correspondent Stan Carter said Van Fleet made no statement, but seemed well pleased.

TREND IS TOWARD

of government power as did the mandatory "directives" of labor dispute settlements handed down by the former war labor board during World War II.

The present wage board, as was the former war labor board, is made up of equal numbers of industry, labor and public members.

The branch of the government with the closest touch on trends in labor affairs and on the frequency and intensity of disputes is the federal mediation and conciliation service, whose staff trys to assist feuding employers and unions to settle their differences voluntarily.

Cyrus S. Ching, the agency's director, said in an interview that labor troubles seem to be growing both in number and in degree. He said union demands appear to be getting steeper, and the resistance of employers stiffening.

Veteran labor trouble-shooters on Ching's staff report that there is a fast-growing disposition on the part of many employers and unions to spend very little time at collective bargaining and try to push their dispute up to the wage board.

The board also has the powers to arbitrate, or make a binding settlement of a dispute, if an employer and union agree to that course. But arbitration is a private business of many labor experts, and the wage stabilization board has no disposition to perform widespread arbitration services for free.

Earlier this month Mr. Truman invoked the wage board powers to recommend dispute settlement terms for the first time when he sent the board two serious cases in the copper mining and refining industry. Last night the White House announced the board was being asked to do the same for the strike-threatened brass fabricating industry.

This course is one way the government can avoid big strikes hampering defense production because the wage board has a standing rule that it won't consider a case while a strike is in progress. A union will usually call off a strike to let the board consider its case.

Employers and unions, too, see advantages to getting the wage board recommend dispute settlement terms.

Unions often believe they can get more money out of board recommendations than they would by direct dealing with an employer. The unions know they have a toe in the door anyway with the board's labor members.

ceipt books and all givers should ask for a receipt."

Campaign leaders expressed the hope that tonight's event will "more than make up the difference between funds now on hand and the quota," pointing out that Ouachita parish last year contributed more than $9,000 to be used in the fight against cancer.

All Monroe and West Monroe churches have been asked to observe today as "Cancer Memorial Sunday," with a portion of the services to be devoted to prayers for divine guidance in the effort to control cancer. Mrs. C. K. Crandall, chairman of vounteer services for the local unit of the cancer society, said, "We truly believe tha all of us engaged in cancer control work — whether we are here in Monroe or in a laboratory in New York—need the prayers of our fellow citizens and for that reason, we have asked our ministers to co-operate with and help us."

Urging all residents of the Twin Cities to join in "Lights On," tonight, Weks explained that 60 per cent of all funds collected "remain here in Louisiana to help carry on our own program." Twenty-five per cent, he pointed out, is dedicated to research and the remaining 15 per cent is used in the preparation of educational material, such as films, and for administrative and field services.

If "Lights On" is successful, he added, tonight will conclude the two - weeks campaign. Otherwise volunteers will continue their efforts for one week to reach the quota. "But," he added, "we believe tonight will do it.

Those in charge of the campaign state that the largest donation received has been $100 for which they are deeply thankful. Especially do they desire to thank the young women, members of the D. B. S. sorority, for this sum.

Mayors of both Monroe and West Monroe have issued special proclamations urging that today be observed here as elsewhere as Cancer Memorial Sunday. Their proclamations recite the fact that countless men, women and children are being caused untold agony and lives are claimed by this most dreaded disease.

The public is urged to respond with their cash which will be devoted to the work of scientists who are fighting to end this most terrible of all scourges that afflicts humanity.

Doesn't Tell Girl Father Is Killed

For two hours 14 of Judy Anderton's friends helped her celebrate her seventh birthday—and not a one let out the dark secret.

But those flowers that decorated her mother's apartment weren't sent to Judy, as she thought. They were for her mother, who smiled and blinked back the tears.

Judy doesn't know it yet — but her father army 1st Lt. Horace Bert Anderton, was killed in Korea Sept. 2, the day she came down with polio.

Mrs. Anderton was told of his death last week. But she decided not to spoil Judy's fun — the party invitations had already been sent. She withheld the news.

She held back her emotions today as she gave Judy a big day. She directed the party briskly and cheerfully.

The party games went over big. Judy took only two tries to blow out the candles on the cake decorated with roses and cowboy dolls.

And there were dolls and clothes and money and all sorts of toys. But the finest gift came early — a Japanese mandarin robe sent by her daddy.

As the party ended, Mrs. Anderton said she probably wouldn't tell Judy the bad news until she is completely recovered. She hopes that won't be long.

Although she is up and around, Judy is treated every day except Saturday and Sunday. That's why the party was held today instead of Thursday, her birthday.

Mayor Of N. Y. In 1932 Dies

New York, Sept. 22.—(AP)—John P. O'Brien, 78, former New York City mayor and long - time Tammany leader, died tonight.

O'Brien, who rode into the mayoralty in 1932 on the greatest plurality ever given a candidate, suffered an attack of pneumonia about six months ago.

He had been under the care of a physician since then.

He had the misfortune to follow Jimmy Walker into city hall and went out of office a year after taking over with the smallest percentage of the vote a Tammany candidate had received since the incorporation of the greater city.

N. E. FRATERNITY SLATES PROGRAM

Three Main Events Include Dance, Dinner and Smoker For Week

Sigma Alpha Chi fraternity at Northeast Louisiana State will open rush week on Wednesday, announced Buster Crowley, president.

Three main events, which are included in the printed invitations, are a dance on the above date at the Southside, dinner at the Rendezvous on September 27 at 7:30 p.m., and a smoker in the home of Joe Monroe on Speed avenue, Sunday, September 30 at 8 p.m. The dinner and smoker are stag affairs.

Sigma Alpha Chi was organized last year, the first time that the local college has permitted social fraternities as a part of campus life.

The group included in the 1950-51 program both formal and informal activities. One of the most elaborate features was the Christmas ball sponsored jointly by Sigma Alpha Chi and Alpha Theta Chi, the other social fraternity at Northeast State.

A spring formal on the Cherokee Terrace at the Frances Hotel and several informal affairs rounded out a full year of social events. The group also assisted in various college projects.

Officers of the organization besides Crowley include: Brooks Sellers, vice-president; Chris Gatzoulas, recording secretary; Bobby Joe Jackson, corresponding secretary; Rex Pensinger, treasurer; Joe Monroe, historian, and Harry Hubenthal, sergeant-at-arms.

Miss Mary Elizabeth Meredith, Monroe sophomore, wears the title of Sigma Alpha Chi "sweetheart." Fraternity sponsors comprise: Misses Cynthia Guyton, Robertine Parker, Elizabeth Ann Doane and Jane Wallace.

VALVE-IN-HEAD ENGINES Both the 92-h.p. Thriftmaster and the big 105-h.p. Loadmaster are valve-in-head design for greater stamina, outstanding performance.

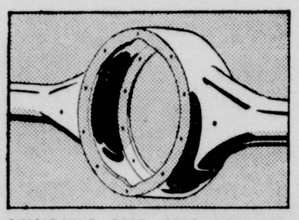

SPECIAL 4-WAY ENGINE LUBRICATION Metered pressure, direct pressure, vapor spray and pressure stream provide finer lubrication, longer engine life.

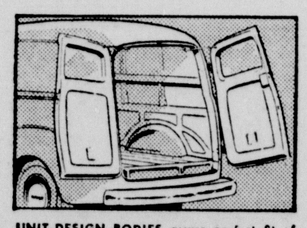

HYPOID REAR AXLES Lower tooth pressures, stronger gear tooth sections and larger number of teeth in contact make Chevrolet hypoid rear axles extra rugged.

SINGLE-UNIT REAR AXLE HOUSINGS Forged from one-piece tubular steel beams. No bolts to loosen, no joints under the "load" which might leak oil.

UNIT-DESIGN BODIES assure perfect fit of each separate unit for greater sturdiness, longer life. Cabs are double-walled, all welded.

Irene Dunne Helps With Party For 150 Orphans

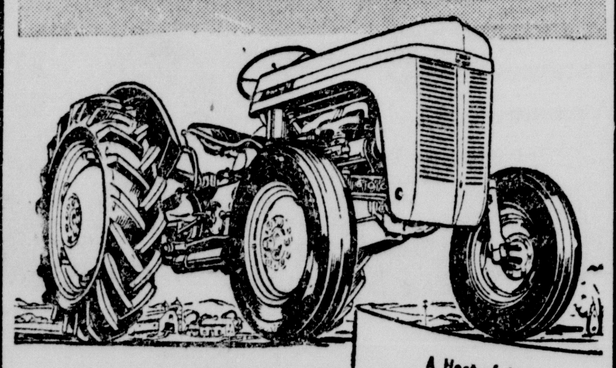

Luxembourg, Sept. 22. —(AP)— Actress Irene Dunne helped U. S. Minister Perle Mesta give a party for about 150 local orphans today.

She helped serve the kids cakes and soft drinks and distribute small presents.

The party was given on the legation lawn. The actress is spending the week - end as Mrs. Mesta's guest before going on to Copenhagen and Stockholm.

Many buoys used to mark obstructions at sea have had to be redesigned to make them more visible on radar screens.

give campaign funds.

Other candidates who placed their vote appeals before the Acadian country crowd were:

Miss Lucille May Grace of Baton Rouge, Harrison Bagwell, a Republican candidate, of Baton Rouge; U. S. Rep. Hale Boggs of New Orleans, State Sen. Dudley LeBlanc of Abbeville, Judge Robert Kennon of Minden: James McLemore of Alexandria, and State Sen. A. O. Rappelet of Houma.

It was a full scale invasion of the fiery, French - speaking LeBlanc's hometown.

LeBlanc had political signs posted. McLemore kept a plane buzzing in the sky hauling the sign "Vote McLemore."

Various officials smiled when a drizzling rain vanished as the political show was scheduled to begin. A shining sun broke through clouds, but a few minutes after the last candidate spoke a thunder - filled downpour drove off the crowd.

Miss Grace hit at Boggs as "a part and parcel of the Truman administration."

She demanded of all candidates "who have not come out in a clear-cut statement, "to say whether they are for Americanism or for socialism.

Boggs, she declared, sat in on the conclave of Truman leaders, voted 13 times for the Truman administration.

The congressman earlier had said he and U. S. Sen. Russell Long, who is backing Boggs, would tour the state in an attempt to get the people together. He said "we must bury the hatreds and animosities."

Miss Grace commented:

"They better get the Longs together before they come and tell us about getting together."

Boggs talked mostly of his platform, then added:

"You've had a lot of fake issues injected and you'll probably hear a lot more. It's time for candidates to stand on their own feet and their won program and not on the merits of somebody else's program."

"I'm proud I've been able to establish a record as a representative of the people in Washington," he said.

On national politics, Boggs said "if I go back to the national Democratic convention I will support the responsible leaders of the south."

Bagwell joined Dodd to strike a blow at campaign contributions by state employes.

"I would like to see it made a criminal offense," Bagwell said, "for any administration or any candidate to extort contributions from any state employe.

"The idea of calling the contributions voluntary is just a figment of imagination."

Bagwell termed deducts "just another sign of the political immorality we have in Louisiana."

As Senator LeBlanc began to talk, in English "because the press is present," pretty girls in low-cut gowns walked by seeking their places on parade floats. Whistles broke from the crowd.

The senator, who plans to launch a caravan in Lake Charles tomorrow to promote his candidacy with the same showmanship that he used to sell Hadacol, introduced Jack Dempsey.

The former heavyweight champion told the throng, "I don't want you people to think I'm down here to tell you who to vote for. I know all these candidates are fine people."

LeBlanc then said "you probably read that I have sold my business." He said buyers had audited his patent medicine business before they took over "and obviously thought it was in very sound condition."

"Now about this government tax lien," he continued, speaking rapidly. "If they did not believe I was the outstanding candidate in this race there never would have been a government lien against the business." He did not elaborate.

Turning to face other speakers on the platform, LeBlanc smiled, said "now I am going to talk in French and I assure you I won't say an unkind word about you. ... Heh, heh!

He told his listeners in French, according to an interpreter, "in the past you voted for people who promised you the sun and moon. You ought to put a Cajun governor in the office."

Judge Kennon, in his talk, promised "if I'm elected governor, I'm going to cut taxes, cut out graft and corruption.

"We've got a nine-cent gasoline tax," he said. "I'll take off two cents, save you fifty to sixty dollars each."

Kennon, speaking of the dairy industry, described it as "a pot plant" industry in Louisiana — meaning it can only grow so far. He bitterly criticized the state department of commerce and industry for not helping, saying:

"The department hasn't done anything but put big four page ads in the New York Times and hasn't spent two-bits on your dairy industry."

Kennon said "there is not a condensed - milk plant in Louisiana but there are two in Mississippi. Tupelo businessmen conducted a $20,000 campaign to get a milk plant for their city.

"If I am elected governor of this state, we will use about $30,000 of commerce and industry department money to help build a milk plant in this state."

Without mentioning Mississippi's "balance agriculture with industry" program, in his revised text, Kennon drew some comparisons between Louisiana and Mississippi in the development of industry with agriculture.

McLemore, like Kennon cut down on a prepared text. He said "professional politicians are falling all over themselves and each other in the grab for power and the political pie that is to be served around."

McLemore expressed determination to free the state "of parasites who are retarding its growth while sucking it dry of every cent they can get their hands on."

When Rappelet spoke, he told his audience "you in this area have been sold down the river. — Certain sections of the state have reaped benefits but you have been left out."

He rattled out a stream of figures on recent highway contracts "to show your money is being squandered — you don't get it."

KING GEORGE

taph.

The nature of the king's ailment remained a mystery to the British people, to whom the sovereign is a magnet for their patriotism as well as a symbol for his ideals and devotion to duty.

The word "cancer" cropped up speculatively when doctors and lung specialists around the country tried to interpret the vague medical bulletins which have mentioned "structural changes" in the king's lungs.

Medical people, however, said there was as much reason to believe that the disease might be an abscess of the lung or a narrowing and obstructing of the bronchial tubes.

A tuberculosis specialist was on the panel of royal physicians, but outside doctors were not inclined to believe that the king is a victim of tuberculosis.

One possibility was that the doctors had been unable to make a diagnosis from X-ray pictures and bronchoscopic examinations and planned an exploratory operation to see what is wrong.

It was recalled that the king's father, the late King George V, died of a lung affliction in 1936 at the age of 71. He underwent an operation in December, 1928, to drain pus from a lung and his life was prolonged eight years. Two ribs were removed and an abscess drained in a second operation in July, 1929.

The bulletins from King George VI's doctors have not made it possible, however, to infer whether there is any similarity between his affliction and that of his father.

Those who suggested cancer as a possibility said the royal surgeons may be planning to amputate the ailing lung.

The watching crowds began to gather outside the palace at 6 a.m. Mounted policemen kept paths open for red-coated palace guards, but the onlookers were calm. Hundreds of thousands kept their radios tuned for the latest bulletins.

Most newspapers suggested that a council of state, made up of royalty, should be formed to deputize for the monarch at necessary functions.

There also were editorial suggestions that Princess Elizabeth and her husband, the Duke of Edinburgh, should make the scheduled visit to Australia next year, in place of the sick king. The royal pair have cancelled plans to sail Tuesday for a Canadian tour and visit to Washington, D. C., and are planning to fly to Quebec by Oct. 2 to make the tour.

Negro Is Killed In Accident

A Negro woman was fatally injured and her husband seriously injured in an automobile-truck wreck early Saturday morning near Calhoun. The woman died soon after arriving at the St. Francis Sanitarium.

The couple, identified as A. P. and Theria Johnson of Oakland, Calif., were traveling to Monroe to visit his relatives.

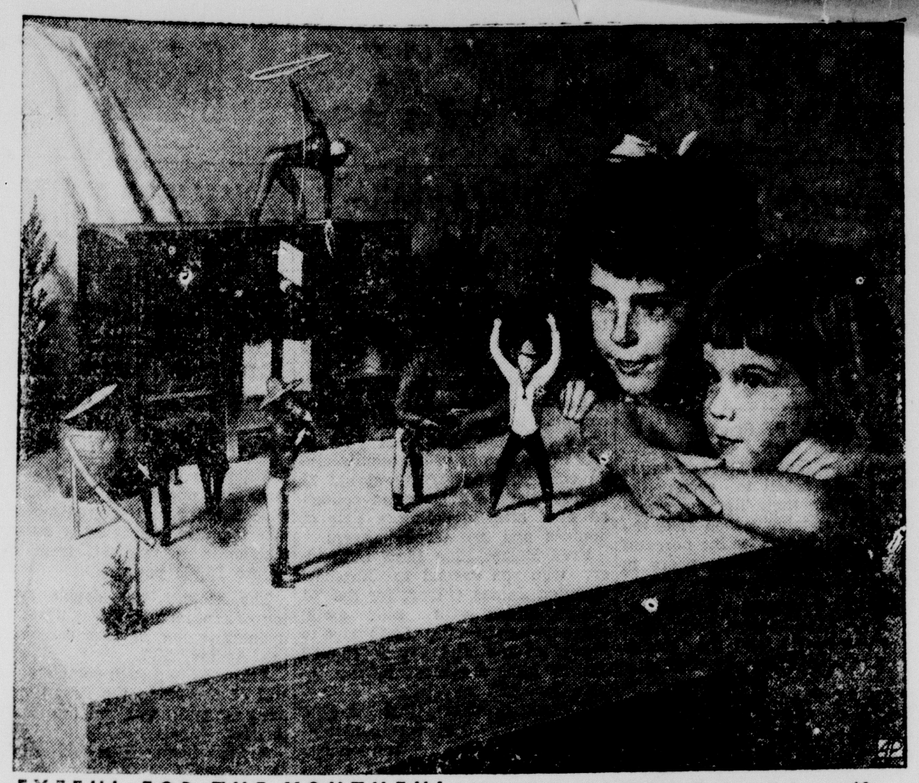

It had not been determined late last night if the driver of the truck was injured.

Dr. J. T. French, Ouachita parish coroner, said details of the accident were not available since there were no witnesses other than the persons involved. The automobile which the Negro woman was driving, a 1951 Buick, collided with a truck owned by the Ouachita Baking Company of Monroe.

Doctor French reported that preliminary investigation led to the belief that the woman had fallen asleep and the right wheels of the car had gone off the pavement onto the shoulder of the highway. When she attempted to bring it back onto the road, she lost control and the two vehicles collided.

Johnson was on the back seat of the automobile asleep and was unable to give officers very much information. Exact time of the accident was unknown, but Doctor French said from the statements of Johnson, it was believed to have occurred about 5 a.m.

Johnson was in the St. Francis Sanitarium with a fractured right leg and bruises and lacerations. Theria Johnson's death was attributed to head injuries and a crushed chest.

injured between 20 and 25 persons yesterday.

The flare had been left to warn pedestrians on a sidewalk construction project.

A coroner's inquest will be held next Saturday.

Owners of the wrecked homes turned sadly to the task of salvaging something from the destruction. They faced a damage bill that may climb close to the $1,000,000-mark.

Cordons of local and neighboring police, augmented by civil defense volunteers and air police from Sampson Air Force base, gave what help they could.

Just before the blasts, which began about 12:30 p. m. (EST), an eight - year-old girl called her father at work and told him the gas was leaking into the basement. William Maas, Jr., told his daughter Anne, to turn off the gas completely.

"I tried to and it won't stop," she cried.

She hung up the phone. Seconds later, an explosion tore the house to shreds. Mary Anne and her four - year-old brother, William III, were killed.

The other victim was Mrs. Louis A. Meyer, 77, who died of a heart attack as she was being carried from her house on a couch.

Of the injured persons, only three were hospitalized. None was reported in serious condition.

Notables in public and private life and stars of the entertainment world will appear in the New York portions, running to 3 p. m., EST. That entire four - hour portion will go to the west coast.

The Columbia Broadcasting System, which is staging the program, will feature the crusade for freedom in its regular telecasts through the remainder of the evening.

At 10:15 p. m., EST, Hollywood will go coast - to-coast the first time with appearances by an array of film stars and others, including Bob Crosby, Marie Wilson, Rosemary Clooney, William Bendix, J. Carroll Naish and Ginny Sims. After about 45 minutes, the program returns to New York.

Ed Sullivan will be master of ceremonies for eastern portions of the program and Art Linkletter for the Hollywood portion.

Although staged by CBS, it has been made available to other networks on a pool basis. The American Broadcasting Co. will carry the noon to 3:30 and 10:15 to 11 p. m. portions. The National Broadcasting Co. will carry the 11 a. m. to 3 p. m. portion for its affiliates in Salt Lake City, San Francisco, Los Angeles and San Diego.

The American Telephone and Telegraph Co. agreed to set up a coast - to-coast hookup for the show over its transcontinental microwave radio relay system five days in advance of the scheduled opening date. Regular commercial video service over the link starts next Friday.

Premier Of Italy Makes U. S. Speech

Detroit, Sept. 22. —(AP)— The defense of western civilization, Premier Alcide De Gasperi of Italy said tonight, "must be viewed not only in terms of soldiers and guns but also of a higher standard of living and social welfare."

Signore De Gasperi expressed this conviction in a speech prepared for delivery at a banquet in his honor organized by the Detroit citizens' committee with the cooperation of the foreign policy association. He spoke in English for broadcast over a national network. (NBC 9:30 p. m. EST).

The premier paid tribute to the European recovery program and said its effects "would have been even greater if our attention had not been turned towards the requirements of common defense."

"Even before the Communist menace had revealed its aims in the attack on southern Korea," he said, "we had to take measures to defend against its assault the advantages we had gained from the Marshall plan."

That, he said was the objective of the Atlantic Alliance "founded on the ideals of international solidarity and the use of all the resources of the member nations for the peaceful development of their free institutions and the promotion of economic collaboration and general welfare."

"But, it must be borne in mind," he continued, "that defense requirements must be viewed not only in terms of soldiers and guns but also of a higher standard of living and social welfare.

"We have productive capacity in manpower — our unemployed and our shipyards that lie idle — that could be put to use. If it is not put to use it means discontent at home and a weakened social and economic position which is of great help to the aggressor before he decides to attack from the outside."

For the economic ills of separate countries, Signor De Gasperi said, "There can be no solution outside international co-operation."

"There can be no question of watertight compartments," he added. "Disaster in one country must sooner or later spread to another, and that is why European unity is in this sense a necessity.

"Yes, full employment is our aim to, not for one country alone but for all. But before we can hope for full employment everywhere, we must achieve another slogan: full cooperation."

By this, the premier said, he meant "political and economic cooperation and cooperation in the field of labor."

Thus he summed up the position taken by many of the smaller European countries at the Ottawa conference of the Atlantic council, a position of which Italy was one of the leading exponents.

The main for clearing the still clouded international horizon, he added, lies in "the patient, persevering, selfless practice in the international field of one of the finest among Christian virtues; the virtue of solidarity."

"Surely we must be able — if we are determined and if we have the help of your American efficiency and good will," he concluded, "to set up a staunch defense against aggression and war."

SOUTHEASTERN SOCKS NORTHEAST, 33 TO 0

INDIAN DEFENSE CRACKS BEFORE MIGHT OF LIONS

Statistics Show Tighter Game Than Final Score Indicates

After a quarter and a half of hard fought football, the Northeast State College defense wilted before the Southeastern Lions here last night, and the Hammond visitors rolled over the Redskins to the tune of 33 to 0 before approximately 3,500 customers although threatening rain probably spoiled a full house.

The loss came with about a dozen Indians, their eligibility questioned, out of uniform, but the Redskins defense that held S. L. I. so close a week ago was in the game intact but minus the rocky stands it showed against the Bulldogs.

The Lions flashed several speedy backs with Ridley Boudreaux accounting for two touchdowns, one on a 75-yard punt return; Raymond Billings going for two, one on a pass from Gary Holcomb; and little Elden Shuff getting the other. Holcomb made one conversion, and Don Lambert converted twice.

Statistics showed a harder fought game than the score indicated. Each team rolled for twelve first downs. Northeast rushed for 169 yards and got 57 passing for a total gain of 226 yards. Southeastern ran for 225, passed for 25 and a total of 250.

The Indians looked like the best club in the first quarter in going for three first downs against none for the Lions, but it was another story in the second quarter as Southeastern cracked the Redskin defense for three touchdowns and eight first downs.

Northeast marched 54 yards in its first quarter show, but the Lions stalled their hosts on the Southeastern 33. The Lions got possession on their 45 as the quarter came to a close, and then began the march that brought their first touchdown. Ridley Boudreaux, Elden Shuff and Gary Holcomb slashed the Tribe line and skirted its ends in a drive for three firsts to the Redskin 12. Boudreaux and Holcomb picked up seven yards in two plays. The Lions drew a five-yard penalty for delay, putting the ball on the ten from where Boudreaux took a pitchout and skirted right end for the touchdown. Lambert's kick for the point was low, but Northeast was offsides, and the Lions got another chance. This time Lambert ran the ball over.

A couple of minutes later a Northeast fumble was recovered by End Bill Callery for the Lions and the Hammond club was on the march again from the Tribe 31. Boudreaux, Shuff, and Lambert speared a drive to the 21. Then Raymond Billings broke free on a right end sweep to go all the way. Lambert kicked the point.

The Lions staged an 80-yard march for their third touchdown that gave them a 20-0 edge at the half. The drive was packed into a three-first down attack, featuring a 14-yard Holcomb to Vaughan Thomas pass, to the Indian 18. Boudreaux got seven at right end. The Lions drew a five-yard offsides penalty, putting the ball back on the 16 from where Holcomb passed to Billings for the touchdown. Lambert's kick was low.

Penalties cost the Lions two touchdowns in the third quarter. Once Holcomb fired a pass to F. O. Chaney from his own 45 and Chaney went all the way only to have his touchdown nullified when his mates were charged with illegal use of the hands. A few moments later Billings got away on a 51-yard touchdown run, but it was erased by a clipping penalty.

Early in the final period Boudreaux intercepted an Indian pass and ran it back about 45 yards to the Indian 12. Shuff got seven off tackle. A Northeast offsides penalty put the ball on the one for a first down. Shuff cracked the middle for the touchdown, but he missed the kick for the point.

Boudreaux's long punt return brought the Lions their fifth touchdown with less than five minutes to play. He gathered in a Harry Hubenthal punt on his own 25 and raced all the way untouched. Holcomb hit the middle for the point and that was the ball game.

WINNSBORO WINS OVER NEWELLTON

Wildcats Follow Eugene Southern In 21-6 Victory Over Bears

Winnsboro, Sept. 22.—(Special) — The Winnsboro Wildcats smeared the Newellton Bears here last night, 21 to 6.

Eugene Southern, the Wildcat's quarterback, was the outstanding player for his team. Running behind exceptionally good blocking, he scored two touchdowns, one on an 80 - yard punt return after taking off the ball to a teammate.

Billy Smith, Winnsboro back, scored the first TD of the game on a 52 - yard run through right tackle. The conversion was made by Southern, who ran all three conversions over the goal.

Newellton scored by recovering a fumble in the end zone. Buddy Emfinger, substitute end, recovered the ball after Donald Kees, Newellton tackle, blocked a Wildcat punt.

The Wildcats completed eight first downs, gained 184 yards from the scrimmage line, tried two passes and completed one, with one pass intercepted and lost 45 yards on penalties.

Newellton collected five first downs, gained 78 yards, tried eight passes and completed three, with one intercepted, and lost 13 yards on penalties.

Lake Providence Defeats Ferriday

Lake Providence, Sept. 22.—(Special)— Lake Providence High School blanked Ferriday High School here last night, 12 to 0.

Highlight of the game was a pass from Trischman to Clements that was good for a 49-yard touchdown gain. In the third quarter, Fortenberry picked up a Ferriday fumble and galloped 62 yards for the final score.

Outstanding Ferriday players were Fullback Marks, and End Grier.

Score by quarters:

Scoring touchdowns — Lake Providence; Clements, Fortenberry.

Tim Lucia, rookie halfback with the Detroit Lions, scored a touchdown in 1948 for the University of Louisville on a 102 - yard run.

Monroe's Carl Tucker Was Leading Hitter Of Cotton States Playoffs

Big Stick Swingers Of Regular Season Had Bat Trouble In Series

By J. P. Friend

Blytheville, Ark., Sept. 22—(Special) — Cotton States League batters who failed to crash the headlines for their bat prowess during the regular season stole the show right from under the noses of their illustrious plate peers in the Shaughnessy playoffs.

Of the seven hitters who finished the post season series within the select .300 circle, and the leader who clouted a lofty .429 clip, only two graced the ultra - swat list at the close of the championship race.

Carl Tucker, who wound up with a non-too-impressive .272 in season play for the Champion Monroe Sports, led the hitting parade with .429 in six games of his team's seven contests. Appearing at bat 21 times, the third baseman collected nine hits, including a pair of doubles and two three baggers.

Fred Boiko, Pine Bluff outfielder, who ran second to Natchez' slugging James Gilbert for the '51 batting crown with .345, again played second fiddle. In 50 trips to the plate the Judge star rapped out 20 hits, the most in the series, for .400.

Running third was Pat Lorenzo, Natchez outfielder, and outdoubtedly the hero of the tremendous Indian romp, with .367. The Cuban's chart showed 49 - 18, with two doubles, five triples — the most — two home runs for 36 total bases, far ahead of the rest. He batted in 10 runs, most of them coming in key games and at crucial points. Lorenzo batted only .248 during the season.

Skipper Jorge Torres (.260) of the winning Natchez crew not only amassed the fourth highest average, .341 in 12 games — 41-14—but hurled the victory over Monroe that forced their series the full distance. Bob Richards (.282), Pine Bluff manager, shared the No. 5 spot with rival pilot Al Mazur (.232) of Monroe, each with .333. Richards appeared in but four games, twice as many as Mazur, Mike Napoli, Greenwood's bonus catcher who batted but .235 in the regular season, came into his own with .318, two points ahead of Rosey (Ben) Cantrell, Pine Bluff old pro. The defending batting champion, Cantrell, finished the 140 - game race with .303, as compared to .363 when he carried off the 1950 batting championship.

Only 12 other batters were able to hit better than .200 and less than .300. The list, which includes only regular performers and no pitchers: Bob Hamric, (.245), Monroe, .296; George Ruzina (.336), Natchez, .294; Al DeLuca (.252), Pine Bluff, .293; Arnie Martinez (.283), Natchez .292; Carl Tumlinson (.319), Greenwood, .241; Bob Bonebrake (.231), Greenwood, .241; Jimmie Nelson (.333), Natchez, .240; Gilbert, (the champion who batted .352), Natchez, .222; Pete Konyar (.288), Pine Bluff, .222; George Andrews (249), Monroe, .214; and Steve Molinari (275), Pine Bluff, .205.

Molinari, who blasted 24 home runs during the season, hit three in 12 games of the extra series. Kinyar, the leader with 27, rapped two, along with Al DeLuca, a mate, and Lorenzo. Ruzina batted in the most runs, 11.

Al Heuser, Natchez, (8-7) won three games and lost one to top the pitchers, in wins. Bill Black (20-10) had 2-1 for Pine Bluff, the same as Don Rodd (16-9) posted for Natchez. Vachel Perkins (22-9) broke even in four decisions. Torres and Al Point, Monroe, won their only starts. Bill Crawford copped his two outings for Greenwood. Perkins fanned 39 in 42 1-3 innings.

Winnfield Organizes Grid Team For Elementary Boys

Winnfield, La., Sept. 22.—(Special)— The Winnfield "Pee Wee" football team, sponsored by local merchants and drawing its talent from 40 boys in elementary school here, has a six-game schedule on tap for its first season in this type of atheltic activity.

Home games will be with Hodge, Oct. 11; Jonesboro, Oct. 18; and Ruston, Oct. 22. Games on the road will be with Ruston, Sept. 25; Jonesboro, Oct. 4; and Hodge, Nov. 1. Games at home will be played at night. Those away are billed for the afternoon.

It is estimated that about 1,000 U. S. children lose the sight of an eye each year because of play with dangerous toys.

Simsboro, Ansley To Decide Series

Jonesboro, La., Sept. 22.—(Special)— The championship of the Jackson-Bienville Baseball League will be settled Sunday at Fraser Field in Ruston when Simsboro and Ansley meet in the second game of their final series. Simsboro won the series opener, 8-7, at Ansley last Sunday. Should Ansley win tomorrow, the two clubs will immediately turn their show into a double-header to decide the series.

A substitute left fielder, Frank Cox, sparked the Simsboro win in the series opener by driving in the winning run with a tenth inning single. Cox hit three for three, scored twice, and drove in three runs. One of his hits was a triple.

Game time for Sunday's contest in 2:30 p.m. with a ptiching duel in prospect between Tony Jones of Simsboro and "Bub" Hails of Ansley.

Sportsmen's Club Will Have Spaghetti Supper At Jonesboro Tomorrow

Jonesboro, La., Sept. 22.—(Special)— The Jackson Parish Sportsmen's Club will entertain Monday night at 7:30 o'clock at the Jonesboro Elementary School with a chicken spaghetti supper.

Dr. J. L. Fowler with the zoology department of Louisiana Tech will be guest speaker and will have some interesting facts that will be of interest to every one.

Judge H. W. Ayres, Jonesboro, will also be a guest and will award the prizes for the winners of the club's Fishing Rodeo.

There has been numerous reports recently on "out of season" hunting. However, the latest reports are that the guns have slowed down some. Several special agents have been assigned to this area and one arrest was made in Chatham early last week.

Gil Hodges of the Brooklyn Dodgers has hit seven homers against the Pirates this season. All of them were at Forbes Field.

ARKANSAS ROUTS AGGIES, 42 TO 7

Razorbacks, Under Wraps, Use Every Player Available In Triumph

Stillwater, Okla., Sept. 22.—(AP)—Arkansas opened its 1951 football season today and showed mid-season form in smashing a smaller Oklahoma A. and M. team 42-7 before 25,000 persons.

The victory was double sweet for Arkansas, which was upset the opening game of last season by the Aggies, 12-7.

Arkansas had such complete control of the game the first time it had to punt was in the fourth quarter.

A fast, heavy line held A. and M. virtually stationary on the ground. The Aggies' bad kicking and numerous miscues added to the disaster.

Arkansas flashed a potent aerial attack that scored two touchdowns and set up a field goal. And Coach Otis Douglas kept his team under wraps as it showed its dominance in the first half. At the game's end, Arkansas had played everyone it brought.

The Aggies, hit by injuries, finished the game with two freshmen in the backfield.

Arkansas' six touchdowns were spread among as many different players — Jim Rinehart, Bill Jurney, Lamar McHan, Buddy Sutton, Pat Summerall and Jerry Bogard. Summerall also made a 15-yard field goal and George Thomason hit three conversions.

Arkansas scored the first time it got its hands on the ball with Rinehart going over from the five on a quarterback sneak to end a 40-yard drive. Summerall's field goal came at the end of the first quarter after the Aggies stopped a drive that carried to the one-foot line.

Rinehart passed to Jurney for 22-yard touchdown play four minutes after the start of the second quarter and two minutes later McHan went 81 yards for the longest touchdown run of the game.

Score by quarters:

Arkansas	9	14	13	6	—42
Oklahoma A&M	0	7	0	0	— 7

Arkansas scoring: Touchdowns—Rinehart, Jurney, McHan, Sutton, Summerall, Bogart. Conversions—Thomason 3. Field goal, Summerall.

Oklahoma A. and M. scoring: Touchdown — Shackleton. Conversion, Warren.

BAYOU BENGALS TRIP SOUTHERN

L. S. U. Looks Unimpressive In 13-0 Win Over Little Mississippi Team

Baton Rouge, La., Sept. 22.—(AP)—Louisiana State University—in a football game that was supposed to be a warm-up for high-scoring Alabama next week—stumbled to a 13-0 victory over "little" Mississippi Southern here tonight.

It wasn't that Mississippi Southern was so good. It was just a dull performance by L. S. U., whose Bayou Bengals meet Southeastern Conference foe Alabama September 29. Last night Alabama walloped Mississippi Delta State 89-0.

L. S. U. got nowhere through Mississippi Southern's line. The Gulf Coast Conference team ripped through L. S. U.'s forwards like a hot knife through butter. Passes set up both L. S. U. touchdowns, in the first and last quarters.

Desperate, L. S. U. even tried a field goal. Frosh Quarterback Cliff Springfield kicked from 30 yards out but it went wide and short. T - Quarterback Jim Barton, when his blockers held, passed accurately. He hit Ends Ed Bulliard and Warren Vigets mostly. Touchdowns came on four-yard - bucks both times, by Fullback Bill West and Halfback Leroy Labat. Springfield made one extra point from placement.

Score by periods:

Columbia Victor Over Start Owls

Columbia, La. Sept. 22.—(Special)—The Columbia Crimson Tide, playing heads-up ball, defeated the Start High School Owls, 21 to 6, here last night.

Hall put the Tide ahead with two touchdowns in the first quarter, one on a line buck and the other on an end run. The final Columbia TD came on a fourth quarter end run by Tarver. The Tide picked up two points on a safety when Wingert rushed the ball behind the goal line. Hall made one conversion.

Jonesboro-Hodge Defeats Minden

Jonesboro, Sept. 22. — (Special) —The Jonesboro - Hodge High School football team stomped the Minden High School team here tonight, 32 to 12.

Outstanding players for Jonesboro - Hodge were Travis Hall, who carried the ball for a score three different times, and Joe Hardison, who returned a kick-off for an 85 - yard touchdown run.

For Minden the outstanding player was Gayle Wise, who went over for both of Minden's touchdowns.

Hall made the first touchdown of the game on a 78 - yard touchdown run, and made two more runs, one 16 yards and the other eight yards, to bring his total number of points to 18 for the game.

Dean Walker made the last touchdown from the one - yard line after Donald Warner ran 24-yards to get the ball down that far.

High point of Minden's scoring was a 68 - yard pass and run play from Charles Miller to Gayle Wise, in the last quarter.

Rayville Topples Farmerville, 58-0

Rayville, La., Sept. 22.—(Special)— The Rayville Hornets trounced the Farmerville Farmers 58 to 0 in one of the most spectacular ball games played in northeast Louisiana this season.

The Rayville light - weight team rolled over the Farmers by displaying a well co-ordinated attack of passes and runs.

In first downs Rayville and Farmerville each made seven. The big thrill of the game was an 80-yard run by Harriett Captain Rainbolt in the second quarter. Rainbolt went on to hit the pay dirt three more times. Other touchdowns made by the Hornets were by H. Cumpton, T. Maxwell and C. Johns.

Rayville's head coach, M. R. Campbell, and assistant coach, Alex Pitale, both expressed confidence that the team would continue to give a good show on the gridiron, but did not promise a repetition of the high scoring game of last night.

The large Rayville band, headed by Harriett Nan Haley, drum major, paraded on Rayville's gridiron for the first time in many years at the half and presented a spectacular performance.

RED SOX MAUL YANKS; TIGERS DROP INDIANS

PARNELL TAMES BRONXITES, 5-0, ON FOUR-HITTER

Cleveland Fails As Detroit Triumphs, 9-4; Browns Dump Chisox

Boston, Sept. 22.—(AP)—The Boston Red Sox, behind the stylish pitching of Mel Parnell, defeated the New York Yankees, 5-0, today.

The blow to the Yanks was softened as the Cleveland Indians lost to the Detroit Tigers.

Despite the setback the Yanks remained 1½ games ahead of the runner - up Indians. The third place Red Sox moved to within four games of the Yanks. The Indians suffered a 9-4 beating at the hands of the Tigers in Detroit.

The Yanks have seven games left to play including six with the Red Sox while the Indians have only four games to play.

The 29 - year - old lefthander whipped dthe Yanks for the fourth time this season to square this important series. The Sox backed him up with a 12-hit blast at loser Ed Lopat, Johnny Sain and Bob Hogue.

Boston thus kept alive the faint flag hopes, trailing the Yanks by four games with only nine to play.

Three hits drove home all the runs — Dom DiMaggio's two-run double in the second, Billy Goodman's single in the third and Ted Williams' two-run triple off Sain in the sixth.

TIGERS BALK TRIBE

Detroit, Sept. 22. —(AP)— The Cleveland Indians muffed another big opportunity today as they bowed 9-4 to Detroit while the league-leading New York Yankees lost to Boston, 5-0.

Lefty Bob Cain delivered the crusher with a sterling four-hitter.

The rude jolt to Cleveland's chances today came in ignominous fashion, as the Tigers first bunted starter Bob Lemon into a working margin and then simply overpowered the jittery Tribe with a 15-hit attack.

Cain's nifty job had only one blemish, a two-run homer by Dale Mitchell in the third that gave the Tribe a brief 2-1 lead.

WILDLIFE UNIT MEETS TUESDAY

Report On Black Bayou Game Preserve Project Due To Be Made

The Ouachita unit of the Louisiana Wildlife Federation meets here Tuesday night in regular session with Clyde Nash, president, promising a report on the unit's plans to establish a game preserve in Ouachita parish.

Nash last night said the preserve plan for the Black bayou area could not possibly go through this year, thus permitting duck hunting at the lakes this winter, but he said it's possible the preserve will be established in another year.

The unit will also sponsor a duck-calling contest at its November meeting.

While Nash reports the preserve project has been gaining ground, the proposal has not been pushed without opposition. A petition has been circulated opposed to the Black bayou project which has all ready been tagged as a good site for a duck refuge by state wildlife officials.

Some of the preserve opposition is proposing that rather than establish a preserve, that all waterfowl shooting be stopped at noon on all waters thus permitting only morning shooting. The anti-preservists argue that waterfowl feed and rest in the afternoons and shooting at this time drives game to more friendly areas.

Sponsors of the Black bayou project include not only waterfowl in their course of action, but hope for a 10,000-acre refuge for deer, as well.

Relay Scramble Heads Mat Program At Gus Kallio's Arena Here Tuesday

George Curtis And Doran O'Hara Paired Against Sarkey, Wright

A tag team match will be the main event at Gus Kallio's Arena Tuesday night, with George Curtis and Doran O'Hara teaming up against the villainous duo, Babe Sarkey and Rube wright.

Curtis, from Vicksburg, Miss., will take the place of Henry Harrell who evidently gave up hope after his defeat at the hands of Sarkey and Wright in last week's event.

Wright and Sarkey seem to have the tag team matches in Monroe down pretty pat. Wright has wrestled here for several weeks and partner, Sarkey, who could match his villainy, took last week's tag team event without much difficulty.

O'Hara, of Amarillo, Tex., was also on the losing end of the tag team event last week, along with Harrell. He did fairly well for the first few weeks that he wrestled here but can't seem to make much headway against the gigantic Sarkey, who handled him like he was a baby both times they wrestled. Sarkey has thrown O'Hara out of the ring in both engagements against the seemingly small, when compared to Sarkey, O'Hara.

The villainous duo might have quite some difficulty Tuesday night, however, when Curtis, a ring wise veteran whose brother held the world's light heavyweight title for many years, appears in the show. Curtis, a tall, lean, matman who has his weight well spread, knows a great deal about the wrestling game, and is a wrestler who can wrestle or slug as the situation warrants.

Curtis has not appeared here for quite a while, but he is well known to Monroe wrestling fans as a matman who can hold his own against most opponents.

Sarkey, the gigantic North Carolina matman, although stirring up the enmity of the fans during both his bouts here has plenty on the ball. Unlike most villains, who boast when they are winning and plead when they are on the receiving end, Sharkey never backs down from his opponents and gives just about as good as he receives.

Monroe fans, who have never seen Sarkey and Wright wrestle anyone but Harrell and O'Hara, will be interested in seeing what the villainous duo can do against another of their favored wrestlers Tuesday night.

There will be two short time - limit bouts between opponents from the different tag teams as the semi-final events.

The show will get under way at 8:15 o'clock with George Harben, from North Carolina, to referee all three events.

LONGHORNS SHADE WILDCATS, 7 TO 6

Texas Sews Up Game With T. Jones-To-Barton Pass First Period

Austin, Tex., Sept. 22.—(AP)—Texas' steel-fingered defense knocked down Kentucky 7-6 today in a game of gambles, fumbles and an uproarious finish.

The Longhorns cahsed in on a recovered fumble for their touchdown and Herb Hunt, Kentucy back, took too much time trying to place the ball for a conversion attempt—and that was the story of this intersectional battle.

A crowd of 47,000 roared throughout one of the finest football games every played in Memorial Stadium. Once it got so noisy in protest over a pass interference ruling that Bobby Dillon, Texas defensive star and team co-captain, left the field to ask the Texas fans to quiet down. They responded to the sportsmanlike gesture.

A little later Dillon intercepted a pass to halt one of the mighty surges staged by Kentucky in the final minutes.

Texas thus upheld its tradition of having never lost a home opening game and while doing so kicked over the nation's seventh ranking team. The Longhorns are rated eleventh.

Kentucky, piloted by the great Babe Parilli, a mighty passer and ball handling magician, knocked at the door to victory throughout the game but each time the Wildcats got what looked like a payoff drive underway a pass interception or fumble spoiled it.

Texas, noted for its defense and not supposed to have much of an offense, turned to the forward pass to win the game. The score came late in the first period. Paul Williams, huge Longhorn wingman, dashed through to jar the ball out of Parilli's hands then fell on it on the Kentucky 28. Gib Dawson and Byron Townsend rammed the ling for four then in a pitchout got a first down on the Kentucky 13 with Don Barton carrying the mail. Then T. Jones passed to Barton on the five with the fleet halfback running across. Dawson kicked the extra point—the eventual difference.

Kentucky scored in the third period on a wild 72-yard drive with Tom Fillion doing most of the gaining. He carried three times for 40 and Harry Jones then sped to the Texas 27. Harold Gruner and Jones smashed to the Texas six. Parilli went back to pass, was tackled but, as he fell, the Wildcat field general passed into the end zone to Gruner.

Hunt, back to hold the ball for the conversion attempt, bobbled the pigskin but hurried to place it. Don Barton and Harley Sewell boomed out of the Texas line to fall on him and spill the point after touchdown try. That was the ball game.

Kentucky	0	0	6	0	—6
Texas	7	0	0	0	—7

Kentucky scoreing: Touchdown, Gruner. Texas scoring: Touchdown, D. Barton; conversion, Dawson.

Tar Heels Defeat N. C. State, 21 To 0

Chapel Hill, N. C., Sept. 22.—(AP)—North Carolina handed neighborhood rival North Carolina State a 21-0 defeat today to open its Southern Conference football season.

For three periods, the favored Tar Heels held a slim 7-0 lead, thanks to a 74 - yard punt return by safetyman Bud Carson for a second period touchdown.

Then, after State marched 72 yards to within a foot of the tying touchdown and failed on a bad pass from center, the Tar Heels won going away.

Halfback Bud Wallace went over from the 18 in the opening minutes of the final period. His interception of a pass had given North Carolina the ball of the State 40.

With less than four minutes to go, sophomore Fullback Bob White stormed over from the three. Tackle Abie Williams made all three conversions.

Reactions speak louder than words!

You'll be surprised and mighty pleased at the way the new Plymouth glides along over the roughest roads. The car has a new kind of stability, thanks to "Safety-Flow Ride." This comes from new Oriflow Shock Absorbers—three times as effective as conventional types—working together with other important engineering factors.

You can be sure that your Plymouth brakes will give you, consistently, the same amount of braking for the same pedal pressure. The front wheel brakes do most of the work in stopping. For that reason, Plymouth puts two hydraulic cylinders in each of the front wheels. The other two leading lowest-priced cars have only one.

It's a comfort to relax in Plymouth's natural-posture Chair-Height Seats, with plenty of room even for that feather in your bonnet. The new Plymouth gives you more headroom and legroom than any other car in the lowest-priced field. Doorway openings are high and doors swing open extra wide for easy exits and entrances.

It's a cinch—starting the new Plymouth in any kind of weather. Ignition-Key Starting teams up with Automatic Electric Choke to make starting a single, "flick of the wrist" operation. You just turn the key and three things happen: the ignition's on; the engine's running; the automatic choke is providing exactly the right fuel-air mixture.

BUMS' NATIONAL LOOP EDGE OVER GIANTS SHRINKS

New York Only Three Games Off Pace After Beating Braves

Brooklyn, Sept. 22 —(AP)— The Philadelphia Phillies scored five runs in the first three innings, got rid of Don Newcombe in the sixth and went on shaved Brooklyn's lead to three games in the national league by whipping the Dodgers 7-3 tonight.

Karl Drews, the ex - Yankee who toiled for the Baltimore Orioles before the Phils brought him up recently, tossed his first complete national league game.

Eddie Pellagrini, veteran infielder, was the big gun in the Phils' attack with a two - run home run, along with a double and a single. He scored three times himself.

Dodger Catcher Roy Campanella was back in the lineup for the first time since he was beaned Monday, and showed no ill effects of the mishap.

The Phil victory over the Dodgers, coupled with their own 4-1 triumph over Boston kept the hopes of the New York Giants alive, although time is running out.

Drews pitched his way out of the most serious jam of the game when he got Campanella to fly out with the bases loaded and two out in the ninth to end the contest.

GIANTS DOWN BRAVES

New York, Sept. 22.—(AP)—Larry Jansen turned in one of his finest performances of the season today as he pitched the New York Giants to a 4-1 triumph over the Boston Braves for his 20th victory.

The triumph kept the Giants' slim pennant hopes alive.

Jansen allowed only six hits in out-pitching lefty Warren Spahn who was gunning for his 22nd victory. The Giants snapped a 1-1 tie with a three-run eighth inning rally.

Houston To Get Opener In Dixie

Birmingham, Sept. 22. —(AP)— The Dixie Series between winners of the Southern and Texas League playoffs will open in Houston, Tex.

This was disclosed today in a joint announcement by Charlie Hurth, Southern Association president, and J. Alvin Gardner, the Texas chieftain.

Houston's Bluffs already have won a place in the coming playoff, whipping San Antonio in four straight. Birmingham has a 2-0 lead over Little Rock in the Southern finals.

The Dixie also is on a best of seven games basis.

Following the final game in the Southern series, the winner will be given a day travel time, with the Dixie opening the following night.

Two games will be played in Houston, then an off day, with the next three games, if necessary, to be played in the Southern League city.

In case further games are needed, the two clubs will take another off day while returning to Houston.

WINNFIELD NIPS OAK GROVE, 7-6

Fumbles Hurt West Carroll Parish Eleven's Victory Chances

Oak Grove, La., Sept. 22.—(Special)—Winnfield's Tigers took to the air lanes here last night to edge a battling Oak Grove Tiger grid squad 7-6 in a district Class A contest.

Late in the second quarter, the visiting Bengals recovered an Oak Grove fumble on a punt return. Taking over on the Oak Grove 46-yard line, the Bengals drove in four plays to the 35, where Quarterback Kornegay heaved a pass to Halfback Boyette, who gathered it in on the 20 and scampered the rest of the way for the touchdown.

Fullback Swilly's kick for the point was good and Winnfield's scoring was over for the night.

Midway of the third quarter, Oak Grove's Halfback Nix returned a Winnfield punt to his 48. Quarterback Smith picked up seven around end and five through center. Nix gained another five around end. Halfback Moreau went off tackle for five, Smith gained one around end, and then Smith hit center at the 29-yard line and raced for the Oak Grove tally.

Statistics show a superior Oak Grove ground offense halted by five fumbles, with Winnfield recovering four of the bobbles. Oak Grove made 11 first downs while Winnfield made seven.

Maroons Topple Arkansas State

State College, Miss., Sept. 22.—(AP)—Mississippi State kept its fancy strategy under wraps and stuck to straight football to power to a 32-0 victory over Arkansas State College today.

Arkansas State made a bitter struggle for the first half, holding the heavily favored Southeastern Conference eleven to a slim 7-0 lead.

But then Coach Slick Morton's Mississippi Maroons opened up for three touchdowns in the third period and one in the final quarter.

After Mississippi State had built up a comfortable lead, Morton sent his reserves into the game for a battle-testing.

Score by quarters:

Mississippi State	7	0	18	7—32

Jena Giants Fall To Oakdale, 19-0

Jena, La., Sept. 22.—(Special)—Good line blocking and conservative offensive play were not enough last night for the Jena High School Giants as the Oakdale Warriors took to the air and skirted the Jena ends for gains that gave them a 19-0 victory over their upstate invaders.

The teams, embattled on a field made slippery by an afternoon rain, fought on almost even terms until ten seconds before halftime, when the passing arm of Mervyn Baldin and Olin Ballard and the receiving of Elbert Willis accounted for the first TD. Baldwin looped a 17 - yard pass to Willis, to place the ball on the Jena 40, and later Ballard completed a four - yard pass to Willis, who broke into the open for the touchdown run. Warren Marquez kicked the extra.

Oakdale's second touchdown came late in the third period after Jena's Jimmy Coleman had run the ball on a fourth down, picking up eight yards to his own 18 but missing a first and ten. Elbert Willis raced the ball the 18 yards for his and Oakdale's second touchdown. Marquez's boot for the extra failed.

Midway of the fourth quarter Ballard skirted Jena's right end and ran 23 yards for the last touchdown. A pass, Scotty Cain to Grant Willis, was no good for the extra.

Jena bounded back, with James Otwell, right halfback, returning from his own 5-yard strip to his 35. Continuing the drive, Jimmy Coleman then picked up two consecutive first downs to put the ball on the Oakdale 28. Charles Boyd next carried to the Oakdale 16, where the Giants ran out of steam with only seconds left to play.

ENGINEERS UPSET S.M.U. MUSTANGS

Georgia Tech Follows Turner, Crawford In 21 To 7 Triumph

Atlanta, Sept. 22. —(AP)— In humid September heat and a driving downpour, Georgia Tech forgot today that it was supposed to lose and while stubby Glenn Turner ripped through Southern Methodist like a berserk bowling ball the Georgians scored a 21-7 football upset.

Except for the first 10 minutes when S. M. U. looked two touchdowns better than Tech, the Yellow Jackets of Coach Bobby Dodd were faster and far better runners than their opponents from the cow country.

During the first quarter and a half, S. M. U. twice paid dearly for unsure ball handling on kicks and poor protection for kickers.

Quarterback Darrell Crawford made up for his weak throwing arm to the 33,000 drenched fans, by calling a near perfect game—by finding where S. M. U. was porous and punching right there.

Fifteen of Tech's 21 points were made by boys from little Talladega, Ala. Turner blasted six yards to score in the first quarter and kicked three conversions. A fellow Talladegan, Johnny Hicks, fastened himself to one of Crawford's better passes in the second quarter, and covered 43 yards for another touchdown.

Rain was falling lightly early in the second quarter when the Methodists' string bean pitcher, Fred Benners, looped a beautiful pass to end Ben White for the Texans' touchdown. The play covered 18 yards and Sam Stollenwerck made the point after touchdown.

The final score came on a 29-yard run by Leon Hardeman, one of about 10 first rate Tech sophomores.

Score by quarters:

Southern Methodist	0	7	0	0— 7

Southern Methodist scoring: Touchdown — White (pass from Benners). Point after touchdown—S. Stollenwerck.

Bobby Doerr Playing His Last Season In Baseball

Boston, Sept. 22. —(AP)— Bobby Doerr, veteran second baseman of the Boston Red Sox, announced today he will retire from baseball at the end of the season. The 33-year-old infielder, a regular with the Red Sox for 14 straight seasons, has been suffering from a spinal ailment for the past two years.

In a press release issued this afternoon, he said:

"After conferring with the doctors and the Red Sox management, I deem necessary to announce my retirement from baseball at the end of this season."

Michigan State Has Close Call

East Lansing, Mich., Sept. 22. —(AP)— Highly - touted Michigan State, plagued by an attack of first game fumbles, was mighty lucky today to win its opener from Oregon State by a 6-0 score.

Rated the second strongest team in the nation in the AP preseason poll, Michigan State was a pre - game favorite to win by two or three touchdowns.

Score by quarters:

Michigan State	0	6	0	0—6

Trojans Outscore Washington State

Los Angeles, Sept. 22—(AP)—Jess Hill made a successful first appearance as Southern California's head football coach today when his charges mixed the single wing and the "T" to defeat Washington State, 31-21, in an opening day Pacific Coast Conference game.

John Williams, Southern California's safety, ran back a kickoff 90 yards for a touchdown in the most spectacular play of the game. A few seconds earlier he had fumbled a punt on the eight yard to set up Washington State's first touchdown in the opening period.

Washington State came back strong in the second half. With the Trojans leading 24-7, Bob Burkhard passed 23 yards to Don Steinbrunner for a touchdown after a brilliant march from State's 35.

State soon challenged again, and when Dick Nunis, Southern California substitute, slugged a Washington State player, the Trojans were penalized 15 yards, giving State the ball one yard away from the goal. Jim Heard plunged over.

Southern California riveted down the victory in the fourth period with an 83-yard march downfield which started with the Trojans ahead, 24-21. Pat Duff plunged four yards for the touchdown.

Washington State	7	0	14	0—21
U. S. C.	7	17	0	7—31

IRANIAN DEPUTY SEEKING REFUGE

Shushtari Claims Life Threatened Because He Opposed Oil Policy

Tehran, Iran, Sept. 22.—(AP)—Deputy Mohammed Ali Shushtari took refuge in the parliament building today, saying his life had been threatened because he was one of 14 members who had declared their opposition to Iran's oil nationalization premier, Mohammed Mossadegh.

Shushtari sought safety behind the stout doors as the United States' new ambassador, Loy Henderson, arrived in this troubled capital, where economic distress and possible inroads by the Tudeh (Communist) party are threatened results of the shut down of operations by the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company.

The seeking of sanctuary in parliament or the shah's palace is a time-honored device of Iranian politicians to dramatize their opposition to the government. Mossadegh himself has used it many times in his long career.

Other opposition deputies said they were carrying guns even to cocktail parties these days. They, too, said they have been threatened by national front extremists.

Henderson replaces Henry F. Grady, who tried for months to get the Iranians and British to settle the oil crisis. Henderson arrived from New Delhi in the middle of a diplomatic smokescreen which considerably mystified observers.

An informed Iranian official said Mossadegh had sent British Ambassador Sir Francis Shepherd a new request for reopening oil talks. The note was reported to have been unsigned and in such form that it could be disavowed if it failed to yield results.

Later, Deputy Premier Hossein Fatimi denied knowledge of the note and declared the cabinet still was considering a final decision on seeking new oil talks.

But he said "it is expected the door will be opened for the resumption of talks before any official action is taken."

Informed sources said the note, drafted by Mossadegh himself and delivered to the British ambassador by a high court official instead of through regular channels of the foreign ministry, omitted the ultimatum which W. Averell Harriman President Truman's negotiator, refused to deliver to London early this week.

Informants said it proposed to negotiate only the limited sale of oil to the British and compensation for nationalized British oil assets.

A British foreign office spokesman in London said the communique promising a settlement and that Iran would be so informed.

Mossadegh at least temporarily dropped his untimatum demanding that the British begin negotiations within 15 days or face expulsion of 350 British technicians at the Abadan refinery. He apparently realizes the London government is unlikely to bow while the Oct. 25 national election is in the offing.

There were hints, however, he had sent a veiled threat through a third person to act against British technicians within seven days. The Iranians already have withdrawn the residence permit of the Anglo - Iranian shipping superintendent at Abadan. He left for Iraq today.

The Iranians had not yet carried out their threat, however, to expel James Cunningham, the company's communications superintendent.

The Iranians began negotiations with Russia today for a barter agreement to replace a $20,000,000 trade agreement that expires in November. Iran asked the Russians to increase shipments of goods next year to replace scarce articles which the British have diverted from Iran in an effort to put an economic squeeze on Mossadegh.

Seizure Of Gambling Devices Is Reported

Washington, Sept. 22. —(AP)— The FBI announced today the seizure of 101 gambling devices valued at $20,000 and operated by concessionaires in traveling carnivals in five North Carolina communities.

Director J. Edgar Hoover of the federal bureau of investigation said seizures in Shelby, Hendersonville, Albermarle, Asheboro and Oxford, N. C., brought the number of gambling devices confiscated this year to more than 2,275.

Seizures previously had been made in California, Louisiana, Arizona, Idaho, Colorado, Utah, Oklahoma, Texas, Mississippi, Arkansas and Puerto Rico and consisted of slot machines. The devices confiscated in North Carolina today were described as "rotaries" and "diggers."

The rotarie is an instrument operated by inserting a coin which starts a circular disc in motion. Merchandise on the disc is pushed toward a hole in the center of the disc by a mechanical arm, which is set by the person playing the machine.

The digger is described as a coin operated machine that allows a small crane controlled by cables to drop into a compartment containing merchandise. This crane may or may not deliver the merchandise to the player, depending on chance.

Federal prosecution is pending in more than 300 cases involving possible violations of public law.

RIDGWAY

cast to the Reds.

Then at 9:41 a. m. (7:41 p. m. EST Saturday) two helicopters left the Allied advance base at Munsan, 23 miles southeast of Kaesong, to deliver the message to Red liaison officers.

The helicopters carried Allied liaison officers, two interpreters and three newsmen. Delivery was at the Panmunjom bridge east of Kaesong.

Ridgway's latest message, while reserved in tone, told the Red leaders they were solely to blame for suspending the talks.

The Reds broke them off after charging that an Allied plane bombed the Kaesong neutral zone Aug. 22. The Allies investigated the charge and denied it.

Today's Ridgway reply did not repeat an earlier demand the talks be moved from Kaesong.

The message said at one point:

"In your message you have dismissed the need to discuss conditions incident to the resumption of negotiations in spite of the fact that the armistice discussions have been interrupted for prolonged periods because of incidents or alleged incidents.

"I have therefore given instructions to my liaison officers to insure that this vital subject receives careful attention in any future discussions with your liaison officers in order to minimize the likelihood of further interruptions," and "the cases were closed."

Ridgway continued:

"Since you are now ready to terminate the suspension of armistice talks which you declared on August 23, my liaison officers will be at the bridge at Pannunjom at 1000 hours on September 24 to meet your liaison officers and to discuss conditions mutually satisfactory for a resumption of the armistice talks."

Panmunjom is the Communist checkpoint on the eastern rim of the Kaesong neutral zone.

Ridgway was blunt in blaming the Communists for the breakdown in the armistice talks.

He rejected all the Communist claims of the United Nations violations of the neutral zone except the two which the U. N. admitted. One was an accidental strafing and the other was an unintended entry into the neutral zone by a South Korean medics team.

Ridgway referred to the Communist message of Thursday and declared:

"Your suggestion therein that there are instances of alleged violations of the Kaesong neutral zone which remain unsettled is rejected. Each of the several cases wherein you reported an alleged violation was fully investigated."

The supreme Allied commander said that the Communists were advised of every case where United Nations forces were not involved and "the cases were closed."

"I have so instructed my representatives," he added, making plain he had no intention of reopening discussions on the alleged violations.

"I likewise rejected the charge in your letter that the alleged violations of the neutral zone by U. N. forces made it impossible to continue the negotiations.

"The responsibility for the unnecessary interruption in the armistice conference is yours."

Other than arranging the actual meeting for tomorrow, Ridgway's message differed little from the one he sent the Communist high command on August 17. Even the wording was almost the same.

In that one, Ridgway told the Reds he was "still prepared to order my liaison officers to a meeting at the bridge at Panmunjom." Today's message was mild in tone, in keeping with recent message exchanges between Ridgway and Kim and Peng.

Ever since the Reds proposed resumption of the talks, there has been growing optimism that a cease-fire ultimately could be arranged in war-torn Korea.

This morning's Peiping broadcast said "vacillations displayed by the other side obviously indicate that Washington and Tokyo are preparing some new tricks."

Press Freedoms Are Not Involved

Lake Charles, La., Sept. 22. —(AP)—Intimation of public officials is the real issue in the Lake Charles defamation cases, a district attorney said today.

"Freedom of the press is not involved," said Griffin T. Hawkins, district attorney and one of the public officials allegedly defamed.

Hawkins made the statements in a letter to Sen. Long (D.-La.) giving his version of the controversy arising from the defamation indictments of five newspapermen and three members of a civic group.

A torrent of protest followed the indictments. Several U. S. senators blasted the indictments as a threat to freedom of the press. Newspaper editorials echoed the protest and at least a half dozen civic and church groups passed resolutions condemning the grand jury action.

The indictments charged the newsmen with defaming 16 public officials and three gambler - night club operators.

They were based on comment and articles the newspaper carried in an anti - gambling campaign.

Bobby Jones, five - time winner of the US amateur crown, was recently elected captain of the Royal and Ancient Golf Club of St. Andrew's, Scotland.

POWER SHORTAGE CUTS PRODUCTION

Major Producers Asked To Consider Plans For Moving Plants

Washington, Sept. 22.—(AP)—The government said today a power shortage in the Pacific northwest seriously threatens vital aluminum production. It gave major producers three days to draw up plans for a possible shift of some plants to other areas.

Defense Mobilizer Charles E. Wilson in a telegram to the producers today said power is so scarce in the drought - stricken northwest that "as a defense measure" it may be advisable to move some of the plants.

It was not an order to move, however, but a request that producers study the feasibility of shifting to areas where power is adequate, and letting him know by Tuesday what they thought, and what costs of a shift would be.

If a move were considered advisable, one source said the government could "influence" producers to do so through authority it has under the defense production act and the revenue act of 1950.

It is aiding in financing many projects under these laws, and buying their output.

Vice - president J. Louis Reynolds of the Reynolds metals company commented that he was "delighted" that the government is " at least aware of a serious situation" caused by the power shortage and said his company would make plans immediately for possible removal of plants.

On the other hand, Rep. Pugh Mitchell (R. - Wash.) said he thought Wilson's move was "just a trial balloon." He said it was a challenge to the northwest to work out a way to supply defense plants with power.

He said he felt the Pacific northwest could provide the necessary power although he said the shortage is now acute.

He blamed it primarily on the drought, but said a delay in building new facilities was another cause. He said a squabble between private utilities and government power projects had undoubtedly contributed to delaying construction of such facilities, but he said the Wilson move today in his opinion was not related to this touchy controversy.

Rep. Henry M. Jackson (D.-Wash.) said he would talk the situation over with Wilson Monday, and if necessary appeal to President Truman.

"It would probably be cheaper and quicker to provide the power in the northwest than it would be to move the aluminum plants to other sections of the country," he said.

Wilson's telegram today was addressed to the Aluminum Co. of America (ALCOA), Reynolds Metals Co., Inc., Kaiser Aluminum Co. and the Harvey Machine Co. Some have plants already in operation, others have plants planned, and Harvey, which said it had not received the telegram late today, is seeking a government loan for a plant at Kalispell, Mont.

The telegram to Kaiser, said to be the same as those to others, read:

"An examination of power supply in the northwest indicates that as a defense measure, it may be advisable to relocate aluminum plants to an area where non-interruptible power can be made available economically.

"For the purpose of determining the feasibility of removing a portion of your aluminum capacity from the northwest, which cannot be used because of lack of available power, would you prepare without commitment and for preliminary discussion only an estimate on an emergency basis of approximately the length of time and cost to remove and set up two or more, if desirable, of your northwest potlines to the Ohio or other areas where non - interruptible power could be made available economically by purchase or construction.

"Do you consider that the building of a standby plant would be a more economical solution? We desire to discuss this matter ourselves Tuesday, and therefore would appreciate your preliminary reaction to these programs by that time."

Price Increases For Cars Okayed

Washington, Sept. 22.—(AP)— Increased wholesale price ceilings for Nash and Studebaker passenger car probably producing a retail mark-up, were approved today by the office of price stabilization.

They will become effective on cars the company sells to dealers on and after September 23 but do not affect previous dealer stocks.

The OPS said the wholesale increases could mean a retail factory increase of between $47.90 and $65.85 for Nash and between $15.78 and $117.36 for Studebaker, according to model.

These other automobile retail factory price boosts have been approved: General Motors ($61 to $209); Ford ($55 to $95) and Chrysler ($90 to $400).

OPS permitted car manufacturers to request higher prices because of increased labor and raw materials costs since the Korean war. Both Studebaker and Nash filed applications September 18 but had to wait five days until the ceilings became effective.

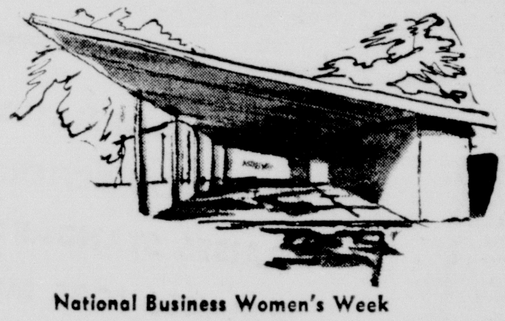

The United States uses about two-thirds of the world's production of oysters.

SENATE OPPOSES AIR FORCE PLAN

Senate Opposition Faces Arrangements To Spend $688-000 For Programs

Washington, Sept. 22. —(AP)— Army - air force arrangements to spend $688,000 on two radio programs to promote recruiting ran into hot senate opposition today but a military spokesman said there is no plan to drop them.

At issue are plans to sponsor programs feating singer Frankie Laine and sports broadcaster Bill Stern, on CBS and NBC networks this fall and winter.

Senator O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.) said he thinks these programs are of "doubtful value," that the draft is "the most effective recruiting agency."

He said he would try next week to have a stipulation writen into the pending $59,000,000,000 defense money bill, to the effect that none of the money can be spent on such programs.

Senator Ferguson (R. - Mich.) chimed in, saying that "there is no rhyme or reason for this expenditure." He said he would go along with O'Mahoney, who is chairman of the senate appropriations subcommittee that handles military funds.

Records show that two similar radio shows costing $131,000 and some television shows costing about $260,000 which have not been protested, are now being financed by funds from the 1951 fiscal year budget that included $5,-300,000 for recruiting promotions of all types.

That year ended June 30, and since then the defense department has been financed on a temporary basis, pending final action on the new $59,000,000,000 bill.

Earlier this month the army had backed down when Senator Capehart (R.-Ind.) denounced as "socialistic" a "sad sack" comic book being distributed as part of a re-enlistment campaign.

The army said yesterday it had ordered the books destroyed. Capehart said the army had printed 500,000 copies at a cost of $17,-544. He objected to them because he said they discredited American industry by tending to show service men had so much trouble in civilian life they preferred to re-enlist.

An army - air force spokesman said the new programs were going ahead as planned: Laine on a chain of 125 CBS stations beginning Oct. 7 for 39 weeks, Stern on NBC network for 26 weeks beginning Dec. 1.

The Laine half - hour programs call for a total of $434,000, the Stern 15 - minute shows, $254,000. Actually the stars would receive but a part of this total, the rest going to cover other expenses. Stern's manager said he would receive a "very low fee" of $1,000 a week.

Senator O'Mahoney said no plans for radio recruiting programs were outlined to the appropriations committee when it was studying the pending bill. He added:

"Our records seem to indicate that the most effective recruiting agency is selective service and although the selective service law directed the defense authorities to promote a recruiting campaign, this is not the way to do it."

One of the shows now sponsored by the army and air force is "The Big Inning." Costing $50,000, it has been on the Liberty network since July 30. It calls for a total of 48 broadcasts.

The second is "The Game of the Week," costing $81,000. It will begin Oct. 13 over 285 stations of the American Broadcasting Co. and run for seven weeks.

Records show that costs of army - air force television programs for 1951 will total about $260,000, of which $150,000 is for a "roller derby" program and about $90,000 for the "Madison Square Garden" sports events plus some smaller TV spot announcements.

Favor Churchill In Br. Election

London, Sept. 22.—(AP)— Winston Churchill and Clement Attlee squared off today in a general election campaign which may mark the end of Socialistic rule in Britain.

Churchill's Conservatives are favored in the betting to win control of parliament—and thus the government—in the voting October 25.

His "shadow cabinet"—a group of Conservative leaders who undoubtedly will get top government jobs if the party wins—discussed strategy at a two-hour meeting in Churchill's London home. Churchill smiled at newsmen when he saw his guests off, but refused to say a thing.

Prime Minister Attlee's Laborites, split and weary after six years in the saddle, are seeking to capture the voters' confidence on the basis of their Socialistic record.

Attlee told a Labor party group today at North Berwick, Scotland, that Churchill is an old fashioned politician who "underestimates the intelligence of the British people."

"I think they will want something more than harping on grievances," Attlee said. "I don't think they will want to give him a blank check."

The prime minister described the cost of living as Britain's greatest problem, but said "the fact is prices have risen higher and more quickly in those countries which have not a Labor government."

MARKETS

COTTON

New York

New York, Sept. 22. —(AP)— The cotton market was strong today, led by nearby October and December deliveries. Some prices sold at almost $7 a bale before profit taking halted the rise.

Heavy volume of short covering and new trade disclosed a scarcity in offerings.

Reports that a strong holding movement was continuing in the south with farmers placing large amounts of cotton into the loan about the buying.

October was 36.28-30, Dec. 36.05-09, March 36.10. Prices were up $2.30 to $3.80 a bale.

New Orleans

New Orleans, Sept. 22.—(AP)—General buying in cotton futures for today skyrocketed prices $5.30 to $5.85 a bale before profit-taking cut the rise. Closing prices were very steady, $2.85 to $3.40 a bale higher.

Trading was tremendous in the short two-hour Saturday session and probably amounted to as much as any full session since the state of the cotton year.

Heavy short covering prior to first Oct. notice day, Tuesday and Washington reports that the department of agriculture was vigorously campaigning to get farmers to actually put cotton in the loan appeared the reason for the rise.

Hedge selling increased at the day's highs and helped cut the advance. Efforts to increase the export-import bank's funds to raise cotton exports also had a bullish effect.

Middling 15-16-inch spot cotton advanced $3.50 a bale to 35.85 cents a pound. Local spot sales amounted to 6,346 bales.

WHAT'S THE MOST VITAL THING ADVERTISING DOES FOR YOU?

★ BRINGS INFORMATION TO MAKE SHOPPING EASY.
★ GIVES YOU BETTER GOODS FOR LESS MONEY.
★ ENTERTAINS AND AMUSES.

This Case History Shows How Advertising Gives You Greater Personal Security

TAKE this actual case of a brand of soap. A big company had developed a better, faster-acting soap powder that washes dishes faster, makes clothes whiter with less work.

How could they sell it at such a low cost as to be able to sell it cheaply? Only through advertising.

Today they sell millions of dollars of this soap powder per year—making hundreds of new jobs in a huge factory, hundreds of jobs with firms who supply the raw materials, more and better jobs in stores that handle that soap—and in banks, railroads, truck lines, insurance companies, all of whom have more work to do—and more money coming in—because of this added soap business.

Nobody Lost

For the amazing fact is—this new brand of soap didn't take money from other soap companies. The product and its advertising increased the total consumption of soap. So there was more business, better business—more and better jobs.

You're More Secure

Apply this very prosaic soap story to the more glamorous fields of automobiles, refrigerators, clothing, furniture—everything you buy. You'll see plainly how advertising acts as the spark plug of business. You'll see how advertising—today and tomorrow—is creating opportunity for you, and making your present job more secure.

What Others Say:

LABORER—There are no lay-offs when things are busy. A rush means overtime for me. So when advertising sells goods for my firm, I get more in my pay envelope.

EXPRESSMAN—My job depends on goods being shipped. And the main reason goods are shipped is because they are sold. So by selling goods, advertising helps me be sure of steady work.

HOUSEWIFE—It's a perfect circle. When advertising makes us women go to the store to buy, we stimulate business. And it's when business is good that our husbands are secure in their jobs. So let's be grateful for advertising.

SAILOR—A ship's business is to transport goods. Always there has to be a buyer—or we tie up. So advertising to sell goods is important in giving sailors steady work and a chance to get ahead.

CANCER ADVICE NEEDED EARLY

Mrs. Wright, State Campaign Chairman, Explains: Mayors Issue Proclamation

Mrs. Gordon Wright, state chairman of cancer voluntary services, states that the ultimate objective in volunteer work is to educate the public to recognize the seven danger signals of cancer and to realize that this dreaded disease is curable if the symptoms are diagnosed in time.

She further explained that proven methods for combating cancer are radiation, X-ray treatment, and surgery. She also advised that everyone could insure selves and families against the disease by making their personal doctor their individual cancer authority.

Mrs. Wright stated that the cancer volunteer service is maintained more cheaply than any other organization of similar type as all workers are volunteers and must have been directly or indirectly affected by the inroads of the disease.

It has been statistically estimated that out of 40 per cent of cancer funds sent to the national foundations, a sum double that amount is sent back to states like Louisiana for maintenance of cancer schools, at Tulane and elsewhere in this state. Other services rendered by volunteers include supplying indigent cases with bandages, transportation and free narcotics.

Those who have been active on the cancer drive the past few days are: Mrs. D. M. Moore, Mrs. C. P. Gray, Mrs. D. L. Anderson, Mrs. Ben Cobb, Mrs. Paul Ransom, Mrs. L. L. Tapp, Mrs. Bobby Pappas, Mrs. Lillie Mae Carroll, Mrs. Phelps Lyons, Mrs. Scott Hamilton, Mrs. W. C. Scott, Mrs. Sidney Stroud, Miss Joan Landhy, Mrs. Buddy Tolson, Mrs. I. T. Landhy, Mrs. I. W. Jaffee, Mrs. J. D. Hamilton, Mrs. Otho Roddey, Mrs. Elwood Kennedy, "Pilot Club Lights On," Mrs. Garlington, Mrs. W. R. Gates, Mrs. Marvis Powell.

Also colored residents have been very helpful and E. Hoston, as leader, has rendered a valuable serivice.

Mayors of both cities, Monroe and West Monroe, have issued proclamations urging support for the cancer drive. They are as follows:

Proclamation

Whereas, cancer annually claims the lives of countless men, women and children, causing untold human suffering and remaining a scourge to humanity; and

Whereas, the American Cancer Society now is carrying on among the citizens of Ouachita parish a campaign to acquaint more people with lifesaving facts about cancer and to raise funds to help carry on the fight against this dread disease; and

Whereas, the Ouachita parish unit of the American Cancer Society has requested that a special day be set aside as a time to seek the spiritual guidance so necessary in a humanitarian cause of this nature;

Therefore, I, John E. Coon, mayor of the city of Monroe do proclaim Sunday, September 23, 1951, as Cancer Memorial Sunday, and urge that all citizens of Monroe do observe said day as such; that they support to the best of their ability the campaign to raise funds to help stamp out cancer, and that as a safeguard to themselves and their loved ones, they acquaint themselves fully with the facts about cancer.

Further, I urge that all citizens of Monroe join with their neighbors in this worthwhile effort by signifying their desire to give in turning on their outside lights at their homes between nine and ten p. m. o'clock Sunday, September 23, 1951.

Given under my hand and seal this 19th day of September, 1951.

John E. Coon,

MEAT FOR PARIS

Paris, Sept. 22. —(AP)— Paris will get meat again next week.

The butchers, after a week - long strike protesting a 10 per cent government price rollback, decided tonight to reopen their shops on Tuesday, thus yielding the government a first round victory in its fight to keep down prices.

Eyesight problems are found to be four times as common in eighth grade as in first grade.

Home Visitation Program To Get Under Way Here

The home visitation program of the Monroe city schools will be particularly emphasized this week when teachers of all schools in the city devote two afternoons to the first phase of the annual home visitation.

This project has received nationwide attention.

Louis D. Robert, state supervisor of attendance said recently, "You here in the Monroe city schools have undertaken what I believe to be the most promising educational step since the inauguration of the state-wide visiting-teacher service, a city-wide home visitation program by all of the teachers. You are to be congratulated for the enthusiasm with which you worked last year and your determination to continue and expand it."

Miss Rosalie Harper, director of school attendance and work permits, in Richmond, Va., recently in an article for the National League to Promote School Attendance, praised the home visitation work, as follows; "I cannot tell you how valuable we believe the home visits which we make are to the school and the child personally. In fact, we think there is no substitute for home visitation."

A. H. Ryden, vocational counselor of the Niles Township High School in Skokie, Ill. states in an article in the National Education Association Journal that home visits are of great value to the parent as well as the teacher.

Wide approval and recognition are given to a home visitation program of the type planned and carried out by the Monroe city schools on designated afternoons next week and the program is regarded of value to teachers, parents, and children. The children will be advised by the teachers of their approaching visits.

The two afternoons alloted to the visiting of course will not be sufficient to visit the home of every pupil, but other visits will be made later until all homes have been visited.

The school visiting program is as follows:

Lida Benton — Monday and Tuesday;
Barkdull Faulk — Wednesday and Thursday;
Central Grammar — Wednesday and Thursday;
Georgia Tucker - Tuesday and Wednesday;
Sherrouse - Thursday and Friday;
Neville High — Tuesday and Wednesday.

DISTRICT WSCS PLANS SESSION

Will Hold September Meeting In Memorial Church Here

The Monroe district W. S. C. S. will hold their annual fall seminar Thursday, September 27, at Memorial Methodist Church.

The seminar is to give instruction on how to teach the four approved studies.

The approved studies shall be presented as follows: Latin America — by Mrs. Glen Nordyke, conference secretary of literature and publications; Book of Acts — Mrs. A. H. Wilcox, conference secretary of spiritual life; the family —a Christian's concern — Mrs. Charles Goldthwait, conference secretary of Christian social relations; churches for our country's needs — Mrs. F. C. Haley, conference secretary of status of women.

The textbooks supplementary material and outlines for teaching these approved studies will be available at the seminar. Mrs. C. L. Taylor, district secretary of literature and publications will have charge of this exhibit.

As a climax of the day's session a playlet entitled "The Foot Can Not Say To The Ear" will be given by the following district officers: Mrs. Hurvie Moak, Mrs. Henry Williams, Mrs. Harold Hunt, Mrs. Wade Cotton, and Mrs. M. L. DeFreese. This is a devotional service and is used to show how "call" and "action" are necessarily one; based on I Corinthians 12:12-22.

Registration begins at 9:30 a. m. and lunch will be served by the W. S. C. S. of Memorial Methodist Church.

Mrs. Don Alverson, district secretary of missionary ecucation has charge of the program for the day.

Two out of three first graders who have trouble learning to read are below par in vision, says the American Optometric Association.

Iranian Given Death Sentence

Tehran, Iran, Sept. 22. —(AP)— An Iranian court today sentenced Nosrattullah Ghomi to death for the assassination of Minister of Education Abdul Hamid Zanegneh last March.

Zangeneh was a member of the cabinet of Premier Ali Razmara who also was assassinated in March. Ghomi was a student at a theology college who was said to have been caught cheating in an examination. He fired three shots at Zangeneh while the latter was leaving the university building. He died of wounds six days later.

In court Ghomi contended he assassinated the education minister because he was a "traitor" to Iran and served "British imperialism."

SPITFIRE CRASHES

Copenhagen, Sept. 22. —(AP)— A Danish army Spitfire crashed into a house near Ringsted today, killing the pilot and a 12 - year-old boy who lived in the house. The plane, participating in autumn maneuvers, plunged through the roof of the two - story house and wound up in the basement.

Catherine Patricia Adragna Is Bride Of Carey Messina

Saint Matthew's Catholic Church Is Scene Of Impressive Wedding Ceremony

In a ceremony marked by simplicity and reverence, Miss Catherine Patricia Adragna, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Adranga, was joined in marriage to Carey Messina, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Messina.

The marriage was solemnized at Saint Matthew's Church Thursday morning September 6, at nine-thirty nuptial mass with Father Hayden David Shelton officiating.

The bridal couple exchanged the vows of the impressive double-ring ceremony before the altar which was beautifully decorated with standards of white gladioli and white asters. Candelabra held a myriad of slender white tapers and reserved pews were marked with bows of white satin ribbon.

Mrs. Della Williamson, organist, rendered several selections of nuptial music and accompanied Mr. Charles Bigger as he sang "Ave Maria" and "Panis Angelicus." The organist played the traditional wedding marches from Wagner and Mendelssohn for the processional and recessional, and rendered soft music during the service. The candles were lighted by Tom Mulhern, Jr.

The bride entered the church with her father, who gave her in marriage. She was lovely in her wedding gown of ivory satin and Point de Lyons lace fashioned with deep set yoke of nylon net appliqued on the tight fitted bodice of Point de Lyons lace. The long lace sleeves, coming to points over her hands, were fasted with tiny covered buttons, which also adorned the back of the laced bodice. Tiny seed pearls outlined the waistline with the full skirt extending into a chapel length train.

Her veil of fingertip length was of imported illusion, and fell gracefully from a Juliet cap made of Point de Lyons lace with orange blossoms. She wore a single strand of pearls. Her bouquet was of white Talisman roses, tuberoses and centered with a single white orchid with purple throat and cascade streamers of ivory satin ribbon.

Miss Vita Jean Zagone, cousin of the bride, was maid of honor. Matron of honor was Mrs. James Balsamo, aunt of the bride, and bridesmaids were Miss Rose Messina, sister of the bride, Miss Lorethia Ladart and Miss Sara Ellen Bruno. They wore identical strapless gowns of gold nylon tulle and satin Their bouffant skirts were of gold tulle and they wore gold satin jackets. Their mittens were of gold satin and they wore matching caps. Each carried an arrangement of yellow Talisman roses interspersed with wheat and tied with gold satin ribbon.

Joseph Messina served his brother as best man. Groomsmen were Anthony Cush, Mitchell Miletello and John Zagone, and James Balsamo, Victor Zagone, and Joe Zagone served as ushers.

Mrs. Adragna, mother of the bride, was wearing a gown of gray nylon net over taffeta with ice pink accessories. Her corsage was of pink rosebuds. Mrs. Messina, mother of the groom, was wearing a navy crepe with navy accessories. Her corsage was also of pink rosebuds.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held on the roof of the Virginia Hotel. An artistic arrangement of magnolia leaves interspersed with wheat, graced the mantel, and baskets of white gladioli and asters were placed at vantage points.

The bride's table was covered with an Italian cutwork cloth and was centered with the beautiful four - tiered wedding confection topped by a miniature bride and groom. Surrounding the base of the cake was greenery tied with tiny white satin ribbons. At one end of the table was the punch bowl and trays with bridal cookies, mints and open - faced sandwiches were placed at other points on the table.

The bride is a graduate of St. Francis School of Nursing. The bridegroom graduated from Neville High School.

Out - of - town guests included: Mr. and Mrs. Paul Cush, Mr. Anthony Cush, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Micotto and Dorothy and Ronald, Mrs. Joe Marbella and Grace Ann and Sammie, all from Shreveport; Mr. and Mrs. John Medolia, of Rayville; Mrs. Sam Trinca, Mr. Pete Mendolia, all of El Dorado, Ark.

LOVELY SEPTEMBER BRIDE

Mrs. Carey Messina, was Miss Catherine Patricia Adragna, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Adragna, before her marriage September 6 at St. Matthews Catholic Church. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Messina, Sr.

LAKE PROVIDENCE

Dr. J. Preston Davis, host at his annual watermelon feast, entertained on Monday evening at eight with Mrs. Davis assisting in the receiving and serving.

It was a pleasing sight to southern gourmets to approach the long table, picturesquely placed beneath the trees on the lawn, lighted by incandescent lamps and behold the deep pink sliced melons, 35 in number, interspersing the white cloth.

MISS FRANCES FLANDERS IS GUEST SPEAKER AT D. A. R. MEETING

Miss Frances Flanders, the speaker at the September meeting of the Daughters of the American Revolution, did not elaborate on the heritage of Monroe and Louisiana. In a brilliant talk she confined her subject to other parts of the nation. She discussed in detail the part that many European countries had played in contributing to our great country. Miss Flanders said in part:

"Ever since there have been people on the earth, they have been moving. Here and there we have found traces of their ancient passing. A footprint in the smooth hard surface of an old lava flow remains, a cave where a dinner was cooked and eaten long ago, a burial mound whose makers have departed to another place, some arrowheads whose makers are unknown. There are the traces of the people who have come and gone again; who have moved on.

Through the long centuries the movements have generally been slow, for the people have had to walk, often with heavy burdens, and there have been old people among them and children that grew tired and walked with stumbling steps. The movement of the people has generally been slow but persistent.

More than thirty-eight million people crossed the oceans to America in the nineteenth and twentieth centuries. There were many more before that; no one knows exactly how many, for accurate records were not kept befor 1820. That movement of people to America was the greatest migration of all times.

Of the people who came to America in the colonial period, more than three-fourths were English. They set the pattern for American life and are responsible for a great many of the features of our American heritage.

After the pilgrims, came the great Puritan exodus which within twenty years gave New England a population of 26,000 people. It was caused by the rise of the Stuart despotism in England, and ended by its fall—that is by the meeting of the long parliament in 1640 which placed sharp curbs upon Charles I. This exodus sent to America not only the largest European population which the continent had yet received, but a population of remarkable qualities. It was purely and exclusively English; it was profoundly religious; it was deeply attached to the idea of democratic self-government; it was hardy, energetic, highly intelligent and remarkably prolific.

The sect of Quakers, founded in England by George Fox, was not as a rule popular. The Quakers departed from the common pattern of Christianity and were not understood. The Quaker ideals were high and their lives admirable, but being steadfast in their opinions, their obstinacy and the strangeness of their ways counted against them. Quakers demanded freedom of conscience, emancipation from superstition, and they refused to recognize the delusion of witchcraft. They protested against priesthood, demanded a pure life rather than vows of celibacy. They insisted on absolute liberty of worship. The Quaker did not believe in kings, and thought himself the equal of any human being.

The Scotch Irish who settled in the Carolinas had an important effect upon the history of those colonies. It has been said that South Carolina was indebted to the Scotch-Irish for most of physicians, clergymen, lawyers, and school teachers for they provided most of the schools and churches in the Colonial period.

It was due to the influence of the Presbyterians in Virginia that the right to worship as each thought best was incorporated in the Virginia Bill of Rights. It was the same group which influenced Jefferson to write his "act for the establishment of religious liberty."

Intangible and unsubstantial things are enduring too. Our inheritance of the literature, folklore and folk songs of England has had an important part in molding the character of the American people. Paul Hazzard, one of the greatest modern students of literature, has said that the Mother Goose Rhymes have had more influence upon the characters of the English speaking people than one can estimate. No other language has a comparable body of rhymes for children.

One of the greatest contributions which the English brought to America was the idea of the importance of every man, which is the basic idea of democracy. It is not to be thought that the English brought any full-fledged idea of democracy to the new world with them. That was far from the case. Democracy had been a long time growing and does not exist in a complete form even yet. Under the colonial system every colony had its elected assembly and although only a few of the propertied people could vote at first, this was an opening wedge for the fuller democratic government that was to follow.

From all these people of many lands and many groups, we inherited certain basic beliefs that form the cornerstone of our government. They are as follows: A belief in the dignity of the individual; participation of the people in government or democracy; religious liberty; the importance of education; the dignity and value of hard work, and the right of free enterprise. Nowhere in the ideals of our colonial settlers do we find the word security. They conceived of the function of government as a protection of their rights and property, not as an agency to support them. Let us reevaluate our heritage and strive to hold high the ideals for which our ancesters fought and upon which our country was established."

THE HOME SHIFT

By Mildred Swift

Housewives, your program of work for the Twin Cities was planned on Friday. As you know all extension programs are developed with, for and by the people of the community to meet local conditions and situations. A committee of twelve women representing every section of Monroe and West Monroe made surveys during the year to see what you the housewife wanted for 1951 in radio, news articles, circular letters and demonstrations. Your city home maker will follow their recommendations. The following women served on this city planning committee: Miss Bess Sharp, Mrs. John Smith, Mrs. Owen Hammons, Lieutenant Dina Ferraez, Mrs. James Tippti, Mrs John A. Peters, Mrs. George Forman, Mrs. Richard W. Gloholt, Mrs. Ovelle Thomas, Miss Juanita Porter, Mrs. L. L. Tapp, and Mr. W. J. Veazy. Absent: Mrs. Fred Stone, Mrs. A. L. Dickerson, Mrs. Annie Cook and Mrs. J. W. McCarty.

These busy women gave this time to help your agent plan a program that will meet the needs of all.

Tom and Mary Jefferson made the neatest small patio at their back steps. This saves Mary a lot of mopping up tracks. Tom used a level to get his ground perfectly smooth. Next he sprinkled a thin layer of half sand and half cement on the ground. Next he placed his bricks. He worked out an attractive pattern. Over the bricks he sprinkled the same sand-cement mixture, swept it down between the bricks and washed it down well with the hose. This is an easy way to make outdoor sitting rooms and walks.

Goodby I'll meet you in this same column next Sunday.

Nuptials For Alice Chilton Announced At Social Event

Autumn Colors Employed At Festive Affair In E. G. Touchstone Home

All the beauty of autumn was reflected in its varying rich tones at a tea Sunday announcing the engagement of Miss Alice Maude Chilton to Mr. Neil Andrews Campbell, of Howard Lake, Minn., whose wedding will be celebrated October 7 at the First Baptist Church of this city.

The E. G. Touchstone home was the setting for this lovely occasion which was enjoyed by approximately two hundred friends of the bride-elect and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Homer Shields Chilton.

In the attractive reception suite rare artistry and originality marked the floral designs. Beautiful shades of gold, yellow and bronze were employed in the arrangements. Low containers held graceful goldenglow and deep brown cat tails which were combined to create interesting effects while an urn holding these flowers and specimen Mexican daisies formed a brilliant splash of color.

The scene proved an ideal setting for an afternoon of sheer pleasure. Calling between the hours of four and six o'clock, the guests were received by Mrs. Touchstone, who was wearing a white organdy dress with red dots. It was fashioned with a bodice of white pique and a long bouffant skirt. She wore an organdy stole and a corsage of red carnations. A necklace and earrings of rhinestones and rubies completed the old fashioned charm of her costume.

Miss Chilton, the honoree, was classic in a velvet gown of royal purple which featured a flared skirt. Accenting the becoming neckline were rhinestones, which also studded the belt. She wore a necklace and earrings of silver with rhinestones and a corsage of ginger lilies which blended beautifully with the tone of her dress.

Mrs. Chilton, the bride-elect's mother, was gowned in handsome royal blue crepe. The bodice featured sequin trimming and the skirt, which was draped on the side, fell in soft folds to the floor. She wore a rhinestone brooch and earrings and a red carnation in her hair.

Mrs. Schuster was charming in aqua lace accented with a square neckline edged in matching net and a tiered skirt with edging repeated. She wore earrings in the shade of her dress and a corsage of pinks.

Mrs. Schrader chose an imported silk dress of royal blue. The waist featured deep tucks of the material and the skirt was full and long. A strand of pearls enriched her costume with which she wore a corsage of tuberoses and small pink and white chrysanthemums.

Miss Hood was wearing a handsome garnet crepe gown. Matching roses encircled the neckline and a large blossom added a pretty note to the long, graceful skirt. a gold necklace and earrings and a rose in her hair enhanced the beauty of her costume.

Mrs. Martin chose a floor-length handsome red lace dress with a bolero in matching taffeta. Her corsage of rose buds reflected the tone of her gown.

Mrs. Sidney Moore was wearing aqua crepe, with becoming draped effect noted in the bodice, and a long skirt which featured soft lines. She wore a belt studded with stones and a corsage of pinks.

In the dining room the tea table was overlaid with a handmade ecru cloth of lace medallions. The color theme was reflected in the original centerpiece of gold and yellow goldenglow and crimson lantana, encircled with bronze lace frills to form a colonial bouquet. It was tied with matching wide satin ribbon which fell in streamers.

Along the edge of the table were garlands of dainty fern caught at the center and corners by nosegays similar to the centerpiece. The effect was both dainty and beautiful.

At one end of the table were served coffee and tea and at the other fruit punch. The silver service and crystal punch bowl which rested on a reflector were garlanded in fern and goldenglow. Silver compotes held yellow mints embossed in bronze valley lilies and greenery.

Alternating at the coffee and tea service were Mrs. P. A. Poag and Mrs. Tom Davis. The former was wearing a handsome black lace gown enhanced by a strand of pearls and a corsage of crimson rose buds. The latter chose a light blue frock fashioned with a bodice and long bouffant skirt of marquisette over taffeta. A pretty note was the taffeta sash with appliqued floral design in blue and gold sequins. She wore rhinestone jewelry.

Presiding at the punch bowl were Miss Bess Sharp and Mrs. James T. Horton. Miss Sharp was wearing a beige blouse with embroidered collar and the motif was repeated in the sleeves that were edged in lace. It was trimmed with rhinestone buttons and worn with a black taffeta skirt which was long and full. Mrs. Horton's dress was of rose crepe. Soft folds accented the waist and the long skirt featured pleats in the front. She chose a stone - trimmed belt and a jeweled necklace to complete her costme.

Crystal trays held an assortment of finger - length and wheel sandwiches and individual gold cakes embossed in bronze valley lilies. The color theme was developed in the miniature nosegays which centered the trays.

Assisting in extending the dining room courtesies were: Mrs. Bessie Skinner, Mrs. Gladys Miles, Mrs. Louise Massey, and Miss Hood.

Mrs. Skinner wore Alice blue chiffon encrusted in rhinestones. The closely fitting bodice was joined to a long billowy skirt, and she wore a stole of matching hue.

Mrs. Miles chose a black crepe gown. The waist was of lace with appliqued black crepe medallions and she wore a large rose at her belt and rhinestone earrings.

Mrs. Massey was wearing a becoming blue gown with richly beaded waist and a long, full skirt. Her jeweled earrings added to the richness of her costume.

Presiding at the guest book throughout the afternoon was Mrs. Edna Vaughan.

Mrs. Scotty Daniel Hostess At Northside Garden Club Meeting

The Northside Garden Club of West Monroe met Thursday in the home of Mrs. Scotty Daniel.

The subject for the September meeting was "Pot Plants." Mrs. Warren Harker, of Mary's Flower Shop, was guest speaker.

The hostess then served refreshments to the following members: Mrs. J. R. Tippit, Mrs. Doyle Hudson, Mrs. Judson Moore, Mrs. Kenneth Lee, Mrs. A. W. White, Mrs. Jimmy Edge, Mrs. Allan Silk, Mrs. M. F. Kull, Mrs. Newt Wilson and three guests present, Mrs. H. B. McDowell, Mrs. Ed Wilson and Mrs. Floyd Mathis.

Miss Doris Mae Beasley Weds Bobby Lester Greene

Impressive Wedding Ceremony Is Solemnized At Memorial Methodist Church Of Monroe

A lovely wedding of the fall season was that of Miss Doris Mae Beasley, of Shreveport, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Beasley, of this city, when she became the bride of Bobby Lester Greene, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Greene, of Shreveport.

The marriage was solemnized at the Memorial Methodist church in this city, Thursday afternoon, September 13, at five o'clock, with The Rev. Ralph Cain, pastor, officiating in the presence of close friends and members of the family.

The bridal couple exchanged the vows of the impressive service before an altar which held white tapers in candelabra and baskets of white gladioli.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was lovely in a palombino shantung dress with lace trimming. She wore a tight fitting jacket with three quarter length sleeves, and accessories of palombino color. Her hat of matching material was fashioned with small beads and she wore lizard shoes and bag and gloves of matching color. A shoulder corsage of yellow carnations completed her outfit.

Miss Nancy Sue Beasley, sister of the bride, served as maid of honor and only attendant. She was wearing a brown suit with accessories of brown and blue. She wore a lovely white corsage.

Mr. Jack L. O'Donnell served the groom as best man.

Mrs. Beasley, mother of the bride, chose for this occasion a navy suit with mauve accessories. She wore a shoulder corsage of rose carnations.

Immediately following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Beasley were hosts at a dinner party at a local restaurant for members of the family and the wedding party.

The couple then left on a short wedding trip to the Gulf Coast. Upon their return they will be at home in Shreveport where both are employed. Mr. Greene was a member of the Monroe Sports during the summer and also played with the Alexandria team prior to joining the Monroe baseball club.

Couple Exchange Vows In Impressive Ceremony At Methodist Church In Winnsboro

The Methodist Church in Winnsboro was the scene Wednesday evening, September 5, of the lovely wedding of Miss Mollie B. Reese, of this city, daughter of Mr. H. H. Reese and the late Mrs. Reese. Of Baskin, when she became the bride of Albert Frank Stonehart, of Peoria, Ill., son of Mrs. G. V. Stonehart and the late Mr. Stonehart, of Brazil, Ind. The Rev. W. W. H. Bengtrom performed the impressive ceremony.

The bridal couple exchanged the vows of the impressive double - ring ceremony before the altar which was beautifully decorated with standards of white gladioli and fern. Preceding the ceremony, Mrs. Coyle Reese rendered a program of nuptial music and the traditional wedding marches marked the beginning and end of the ceremony.

The candles were lighted by the niece and nephew of the bride and Master Frank Marshall Reese served as the ringbearer.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was lovely in her wedding suit of blue wool and trimmed with navy velvet. Her accessories were of navy blue and she carried a white prayer book topped with a white orchid.

Olan Manhart served the groom as best man and ushers were Coyle Reese and Benjamin Berry.

Reception

Immediately following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Berry, sister and brother - in - law of the bride, were hosts at the reception at their home in Winnsboro.

Lovely arrangements of white gladioli were placed at vantage points throughout the receiving rooms.

The bride's table, overlaid with a beautiful ecru lace cloth, was centered with the three tiered wedding confection, flanked by white tapers. Assisting with the serving courtesies were Miss Jimmie Miller and Miss Jewell Wise.

Following their wedding trip the couple will be at home in Peoria, Ill., where the groom is employed.

Mrs. Stonehart is a graduate of Baskin High School and the St. Francis School of Nursing. She was also a member of the army nursing corp and before her marriage was on the nursing staff of the St. Francis' blood bank. The bridegroom graduated from Brazil High School and Indiana State Teachers College. He was formerly employment manager at Dixie Chemical Division of Commercial Solvents Corp. prior to his transfer to Peoria, Ill.

Bride-Elect Of Charles Roddey Honored At Tea

Over 150 Guests Make Acquaintance Of Miss Hilda Blaine At Party Given By Mrs. O. C. Roddey, Misses Martha And Betty Roddey

Miss Hilda Blaine, lovely bride-elect of Mr. Charles Roddey, was complimented at a tea given by Mrs. O. C. Roddy, Miss Martha Roddey and Miss Betty Roddey Saturday afternoon from three-thirty until five o'clock at the Lotus club.

The reception rooms were artistically decorated with pink roses and pink phlox. The bride's table was centered with an impressive epergne arrangement of pink roses and tuberoses. A focal point of interest was the mantel where an unusual arrangement of magnolia leaves and pink candles stood reflected in the mirror over the mantel.

More than one hundred and fifty guests attended the early fall tea and made the acquaintance of Miss Blaine who is from Darling, Miss. Miss Blaine was beautifully attired in a trousseau model of soft blue silk faille. Her costume was further complimented with a shoulder corsage of fleue d'amour and tuberoses, a gift from her hostesses, that accentuated her charm.

Guests were greeted by the receiving line comprised of the hostesses, Mrs. Roddey, becomingly dressed in a black lace and marquisette model, Miss Martha Roddey, who wore an attractive blue lace on taffeta ensemble, Miss Betty Roddey who was attired in a smart brown marquisette model trimmed in velvet, the honoree and her mother.

Assisting in receiving guests were: Mrs. Shelby Meek, attired in a lovely ensemble of blue chiffon and lace; Mrs. B. J. Roddey who was wearing a becoming black crepe model; Mrs. Lee Hodges, who wore an attractive blue crepe dress; Mrs. C. K. Crandall, attired in a gray crepe and Mrs. Fred Meyer who chose a black lace model for the occasion.

Assisting in serving were Miss Elizabeth Cretney, dressed in a formal of chartreuse net over taffeta, Miss Margaret Ann Hunter, wearing a blue net model and Miss Martha Hatchell, attired in a lovely two-piece full length dress with a silver top and rose skirt.

GIRL SCOUT NEWS

Bright sunshiny days and cool evenings we're having are just meant for Scouting and the out of doors. Troops just starting to meet after the August lull and the rush of school starting are already planning out of door activities, with most troops setting their goal as a night or two at the new troop camp.

Those of you who went to the dedication in May and found the little camp road so terribly dusty will love it now that it is no longer dusty nor full of holes. Would you think "beautiful" a term to apply to a prosaic cattle guard? Well, it fits the cattle guard that Southern Carbon Company made for the camp. It's going to be installed soon and a part of the property fenced. Just can't wait to get those hogs and cows fenced out! Mr. Robert Easterling, Mr. William Haddad, and Mr. S. H. Humphries proved good friends of Scouting by furnishing hog wire for the fence.

Another good friend Mr. Dave Agnew, is finishing the wiring, so the camp will soon have refrigeration. There is no question about good friends being the greatest asset the Scouts can have.

Troops that camped in the summer will want to go back now that shelves, dish cabinets, partitions in the bathroom and kitchen table have been built, making everything more convenient. Part of the fun of camping is being able to use a site through changing seasons and to see it develop.

The first troop to use the camp this fall was Troop 28, which specializes in camping, incidentally. They are having a wonderful week end, we know. These girls under the capable leadership of Mrs. Tom Davenport and Mrs. Henry Hinkle, do their own planning, know all about kaper charts, and have acquired quite a lot of out of door skills. Mrs. Robert Easterling, whom the girls adore, and who is a valuable camping consultant, accompanied the troop, along with the two leaders.

Most of the girls in Troop 28 are completing five years of membership in Girl Scouting. Now that they are in junior high, they are eligible to wear the new teen - age uniform, which the girls are planning to acquire vrey soon and to wear very proudly.

LAKE PROVIDENCE

Mrs. George Lensing was appointed chairman of ways and means, and Mrs. Frank Cain of membership.

Sister Christina expressed pleasure on being back at St. Patrick's and introduced the new members of the faculty, and thanked those who provided and served the lunch the date of their arrival, and those who filled the pantry shelves.

Mrs. W. L. Hughes agreed to provide a punch bowl for each social meeting, and thanks were expressed for the orchid asters sent by Mrs. Jeff Hair for decoration of the refreshment table. Mrs. J. C. Butler was thanked by Father Hopp for the murals painted by her on the kindergarten walls from Mother Goose books.

MISS AVA ISOLA JOINER IS BRIDE OF LOUIS E. BRISTER

The marriage of Miss Ava Isola Joiner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Joiner, and Louis Elmer Brister, son of Mr. and Mrs. Homer Brister, of Choudrant, was solemnized September 8 at four o'clock in the afternoon, at the home of the bride's parents on Arkansas avenue, with the Rev. C. C. Martin officiating.

The bridal couple exchanged the vows of the impressive double-ring service before an improvised altar which held white tapers in candelabra and arrangements of pink asters and fern. Only members of the two families and close friends attended.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was lovely in her ballerina-length gown of white lace over taffeta fashioned with seed pearls and nylon net. She carried a white Bible topped with a single orchid and tuberoses.

Mrs. W. L. Roberson, matron of honor and only attendant, was wearing an ankle-length gown of blue lace over taffeta with a corsage of pink asters and tuberoses.

Immediately following their marriage the bridal couple left on a short wedding trip to Jackson, Miss., New Orleans and other points along the coast. For traveling the bride chose an aqua suit with white blouse, hat and gloves. Her other accessories were brown. She wore an orchid corsage.

Shower

Placed at vantage points were arrangements of pink asters and centering the refreshment table was unique arrangement of a bride and groom with silver wedding bells, depicting a wedding scene.

Sharing this occasion with the honoree were Miss Betty Lou Aipha, Mrs. Mackie O'Donnell, Miss Gertrude Abramson, Mrs. Nettie Jones, Miss Ann Wilson, Mrs. Jerry Powell, Mrs. Mae Easterling, Mrs. Marcia Roberson, Miss Rosie Joiner, Mrs. Mary Bell Holloway, Mrs. Ethlee Petty, Miss Norma Roy, Miss Esther Tarver, Miss Maude Brownlee, Miss Betty Joiner, Mrs. Geneva Telford, Mrs. Irene Cobb, Mrs. A. L. Brister and Mrs. Stanley Brister.

B. & P. W. CLUB TO OBSERVE BUSINESS WEEK

President Truman Praises Business Week's Slogan

In a letter to national president, Judge Sarah T. Hughes, President Truman expresses his unqualified approval of National Business Women's Week and the slogan selected for such occasion. He has written as follows:

"I am happy to give my endorsement to National Business Women's Week and to the theme for its twenty - fourth observance by the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, Inc.; 'Full Partnership for the Job Ahead' is a good slogan at this time.

"Once again our nation is forced to prepare to defend its freedoms. We know that to get this big, hard job done we must make use of the energies and abilities, the knowledge and training of all our citizens, women as well as men. The day has long since passed when the big decisions and big actions necessary to our continued welfare were reserved for men alone. I have appointed, and will continue to appoint competent women to responsbile positions in government.

"As the members of your organization prepare themselves for and are accepted as full partners on the job, our mobilization for defense will move ahead faster and better."

MONROE B & PW CLUB CONTRIBUTES TO SUSAN B. ANTHONY FUND

At the San Francisco convention ast year Susan B. Anthony was ndorsed for election to the Hall f Fame. Following this endorseent letters were written from the ederation and individual B. and P. members to the electors urgng them to vote for her.

As a result of the election last ctober six prominent Americans ere elected to this honor with iss Athony receiving the third ghest vote. The other five selectes were men. Following the elecon the federation was invited by e director of the Hall of Fame sponsor a campaign to raise nds for the bronze bust of Miss nthony to be placed in the Hall Fame. The Monroe Club has ready contributed to this most orthy project.

More than one hundred years ago san B. Anthony began her work r the things our B. and P. W. ubs stand for — to promote the terests of women. She was one a small group of pioneers who itiated the movement at Seneca alls in 1848 to give women an portunity for higher education, onomic stability and the right vote.

Anthony possessed as her tstanding characteristic — courge. When just a young teacher at teacher's convention she stood up make a comment. The convenn group kept her on her feet for half hour while the men deted the propriety of permitting woman to speak. Other women legates drew aside their skirts as not to touch the hem of one had so disgraced their sex. 1872 after passage of the fourenth amendment she tried to te. She was arrested, tried and ed. Business Week Is Celebrating Its 24th Birthday

The main purpose of National Business Women's Week is to dramatize women's contributions to the economic, social and political life of the community. The theme for National Business Women's Week this year is "Full Partnership for the Job Ahead."

National Business Women's Week has become a nation - wide institution. It is observed each fall and offers an opportunity to clubs, in launching their year's work, to relate it to the community and arouse public interest in their objectives.

The first observance of Business Week took place April 15 to April 22, 1928.

Judge Sarah Hughes Says Biggest Job Is Way To Peace

"The biggest job ahead for us all is to find the way to peace. Such a task challenges men and women everywhere to exert all of their abilities, says Judge Sarah Hughes, national president of B. and B. W. Clubs.

"First there is the immediate need for strength. To prevent action from an aggressive enemy the size of our military force must be increased and military equipment sufficient for the emergency must be produced. Civilians need training for civil defense to protect communities from possible attack and to alleviate the effects of such an attack.

Strength, however, is not enough. For peace, positive action to remove the causes of war is required. The United Nations and what it has accomplished should be widely known and its way studied to make it more effective in saving succeeding generations from the scourge of war. There is need of greater understanding of peoples and their problems and of increased assistance to under-developed areas to improve standards of living. Means should be found to make known to all peoples the blessings of liberty and of individual freedom, and encouragement should be given to oppressed peoples to establish democratic governments which affirm fundamental human rights.

To accomplish the job which faces us calls for all our resources. Business men and women know the advantages of partnership — increased accomplishment and greater profits. But to attain these results there is need for partners to put their shoulders to the wheel and contribute to the extent of their ability. Full partnership requires sharing of effort as well as of profit.

In the job which faces us as citizens — finding the way to peace — members of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs want the opportunity of full partnership. They believe the task requires everyone to contribute according to ability and a willingness to share hardship and sacrifice in order to achieve the difficult task ahead.

B & PW WORLD FRIENDSHIP FUND FOSTERS INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS

The Judge Hughes World Friendship Fund makes possible increased assistance to business and professional women who come to the United States for professional reasons. This fund is being used to help members from other countries, women brought to the United States from Germany, Austria and Japan as part of the orientation program and women brought to training through the ECA or the United Nations. Also this fund is being used to help members of other B. and P. W. National Federations and clubs to come to the United States to observe special work of the United Nations or for specific meetings in connection with National or International Federation work.

True international understanding can only be reached thru tolerance of national viewpoints and an understanding of one another's problems. We feel the World Friendship Fund to be an adept tool to build better international and human relations which in turn should hasten the creation of a peaceful world of free people.

The Louisiana Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs has donated generously to the World Friendship Fund and is keenly interested in the expansion of this world important undertaking.

MAYOR CYLDE E. FANT TO BE GUEST SPEAKER AT B & PW BOSSES' BANQUET

It is an annual custom of Monroe B. and P. W. Club members to invite their bosses as guests to the banquet held during Business Women's Week. This occasion will be celebrated in the Mirror Room at Hotel Frances on Tuesday, September 25 at 7:30 p. m.

Guest speaker of the evening will be Mayor Clyde E. Fant. Prior to his being elected Mayor of Shreveport, Mayor Fant had become widely known as a civic-spirited man. His leadership and accomplishment in bringing industries to Shreveport won for him the title of "Man of the Month" in November 1948.

A native of Cass county in Texas, Fant is the son of Judge and Mrs. J. P. Fant. His father was widely known in east Texas politics and at the time of his death was a member of the Texas legislature.

Following graduation at Marshall, Fant taught school for a year at Blocker, Texas. He then became affiliated with the Southwest Gas and Electric Company. He soon was promoted to sales manager, a position he held until he accepted the job as merchandising manager for a wholesale electric appliance company in Shreveport. His 17 years of salesmanship throughout the Ark.-La. - Texas area provided the way for his knowing its people, problems and hopes.

His first experience in public office was serving out an unexpired term as commissioner of Public Utilities for Shreveport. In 1946 he was urged by his friends to run for the office of mayor and though almost politically unknown, he rode into office by an overwhelming margin of ten to one over his opponent.

The mayor has continued to bring home the fact that the people of Shreveport must spend money if they are to keep pace with their growth. They listened and in 1947 approved a $9,600,000 bond issue for the mayor's Greater Shreveport Improvement Plan. This was the largest bond ever put before the property owners of that city.

In 1948 Fant was one of four United States mayors chosen to attend the International Union of Cities at The Hague in The Netherlands.

Apprehensive over the situation in Europe, Fant declared when he returned to Shreveport — "After talking to the people who were under the hell of oppression inflicted upon them by Naziism, I am convinced that only by keeping America strong, Democratic and free thinking, can we hold aloft the torch of hope for a peaceable world. We must stamp out any Communistic or Socialistic thinking we find within our country."

MANGHAM LITERARY CLUB HAS FIRST MEETING OF CLUB YEAR

On September 11, the Mangham Literary Club, held their first meeting, beginning what is expected to be a very successful club year. The hostesses, Mrs. John F. Boughton and Mrs. R. B. Boughton, graciously welcomed the guest into the friendly atmosphere of the John F. Boughton home.

The president, Mrs. Annette Coolidge, called the meeting to order and gave reports on the correspondence received during the inactive summer months. The club expressed their desire to send a CARE package to Korea, thus having a small part in helping to alleviate the untold suffering in that area.

"Focus on Education" was the topic for the night's discussion. Mrs. Theo Jones gave a review of the book "And Madly Teach" written by Mortimer Smith. This is an essay about education by a layman and an amateur, written in the conviction that parents and taxpayers ought to get over their lazy indifference to the public schools and study the theory and practice of public - school education. In short, find out what it is we are paying for and to which we turn over our children. This book of Mr. Smith's was devoted, Mrs. Jones stated, to what might be called destructive criticism of modern education. The comments from the teachers present were largely in opposition to the views presented by Mr. Smith. Mrs. Jones gave the report in a characteristic and most interesting manner.

Miss Ola Cooper then gave a discussion on "Aims of Modern Education," giving the progressive view on the offensive against the Traditional as expressed by Harold Taylor, a John Dewey spokesman. The goal of education as expressed by John Dewey is as follows, "It is true that the aim of education is development of individuals to the utmost of their potentialities. But this statement leaves unanswered the question as to what is the measure of the development. A society of free individuals in which all, through their own work, contribute to the liberation and enrichment of the lives of others, is the only environment in which any individual can really grow normally to his full stature."

Miss Cooper, in giving Mr. Taylor's views stated, "All the forces in society seem to be conspiring to subdue the teacher, to tame his spirit, and to prevent him from carrying on his role as a moral and intellectual leader." Mr. Taylor says that Mr. Dewey has given us a description of the way knowledge can best be gained, how truth may be tested, how education can be effective and how values and ideas can be conceived and won. Education exists to give the greatest possible chance to each person to use all the powers he has within him and one of these powers is the ability to find truth in experience and to follow that truth.

The listeners enjoyed the quiet manner in which Miss Cooper presented her discussion.

Miss Bessie Noble, Fifth District president of L. F. W. C., led in the reading of the club collect and the meeting was thus dismissed.

Friends then enjoyed a few minutes socially, at which time the Mesdames Boughtons served refreshing frosted drinks and homemade cake. Those present were: Mrs. Bob Bell, Jr., Mrs. Reese Boies, Mrs. Bennie Boughton, Mrs. John F. Boughton, Mrs. R. B. Boughton, Mrs. Kline Cheek, Mrs. Annette Coolidge, Miss Ola Cooper Mrs. Noble Ellington, Mrs. Raymond Gieger, Mrs. Bennie Hixon, Mrs. Theo Jones, Mrs. Traylor Jones, Mrs. Roodrow Marlowe, Miss Bessie Noble and Mrs. Edmund Williamson.

To Observe Library Day

News From The Public Library

In recognition of the important part that libraries play in the life of America October 4 is being observed nationally as Library Day. This is the first time that a day has been set apart for this purpose. This day has been selected because it marks the 75th anniversary of the formation of the American Library association. The American public library is a unique institution that has developed in this country. It is different from the libraries of other countries. No where else do we find a library for the use of all the people and supported by public funds. Other countries have research libraries for scholars and rental libraries for readers of fiction, but in America the average man has a chance to educate himself by using the resources of his public library. Do you know that the first library was established in this country by Benjamin Franklin in 1731. It was what was called a subscription library. The patrons bought shares in the library and were allowed to use the books. The first tax supported library was established in Peterborough, New Hampshire in 1833.

Louisiana was slow in getting started in the library movement. In 1925 when the Louisiana Library Commission was organized there were only four public libraries in the state and not one of them gave modern library service. Today thirty-five out of the 64 parishes in the state give complete library service to the people of the parish. This is a remarkable growth and one that the people of the state should view with pride.

In recognition of the help given the libraries of Louisiana in the period of the twenties by the American Library association, Gov. Earl K. Long has issued a proclamation that October 4 is to be observed in Louisiana as Library Day.

In Ouachita parish we are asking all the citizens of the parish to visit the different branches of the parish library system. The headquarters and Monroe branch combined is located at 418 Jackson street. The West Monroe branch is located at 106 Cypress street in West Monroe. The Carver Branch for the colored people of the parish is located at 116 North 10th street in Monroe. The Bookmobile serves the rural people. It may be seen at the headquarters branch after 4:00 on Library Day.

The Ouachita Parish Public Library is a tax - supported institution and you should know how the money is being spent. We give you a hearty invitation to see us at work.

1839 BALES GINNED

Prior to the first day of September, 1,839 bales of cotton of the 1951 season had been ginned in Ouachita parish. These figures were given in a report filed by Ernest A. McFarland, district supervisor of the bureau of census.

DOROTHY DIX

Playing With Fire

Secretary Must Ignore Proffered Attentions of Married Co-Worker

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I am a secretary, aged 25, madly in love with a married man of 30 whose wife has recently become pregnant. I meet this man every day on the job and he is driving me crazy. He has shown me many small affections and has begged me to date him. I doubt that he knows of my feelings for him—I just try to be friendly. I have refused his dates, saying that I am going out with one of four men I regularly date.

DOROTHY DIX

I have a good job that I really need because I am helping to support my family with an ailing mother. Even though I am playing with fire, I can't wait to see him every morning. I am attractive and popular and never have wanted for dates ever since I can remember. Please don't tell me that I've been swept off my feet by a Casanova, because he isn't that type; he's a quiet, well-bred, shy individual. I have never met anyone that I was interested in marrying; why do I have to fall in love with a married man? I certainly [illegible] never break up his home.

ANSWER: I certainly wouldn't size your friend up as a Casanova; he's more a somewhat harrassed young husband who is temporarily deprived of his wife's company on the sort of dates he apparently likes, and is seeking the nearest diversion. This is a very common situation, and while it is the outcome, usually, of nothing worse than thoughtlessness, it is one of the most contemptible attitudes a husband can take. After all, a wife who is expecting a child is not having exactly a gay time of it, and her husband's attentions mean more to her then than they ever will again.

HE'S NO HEARTBREAKER

Since he is unaware of your feelings for him, he cannot be accused of being a heart-breaker either. You are the one at fault, and unless you face your position squarely, you are letting yourself in for an empty, unhappy life.

You are infatuated by the unattainable—also a situation not uncommon. The spell may break for you when proud papa begins showing snapshots of his infant son or daughter all over the office. In the meantime, don't under any circumstances accept his dates. Continue friendly but let him know that this is the extent of your feelings, take other dates and make yourself become interested in a more eligible male. It can be done! Perhaps this man is the one great love of your life. Even so, he can be tucked into the recesses of your heart and mind while you concentrate on making a decent future for yourself. You have reached an age of discretion and must not waste time in hopeless and hapless dreaming. Get on with your life!

DEAR MISS DIX: My husband and I have been friends with another couple for years. We visited them once or twice a year and they always treat us very well. The wife is known as an introvert. The husband is very likeable and we enjoy their company immensely. The problem is that they don't visit us. The husband is a physician, and is, of course, kept busy with his work. My question is: Do you think we ought to continue visiting them though they never visit us unless we give a card party, or invite them specially to dinner or lunch? L. H.

ANSWER: Since you enjoy the company of these people, and they seem to take pleasure in your visits, there's no reason why you should end the friendship. Many people prefer having company to being company, and although this is an anti-social attitude, friends of understanding will make allowances for it. A physician has a limited social life anyway, and if he is a busy man with a general practice, being constantly on call is bound to limit visiting.

Since you recognize the wife as an introvert, you know she is probably self-conscious and not the type person who likes to make surprise visits. She always accepts your specific invitations, so why not make them more frequent if you want her at your house more often?

The essence of friendship lies in summing up our friends' faults and virtues, making allowances where necessary and liking the people for their failings as well as their good points.

DEAR MISS DIX: I am 15 and awfully shy. I like a certain boy very much and have heard rumors that he likes me, but every time he talks to me I stutter and stammer. I have quite a few friends with whom I am not shy but I hate to meet new people and mingle with them. Is there anything I can do? D. S.

ANSWER: Shyness is a typical characteristic of the teens and your behavior in the presence of a boy you like is not unusual. It is important, and possible, for you to learn to overcome this self-consciousness, and for the sake of a happy future social life, you should take every possible measure to accomplish this. Dislike of meeting new people could become so ingrained a trait that it would mar your life permanently. That is the problem for immediate tackling; its solution lies in getting into groups and working with them. A dramatic group in church or school would provide an excellent outlet for you. Athletic activities in which boys and girls participate are also recommended.

Petticoats Parade for Fall Season

The petticoat has a place all its own for fall and winter. This place may be underneath or over, according to the whim of the wearer. Shown here are three petticoats designed to be worn either way. Silk brocade (left) gleams with red and green flowers, is stiffened at the hem. Luxurious gold metallic cloth makes a petticoat (center), while black nylon net (right) is in four layers.

By Gaile Dugas
(NEA Woman's Editor)

New York — (NEA) — The place for your petticoat from now on is underneath or over, depending on your mood. The new petticoats were designed to be worn either way. They can stiffen and bell a tweed skirt or a taffeta late-day dress, but they can also go over the sheath dress and thus turn it into a costume on its own.

The petticoat takes many forms. It may be crinoline, taffeta, tulle, stiffened nylon net, brocade, or even luxurious gold metallic cloth. Both the flared, or bell, and the yoke styles count. It might even be reversible this season.

Color emphasis is on white or black but all shades of red are important. Strikes and checks are for the girl with a large petticoat wardrobe.

Whatever petticoat you pick, it's the underlying force for all your swinging skirts for fall and winter. You'll wear it with tweed, with flannel, with poodle cloth. Often, you'll wear two or three foaming layers at one time, make your waist look tiny.

Silk brocade, printed in gleaming red and green flowers, makes a petticoat definitely worth wearing outside. Stiffened at the hem and banded at the waist, it's also appropriate for late - day wear.

Or, there's elaborate gold metallic cloth, cut into a petticoat with great sweep and a tiny waist. Heavy and stiff of its own weight, it could make a bouffant dress billow and spin.

Black nylon net, in four layers with each layer corded in satin, could readily slip over a straight black sheath and be cinched by a patent belt. Once done, you'd have an after - five costume, easy as pie.

Rayon Now Has Wool Look

By Gaile Dugas
(NEA Woman's Editor)

New York — (NEA) — The career girl, most especially the one with her very first job, has lots of places for her money this fall. She wants, certainly, to look good on the job, to be in fashion. She also wants to spend wisely, to get full returns on her money.

This, then, is the time to turn to rayon. For, now, rayon has the look of wool. It's the answer to money problems for the girl on a budget. Rayon is tailored as neatly as wool, can go wherever wool goes.

Rayon worsted, cut by Hal-Mar into a dress with a two - piece effect, is checked black - and-white. There's a neat side-buttoned vest that adds to the coordinated look.

A rayon that appears to be gray wool covert is used by designer Mary Muffett for a three - piece suit. Waist is nipped in, hips are rounded. A small detachable cape is reversible because it's lined in red jersey.

Lovely Tea-Shower Given For Delhi Bride-Elect

Miss Ann Armstrong Honored By Three Hostesses At Delhi Country Club

Mrs. James Wall, of Tallulah, Miss Virginia Erwin and Miss Raleigh Talbert, of Winnsboro, were hostesses at a beautiful tea-shower honoring Miss Ann Armstrong, bride-elect of Mr. James Turner of Wisner, recently at the Delhi Country Club.

The spacious reception room was bright with informal arrangements of late summer flowers in pastel colors, the table, covered in a white lace cloth was centered with a low arrangement of pink roses flanked with white tapers in silver candelabra. Miss Lois Stout of Delhi and Miss Joice Anderson of Tallulah presided at the crystal punch bowl. Attractive party sandwiches, petits-fours iced in white with pink rose buds, mints in pastel colors and assorted nuts were served.

Mrs. C. B. Cutler and Mrs. Neal Doyle McEacharn, of Delhi, assisted in the courtesies. Mrs. Cutler wore an early fall model in charcoal grey crepe with a corsage of pale pink carnations; Mrs. McEacharn wore an afternoon dress in pink pique with a wrist corsage of blue painted daisies.

Receiving with Mrs. Wall, Miss Erwin, Miss Talbert and the honoree were Mrs. J. A. Turner of Wisner and Mrs. Childress Armstrong of Delhi. Miss Armstrong wore a ballet length bouffant dress of rose silk organza, fashioned with an off-shoulder neckline softened with a double rolled collar of self material fastened with gold clips set with rhinestones. She wore a corsage of white carnations.

Among the out-of-town guests were Miss Rita Smith and Mrs. J. W. Rogillio of Tallulah. Mrs. Thomas Williamson, Miss Rowena Ramage, Mrs. Julian Greenwald, Mrs. J. E. Godfrey, Mrs. Abe Nixon, of Winnsboro; Miss Nell Percy of St. Francisville, Mrs. Earl Rarrol of Gilbert, Mrs. David Roach, Sr., Mrs. Helvier Bondurant all of Wisner; Mrs. James Carson and Miss Dawn Wilson and Mrs. Marrs McCurty of Oak Grove.

Lovely gifts of crystal, silver and china in Miss Armstrong's chosen patterns, linens, pottery and a variety of occasional pieces in crystal and china were displayed on tables along one wall. The hostess' gift was a handsome lazy susan in bleached mahogany fitted with pottery in several shades of green.

DISPLAY PLANNED IN FORESTRY ART

Conference Is Held With Director Of Louisiana Art Commission

The Louisiana Forestry Art Exhibition was the subject of a conference held in Monroe yesterday by Jay Broussard, director of the Louisiana Art Commission. Broussard conferred with Leita Mae King of Northeast Louisiana College and J. V. Spatafora of The Art Shop, urging them to stimulate interest among amateur artists in the coming art contest.

Broussard was surprised to learn that 50 students were enrolled in the college's first regular art course offered in many years. Miss King is instructor for the two college courses, which offer an introduction to art and instruction in art education.

Until this fall, Miss King has been a student at the Kansas City Art Institute, from which she was graduated. Daughter of Mrs. Ella H. King, she is a native of Monroe but had been attending the Institute for the past four years. She will specialize in portrait painting.

In addition to her duties at the college this term, Miss King will instruct the children's class at the Art Shop which will be held each Saturday morning. During weekdays, Spatafora, owner of the shop, plans to instruct all classes.

Spatafora is also a native of Monroe and has received art instruction at Washington University in St. Louis and at the Kansas City Art Institute. In the current exhibition at his studio, there are 39 paintings from local amateur artists.

"These paintings are the result of contacting just a handful of people," Spatafora said. "With a little more time, many more local citizens will exhibit their paintings in the next exhibits, as there is a genuine interest in art here."

Judging from the apparent acceleration in art interest in Monroe, Broussard estimated that at least 15 paintings should be entered in the state forestry art exhibit from here. He stressed that anyone can enter the contest in one of the five categories.

The categories have been separated according to professional artists, adult amateur artists, college art students, high school art students and elementary school children. Prizes will be awarded for first, second and third places in each of the categories for both abstract and conventional paintings. A total of $2100 in prizes is being offered.

"This is quite an unusual contest," Broussard said, "in that a public agency such as the Louisiana Forestry Commission is using painting as a medium to promote interest in forestry and forest industries." He pointed out, also, that the exhibition marks the first time in the state's history that two public agencies have joined hands in sponsoring a state project.

In addition to interest in forestry stimulated on the part of hundreds of amateur and professional artists, the exhibition is designed to be of even more benefit to other citizens of the state who will see the exhibition, Broussard said. When the entries have been judged, a selected group of paintings will be available indefinitely for public exhibitions throughout the state.

Deadline for entries in the contest is Oct. 25 and all entries must be accompanied by entry blanks which may be obtained by writing Broussard at the Old State Capitol in Baton Rouge. The jury of awards will meet on Nov. 3 and 4, with the exhibition being opened to the public on Nov. 11 at the Old State Capitol building.

Anyone interested in more information about the contest should contact Miss King or Spatafora at The Art Shop, or Lambert Romero, who is district forester of District Five, stationed in West Monroe.

Mrs. C. R. Tidwell Is Co-Hostess At First Fall Meeting Of Club Year

Mrs. A. M. Serex and Mrs. C. R. Tidwell were hostesses to the first fall meeting of the Opera Club held in the Serex home on Thursday, September 13. Mrs. Melba Liner, the outgoing president, presented the gavel to Mrs. Duncan Smith as executive officer for the new year of 1951-52.

At this time Mrs. Tidwell presented a past president pin to Mrs. Liner in appreciation of the splendid work she accomplished during her year as president of the club. Mrs. C. W. Caraway, program chairman, was complimented on the attractive new year books distributed at this time. Designed and made by Mrs. Caraway the book presents a clever and unique jacket.

In her inimitable manner, Mrs. Caraway introduced the title subject of the day, "Do We Like Music?" The discourse that followed was both instructive and interesting.

Mrs. Merle Padgett gave the opera news, a feature of each month's meeting. Mrs. Padgett had an abundance of interesting items that held the attention of her listerners.

The aria, "Pourquoi" from the opera Lamke by Delibes was charmingly rendered by Mrs. Serex.

Mrs. Poag's piano selection, "Fantasia," from Robin Hood, was thoroughly enjoyed. A social hour followed with delicious refreshments served to the following members: Mrs. Duncan Smith, Mrs. R. O. Ware, Mrs. J. C. Kramer, Mrs. B. B. Martin, Mrs. R. W. Cretney, Mrs. C. W Caraway, Mrs J. Norman Coon, Mrs. Melba Liner, Mrs. Merle Padgett, Mrs. L. V. Tarver, Mrs. P. A. Poag, Mrs. Tidwell and Mrs. Serex.

New York —(AP)— Every American mother today has a terrible problem.

It is this:

"Shall I raise my boy to be honest? Or shall I just raise him honestly — and let him scratch out of life what he can?"

If she rears him to be honest she teachers him life as it ought to be. If she raises him honestly, she gives him a rough - and - ready approach to the world as it actually is.

This puts mama in a straitjacket choice. Does she want her lad clad in the armor of purity (always shabby at the cuffs), or does she prefer him in the latest snazzy, custom - made, tomato-proof three - button racetrack special suit?

Would she have her boy poor but honest and making out as best he can, or have him honestly trying to make all he can?

In the old days mothers didn't have this choice. They were as rigorously sure of the triumph of virtue as Horatio Alger ever dared to dream.

But there is a new and cynical standard in the marketplace today. Put crisply it is this: The better you are the more you can make by selling yourself short.

Picture, for example, the black despair of a mother who finds her young boy has an unexpected talent at bouncing a basketball. In whose tender hands can she more safely intrust him — the nearest college president, or the nearest bookie? Or both?

Or should she at her mother's knee tell him to go life fifty-fifty, playing one game for the college and throwing the next game for the bookie? A boy's loyalties are so divided these days.

Suppose her boy just wants to grow up and be a policeman and pound a beat and protect a bookie joint? How can such a mother krow when to tell her son to kill himself for shame — or innocence —and when it is better to wait for the bookie boss to cave in to top level common sense? And how can this dear old mother say whether he should retire, and escape the possibility of police departmental charges, or stay on and sweat out the fact the big boys have to find a way out for the small boys in order to save themselves?

These questions put the modern conscientious American mother on the spot. They demand a lot of moral timing that motherhood in the old days never had to decide.

I think a lot of mothers are going to rebel against having to assume this unnatural responsibility. Some are going to meet it by drowning any of their offspring who show athletic ability. Others are going to pay them a bonus out of their household budget if they'll promise not to play college football—or join the police force.

And a few thoughtful, far-seeing mother are going to raise their sons to be politicians, who can make a name for themselves by denouncing crime in off - election years, and forgetting it thereafter.

After all, in a civilization which pays doctors to identify cancers they cannot cure, why shouldn't a mama raise her boy to be a politician who makes a living pointing out social evils he can't or won't do anything about either?

That way he won't have to bounce a dirty old basketball around, be a nation's houseguest by playing football, or wear out his arches plodding from one bookie joint to another, collecting an honest patrolman's dues for defending the law.

It must be a worry to be a mother with a fine young boy today.

Jennie Mitchell Trophy Is Awarded

Mrs. Louisa Hagel O'Steen was awarded the Jennie Mitchell trophy at the department convention as the outstanding district president of the department. This trophy is the only department trophy awarded an individual; others are for outstanding efforts in the various programs of the department.

Mrs. O'Steen, member of Powell Martin Barrett Unit No. 37 at Lake Providence, won the outstanding district president trophy on her work as fifth district president on reports sent in on time and accurately worded and listed, that the district exceeded it's membership quota; time, effort and interest were put in every phase of unit work by attendance at all district conferences and department conferences and conventions; trips were made to install officers of various units throughout the district, the largest area district in the state; attendance at social functions of the units and joint meetings of Legion and Auxiliary; response to invitations to be guest speaker for many unit meetings to build enthusiasm and keep up interest in the various programs; personal contact wth the units by correspondence and telephone; endorsement of the district units for the trophy.

Mrs. O'Steen's Legion Auxiliary membership began in 1945 when she joined Powell Martin Barrett Unit and in her local unit she has served excellently as secretary (48-49) and as chairman of Americanism and for the current year she is second vice - president, poppy chairman, and member of the constitution and by laws committee. In the fifth district and department she has a record of two years as fifth district president, national defense chairman (4-48); and for the present year she is department community service chairman.

The Lake Providence Unit is proud of the honor that this member brings to its coveted list of trophies for poppy sales, community service and publicity.

Catahoula Cotton Picking Lively

Jonesville—Cotton picking in Catahoula continued at a fast pace this week, with more mechanical pickers coming in to help with the harvest, and with hand pickers keeping busy. Gins are running time and a half because the cotton is piling in fast with the speed-up.

Two new mechanical pickers came in from Texas this week, making a dozen or so working over the parish. Mechanical picking is something new to most cotton farmers, but they are taking on to it rapidly. Scarcity of labor and high wages demanded for picking is causing the trend to further mechanization in this parish, where cotton is the major crop.

Estrolar Cream

Estrólar Cream is absolutely unique. No other cream contains ozonides plus potent estrogenic hormones—science's newest discovery for making you look years younger.

As you grow older, your skin becomes starved for oxygen and moisture. The lack of oxygen makes it discolored and flaky. The lack of moisture leads to wrinkles and flabbiness.

Now, with one cream, you can restore both these vital substances. The ozonides in Estrolar Cream release oxygen to your skin. This starts your blood circulating more freely. It tends to even the color of your skin, to give it the bright, radiant look of youth!

The potent estrogenic hormones sink deep into your inner skin and increase its ability to hold moisture. This fills out your outer skin, helping it look firmer, fuller—and years younger. It actually tends to make wrinkles disappear!

A 10-minute Estrolar Cream massage every night will show results in a few days! After less than 30 days, you will feel as if 10 years had dropped off your age!

What is the age of GLAMOUR?

The age of glamour is any age at which a woman's beauty and charm make her most fascinating! She's seldom under "30"...she's usually in her "40's" or older...and she invariably devotes time and care to keep her skin naturally lovely and youthful looking . . . without the use of "cover-up" cosmetics.

For over 15 years, thousands of women have achieved this naturally youthful look with Endocreme . . . because Endocreme, with its exclusive hormone ingredient "Activol" actually regenerates ageing skin cells and tissue for most women . . . smooths out lines and wrinkles . . . firms up the skin . . . makes it look more youthful. Isn't it worth finding out for yourself? A full month's supply only $3.50 plus tax.

FIRST CHURCH OF CHRIST, SCIENTIST
224 Auburn Ave.
"Matter" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, Sunday, September 23, 1951.
The Golden Text is: "My flesh and my heart faileth: But God is the strength of my heart, and my portion forever" (Ps. 73:26).
Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "This I say then, Walk in the Spirit, and ye shall not fulfill the lust of the flesh." (Gal. 5:16).
The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures"by Mary Baker Eddy: "The testimony of the material senses is neither absolute nor divine." (p. 269).

Bible Comment

By William E. Gilroy, D. D.

By William E. Gilroy, D. D.

The Bible is for the whole world. But how many "worlds" are in the Bible? Recently I searched through a concordance to find out how many times the word "world" is used in the New Testament.

I was truly amazed at the number of such passages to issue from the little land of Palestine, seemingly of minor importance among the great empires of the ancient world. Equally impressive is the number of references to the world by Jesus, the man from a tiny village in the hills known as Nazareth.

In spite of an enviornment that would have stifled many, Jesus glimpsed truths that were universal and from the very beginning delivered His message with a consciousness of the world about him.

Let's take a look at the first example of his awareness of the world. It began in that temptation (Matthew 4: 8-11), in which he saw the kingdoms of the world, with all the allurements of worldly power, but in which He chose the divine, not the human way, and set the fulfilment of His spiritual mission above all that the world could possibly have given.

The earthly Christ understood clearly and fully the meaning of that choice. I have been impressed with his many and persistent references to the world hating Him (John 7:7, 15:18, 17:14, etc.), and that hatred of Him by the world of His own time stands out strongly when we observe, and reflect up the hatred of the world for the Christ today.

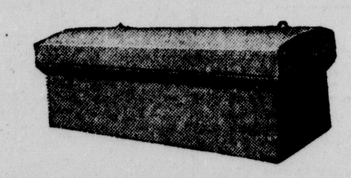

A worldly hatred of the Christ lies deep also in places where we might least suspect it. I have been reading recently rather extensively in the most popular and best-selling fiction of our time.

It is true that the novels of my late friend, Lloyd Douglas, were distinctly religious, and that other similar books have had similar, if not equal distinction.

But what has amazed me is the number of these best known current stories in which there is not on a single page the slightest evidence that either the authors or their characters, in these books produced in a "Christian" land, had either the knowledge of Christ, or the merest interest in the fact that Jesus; the great teacher, ever lived.

Hatred of the Christ in that respect is probably an unconscious factor, but surely it must underlie the sheer and gross paganism of so much of our literature and life today!

Yet the world that hated Jesus was the world that He loved. His prayer for His followers was not that they should be taken out of the world, but that they should be kept from its evil; and even more that they should overcome evil with good. And to those who, like their master, would be in the world, but not of the world, He gave a great message of hope and confidence: "Be of good cheer; I have overcome the world."

Hamm of 308 Stewart ave., West Monroe, La., returns the salute of his commanding officer after receiving the Distinguished Flying Cross and three gold stars in lieu of a second and third, and fourth Air Medal. The awards were made for Lt. Hamm's combat services in the Philippines, Palau and Caroline Islands during World War II. He is presently undergoing training at a Navy Fleet All Weather Training Unit.

VETERAN LEHDS TO CAMP POLK

Will Serve Red Cross As Assistant Field Director

Camp Polk, La. —(Special)— Martin Lehds, 51, a veteran of eight and a half years of foreign service with American Red Cross field forces in Europe, Asia, and North Africa, has joined the Red Cross unit at Camp Polk as assistant field director.

Lehds reported Monday for duty. His previous assignment was as field director for the Red Cross at Eniwetok Atoll, in the Marshall Island chain, where he spent 12 months, returning stateside in June of this year.

A Savannah, Ga., native, Lehds was enlisted by the Red Cross May 8, 1943, while serving as an American field service ambulance driver attached to the British 8th army in Cairo, Egypt. He had been there since February, 1942.

The Red Cross first required his services from May to October, 1943 at Tel Aviv, Palestine, an area that later was the site of war between the Arabs and the Jews.

Thereafter, he joined an A. R. C. club and mobile unit in Persia on an assignment which carried him from Teheran to the Russian border and did not end until July, 1945.

From July 1945 to April, 1946, he was a Red Cross administrator in North Africa with headquarters in Oran and Casablanca. He later served in North Italy with the U. S. army 88th division from June, 1946, to September, 1947. At that time, the 88th was employed on a police action assignment to maintain order along the now famous Morgan Line near Trieste.

Lehds also took his turn in Korea. He was on Red Cross duty along the 38th parallel from March 1948 to June 1949, with the U. S. 7th infantry division and the fifth regimental combat team.

He left Korea to join the 1st cavalry division, the 27th infantry "Wolfhound" regiment of the 25th division, and the 35th regiment of the 24th division on maneuvers around Mt. Fuji in Japan. He remained with them from June to November, 1949, and then moved to Eniwetok.

Lehds' duty at Camp Polk will include the task of assisting servicemen with their financial and personal problems. His assignment here ends a two - month leave which began upon his return to the U. S.

Round-The-Clock Wardrobe Shown

Designed to the specifications of the girl with a job, the round-the-clock, self-made wardrobe, is featured in the current issue of Glamour. The Palace has made this wardrobe the basis of a fall career-girl promotion. Taking its construction plan from modern architecture, the idea is to sew seven buildable fashions in Vogue patterns. Each part was carefully chosen for its simple, functional lines, for its ability to mix and match with the other parts in the plan. With a few quick changes, the career girl wears these convertible separates all day at a desk, and into her after-five life.

There are three king-pin pieces shown: the investment suit in dark oxford grey wool flannel, with the new waisted look to its jacket, motion in its full gored skirt; tapering frontier pants of black velveteen lit-with jet, and encrusted with braid scroll on the hip pockets; an extravagantly wide gathered skirt in lace, billowing over crisp taffeta petticoat.

Also vital to the plan are the snug little blouses and jackets which complete the other designs. The black wool jersey shirt with its new mock turtle-neck collar Glamour calls a go-with-everything fashion. Over it, for a striking effect, goes a rib-hugging corduroy spencer. This spencer top with its deep scooped-out neckline, can double as a blouse or as the jacket it is. The white linen blouse, another adaptable Vogue pattern separate, is highlighted by a new keyhole neckline, mentioned in the latest fashion bulletins. For both and little evenings, there is a little black lace strapless bodice. Worn with the matching full-full cotton lace skirt, it looks like a formal dance dress. Added as a halter top to the grey flannel suit it becomes a costume for dinner and theater dates.

LIGHTS ON FOR CANCER MEMORIAL SUNDAY

You're invited to attend Church today to join with your friends and neighbors in observing

CANCER MEMORIAL SUNDAY

YOUR CONTRIBUTION SPELLS HOPE

This day has been set aside as more than a special time to remember those who have fallen victim to cancer; it has been proclaimed a period set apart as a time to seek the spiritual guidance and support so necessary to those engaged in the humanitarian effort to save lives and eliminate unnecessary human suffering caused by cancer.

LIGHTS ON: The hour between nine and ten o'clock tonight, after church services, has been designated as "Lights On" Hour. Its beginning will be signaled by church bells and sirens. When you hear them, turn on your porch or other outside lights as a signal that YOU WANT TO GIVE THAT OTHERS MIGHT LIVE. Members of the Pilot Club of Monroe and other volunteers of the Ouachita Parish Unit of the American Cancer Society will be standing by, awaiting your light as a signal to call by and pick up your contribution.

When your turn on your light, you will be helping to bring cancer out of the darkness which surrounds it by making it possible to reach more people with life-saving facts about it; you will be helping bring the light of hope to those who may become victims of cancer in the future; you will be helping to turn the brighter light on scientific research on this mystery killer, with faith that one day, with God's help, its cause and cure will be found

MAKE YOUR PORCH LIGHT A BEACON OF HOPE

Give that others might live . . .

LABOR MARKET HIGHLIGHTS

Increase Of 50 Workers In Non-Farm Employment Shown In Parish

There is an estimated increase of 50 workers in non-farm employment in Ouachita parish with an increase of 75 in manufacturing industries and a loss of 25 in non-manufacturing industries.

Female employment increased 20 workers with an increase of 5 in manufacturing and 15 in non-manufacturing. Unemployment is estimated to be 1,300 of which 550 are females and 350 are veterans.

It is estimated that 1,500 additional workers will be used to harvest the cotton crops, of which approximately 1,000 will migrate into the area.

Employment is estimated to increase 175 in the next two months.

Total non-farm employment in the Monroe labor market area (Ouachita parish) increased from an estimated 20,175 in July to 20,225 in August. Estimated employment in August, 1950 was 19,700. The principal increase during August, 1951 was in the lumber and timber products industries and was due to a government contract at one of the sawmills

Female employment increased 20 in August, 1951 with the female employment level showing no increase in August, 1950.

The manufacturing industries have 5,550 workers and there were increases in lumber and timber products, printing, publishing and allied products industries, chemicals and allied products and stone, clay and glass products industries. There was a very slight decrease in food and kindred products.

The non-manufacturing industries have 14,675 workers and there were small increases in communications and service industries. These increases were off-set by decreases in other public utilities, retail trade and government industries. No significant changes were noted in any particular industry.

Information is obtained regularly from a representative sample of employers in all the major industries to prepare the employment estimates.

Self-employed, domestic, and unpaid family workers are not included in these estimates.

Studies are being conducted in the wholesale and retail trade to determine the correct number of employed workers. Necessary revisions for these two items will be made upon completion of this study.

CHASE FARM IS TO PLAY HOST

Twelve State Officials Will Participate In Big F---- lin Affair

Winnsboro, La., Sept. 22.—(Special)—The second annual field day will be held at the Chase 304-acre outfield farm Tuesday, September 25, beginning at 1:30 o'clock, according to Dr. Teme P. Hernandez, station superintendent. This farm which is actually a Louisiana State University experiment station is located five miles south of Winnsboro.

Twelve state and L. S. U. officials, along with two Franklin parish leaders will take part in this Field Day program. Those to appear on the program include: Dr. Julian C. Miller, head of L. S. U. agriculture department, Dean J. G. Lee, Jr., of the L.S. U. college of agriculture, W. G. Taggart, director, Louisiana agriculture experiment stations, W. E. Anderson, commissioner of agriculture, and others.

Jim C. Buie, chairman of the board of directors of the Winnsboro Business Men's Association, co - sponsor of the Field Day will preside over the afternoon's annual event.

The Chase station is similar to nine other stations throughout Louisiana. It has been responsible for the development of the unit No. 1 Porto Rican variety, which is wilt resistant and has an intense yellow flesh. The Chase outfield farm was purchased and put into operation in May, 1949.

The outlined program for the afternoon outdoor program has been announced as thus: introduction of the guests, John A. Cox, of L. S. U.; remarks, Dean J. G. Lee, Jr.; "Value of Foundation Stock Seed," Director Taggart; "Importance of Certified Seed" Commissioner Anderson; "Sweet Potato Research Program," Dr. Miller; "Sweet Potato Canning and Advertising," J. K. Arceneau, president of the sweet potato advertising commission; "Performance of Sweet Potato Varieties and Seedlings at Chase," Dr. Hernandez; tour of plot, Guy A. Luno, Franklin parish agent; discussion of seedlings, Dr. J. J. Mikell, L. S. U. research department; "Sweet Potato Grading, Seed Selection and Seed Treatment," Mr. Cox and Joe Montelaro, extension horticulturist; "Mechanization of Sweet Potato Production," W. D. Poole, L. S. U. agriculture engineer; and "Comparison of Sweet Potato Variety and Seedling Yield," James F. Fontenot, L. S. U. horticulturist.

Dean J. G. Lee, Jr., and Dr. Julian C. Miller will also be guest speakers at the Winnsboro Lions Club luncheon next Tuesday.

Gathering Scrap Iron From Battlefields Entails World Wide Job; Junk Metal Dear

By Bascom N. Timmons
(Morning World Correspondent)

Washington, Sept. 22 — Gathering the waste and junk of the World War II battlefields to build armament for the next war, if and when it comes, is somewhat reminiscent of borrowing from Peter to pay Paul. But that is exactly what is going on at the fastest rate possible. Just now scouts from the General Services Administration here in Washington are in Korea scanning the ground fought over during the last year to estimate how much waste metal can be obtained there and shipped back to the United States as scrap steel.

Just as at one stage in World War U. S. steel plants are becoming desperately short of scrap, and the time is not far distant when householders will be dinned at to pile all their scrap inside the front gate to be collected in local drives.

The battlefield collection of used steel, including everything from tanks to rusted helmets has struck some snags. The South Koreans who are not as grateful to the U. S. as some of our Congressmen think they should be claim all the scrap south of the 38th parallel and have refused to give the United States any preference in its sale. The only other bidders will be Japan and possibly Australia, but nevertheless the price will be as high as the South Korean government can make it.

The United States has already salvaged practically all available scrap from the island battlefields of World War II, even dredging some of it from swamps and off shore waters. But the scouts from G. S. A. will take a look — see on Okinawa and Guam just to be sure that nothing is being overlooked.

The average paid for scrap by the steel mills is $43.00 a ton and G. S. A. is in the market for every bit it can obtain.

The demand for scrap is so great that consideration is being given to the raising of 125 ships sunk off United States Alaskan coasts by submarines during the World War II.

Another 97 ships were sunk in the Marianas. If the scrap demand continues at its present peak they may be raised also.

It was said with bitter emphasis during the last war that huge shipments of scrap steel from the U. S. to Japan were hurled back at our ships and men. But the shells and equipment that we in turn hurled at German targets, when gathered with other war junk for scrap steel don't come back so rapidly. Last year the Germans rounded up only half of the 400,000 tons of scrap which they had promised us. Korea has an estimated 500,000 tons and the U. S. is inclined to assert a claim of a substantial part of this since it is the wreckage and waste of war material which we sent there. Despite the claim of the South Koreans the United States may ask the United Nations to decide between the conflicting claims.

Steel is made from a formula of approximately 50 per cent of pig iron and 50 per cent scrap steel. To make from all pig iron would be impossible as the cost would be too great, and production too slow.

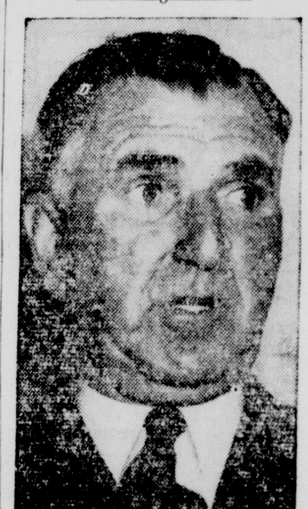

Other countries are making their demand on available scrap steel also and the United States is having to meet them. Last year, despite our own stringent needs we shipped 186,000 tons to other countries. This year we will buy back from foreign sources 111,000 tons of scrap materials. That sounds rather senseless but it all comes about in the process of exchange in this war scared world.

Despite the allocations to our good neighbors there are still some old fashioned ideas prevailing in some of those countries. Senator George W. Malone (Rep.-Nev.) asked a leading Mexican banker about an irrigation project being constructed in that country with an American grant.

"If you had been a United States senator voting such a grant what would you have done?"

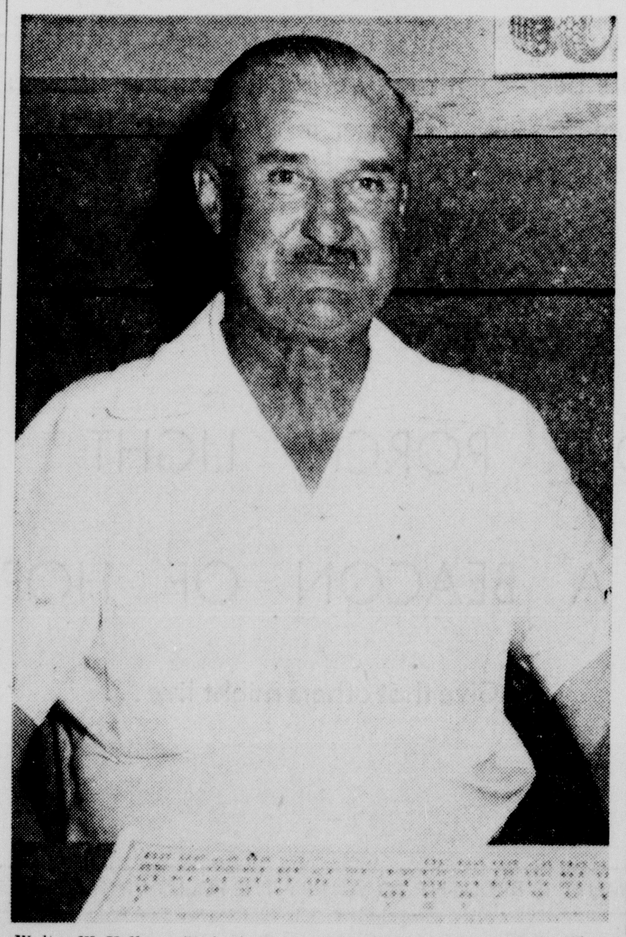

"I would not have given Mexico a cent," said the banker, "It is perfectly easy to borrow money in our country at regular rates of interest."

ACHIEVEMENT DAY PROPOSED

Will Be Held For Parish Home Demonstration Group September 29

Winnsboro, La., Sept. 22.,—(Special)—The annual Franklin Parish Home Demonstration Achievement Day will be held in Winnsboro Saturday, Sept. 29. The day-long program will be led by 375 members from eighteen parish clubs. It is expected to attract hundreds of visitors as the parade of dishpan and soup kettle orchestra leads the parade down Prairie street beginning at ten o'clock. The band will be under the direction of Miss Mary Sue Saunders, assistant demonstration agent, of Franklin parish. Following the parade the group will return to the high school campus for the day's program.

At 11:00 o'clock the women will assemble in the school auditorium to hear the principal speaker of the day, W. B. Glover, superintendent of the parish schools. They will also honor Mrs. L. M. McIntyre, president elect of the state Home Demonstration council. She will take office in May 1952. At noon the picnic-style lunch will be spread in the school gym. The exhibits will be open for public review at that time. At 1:00 o'clock the clubsters will engage in group singing led by Mrs. Julian Stepens, parish song leader of the Bates club. At 1:30 p. m. the clubs will stage a stunt and skit program

The program will be concluded at 3 o'clock with the announcement of the outstanding club of the year. The general public is urged to take part in all the Achievement Day activities.

The Achievement Day program is sponsored by the parish home demonstration department and is under the direction of Mrs. Ada W. Hanchey, Franklin parish home demonstration agent.

Residents Here Asked To Remember German Children

Mrs. Hodnette Sends Packages Of Clothing To Poverty Stricken Germans; Requests Others To Give Old Clothes And Blankets

Twin City residents and children here can help many of the underprivileged children of Germany to have a Merry Christmas and a Happier New Year!

Mrs. Minnie Lee Hodnette of 1803 South Grand St., Monroe, has been sending packages to the destitute children of Germany for the past several years.

This year, she hopes to obtain additional packages of clothing, blankets, wearing apparel and toys for the youngsters.

Mrs. Hodnette became interested in the German children when her son, Capt. Paul W. Hodnette, was stationed in Germany and began writing home of the many needs of the German children and their poverty stricken conditions.

Ever since then, she has been accumulating clothes and toys which she ships over as often as there's a good size package.

Captain Hodnette's wife is chairman of the welfare committee of the officers' wives club, and sees that the bundles are distributed where they are needed most, Mrs. Hodnette explained.

Mrs. Hodnette pointed out that it takes such a long time for the packages to arrive, she is starting now to collect Christmas packages for the German children.

Many of the packages go to the T. B. ward of the German hospital near Munich where hundreds of German babies are confined with T. B., asserted Mrs. Hodnette.

Often, Captain Hodnette takes the packages to the chaplain's office and they go to families nearby who are in desperate need.

Nothing is thrown away or discarded, Captain Hodnette's wife writes that after a child outgrows a garment, it is passed on to another child or alterations made for other members of the family.

Articles that are torn or worn are mended before they are distributed. Regardless of what condition a garment is in, it is never thrown away, Mrs. Hodnette said. The scraps are saved and used in pillows and quilts, reported Mrs. Hodnette.

If a child is fortunate enough to have a coat to wear to school, that coat usually serves as a blanket for the child at night, Mrs. Hodnette writes.

Two years ago, Mrs. Hodnette said, she mailed six packages in one day and this year, she hopes to accumulate even more for the German children.

Anyone with clothing which is not needed can turn it over to Mrs. Hodnette and she will mail it to her son for distribution or it can be mailed to Capt. Paul W. Hodnette, A. P. O. 172, care of Postmaster, New York City, N. Y.

STELLWAGON IS OFF FOR JAPAN

Local Friends Give Sendoff For Young Mission Worker

A few years ago this young man went to Japan on a war ship with guns but this time he left with a Bible in his hand to tell the Japanese the "greatest story ever told," the story of Christ and His love. Russell drove his station wagon to San Francisco, Calif. from which he will sail September 24 on the S. S. Tradewind.

This youthful missionary is the grandson of the late Dr. J. R. Henry. He has lived while in West Monroe with his grandmother, Mrs. Alda Henry, 301 Ludwig avenue, West Monroe.

The most unique feature about Stellwagon's going to Japan as missionary is that he is being sent by interested friends. These friends knew his desire and gave the necessary amount to get him to Japan and pledged a minimum amount to keep him there.

JACOBY ON CANASTA

By Oswald Jacoby

Study Your Hand Before Playing

The nature of your hand usually dictates the kind of campaign you must wage. Sometimes, however, the state of the score makes you switch from one plan to another. Your own score is important, but you must also consider the score of the opponents.

Suppose the turn-up card is a king, which is refused by the player at your right. He draws from the stock and discards a queen. You draw from the stock and then hold: Joker A-A K-K-K Q 6 4-4 3-2.

Your correct course depends on the score. If neither side is above 4000 points, you have a pretty good play for the pack. If you have a big lead over the opponents, you should play the hand conservatively. If they have a big lead over you, it is proper to go all out for the pack.

Suppose, for example, that the opponents have about 4600 points and that you have about 3200. Your plan is to play for the pack. Your first discard is the queen, matching the card discarded by your right-hand opponent.

Everybody knows the importance of matching the discards of your left-hand opponent, but only a few good players know that it often pays to match the first discard or two of the player at your right. The discard tells him nothing about your hand.

He got by you safely with his discard but probably cannot repeat it, for it is unlikely that he broke up a pair or a trio. Hence he must venture into unknown territory for his next discard .Making him guess often enough and he sometimes guess wrong.

At your next turn you may discard one of the kings. You want to leave room in your hand to accumulate more pairs. Moreover, your opponent may decide it is safe to throw a king at his next turn. At your third turn, you will discard the black three. By this time you should have a fair idea of what it is safe the throw. If necessary, you will throw the rest of your kings in order to keep pairs of low cards.

If your plot works successfully you will win the discard pile fairly quickly. You have a fair chance to earn a big score.

Now suppose that the scores are reversed: You have 4600 points while the opponents have 320 Now you don't dream of discarding a king. You will build your hand up, meld fairly early, and play for one canasta and a fast out. It would be foolish to gamble for a big score and lose a game that is practically within your grasp.

LET'S EXPLORE YOUR MIND

By ALBERT EDWARD WIGGAM, D. S.

Answer to Question No. 1

1. The professor replied: "Love is by no means the most stupid thing man does, but relativity cannot be held responsible for that." Maybe the professor's theory of relativity is all right. I have never found any flaws in it, but I think relativity is responsible for man falling in love, because it shows gravitation is a low-down crook and often makes him think he is standing right-end up when he is standing wrong-end up. And that is when some woman gets him. He thinks he is looking through her when she is looking through him, and that is love—relatively speaking.

Answer to Question No. 2

2. Yes, if you don't care whether you are right or not. One wit has said, "Prejudices are a great time-saver. They enable you to form opinions without bothering to find facts." Researches show that about four out of five Americans have strong prejudices against other races, religions and social classes. Really tolerant persons are a rarity. Most people think there is something wrong with them. Researches show that everybody thinks he or she is broad-minded.

Answer to Question No. 3

3. Yes. Several experiments indicate you can, especially at manual or semi - manual labor. There is little doubt that "The Song of the Volga Boatmen" increased the endurance of these hard-working men. In one factory where operations were continually repeated, music increased the output one-fifth, and at the same time, considerably reduced fatigue and errors.

Dynamic 'Iron Man' Hits Screen With Kayo Punch; Chandler Stars

Evelyn Keyes And Stephen McNally Co-Starred In Ring Picture

Fighting his way toward the world's heavyweight championship on the screen, Chandler carves another important niche in his career as a star of the first magnitude. As the rugged coal miner who becomes a fighter against his will, the actor turns in the most dramatic and poignant characterization of a pubilist to be seen on the screen in recent years.

Chandler knows he is a killer in the ring who loses control when he is pummeled. Anxious to get out of the racket he saves his earnings to purchase a small business and settle down with his wife, played by Evelyn Keyes.

When Chandler discovers that his wife and his brother, Stephen McNally, have used his savings to pay an opponent to throw an important fight he gets rid of them both. His redemption comes when, fighting his friend, Rock Hudson, for the heavyweight title, he loses the bout but wins the greater victory of self-control.

Miss Keyes plays a small-town, ambitious girl who aspires to bigger and better things and her perperformance is highlighted with touching restraint. Her love for the man who is an animal in the ring and a child outside comes across as a most moving portrayal.

Once again Stephen McNally becomes the man you love to hate in "Iron Man" when he engineers his brother into a racket for which he has no taste and then forsakes him for greener fields.

'MILLIONAIRE FOR CHRISTY' AT TEM

Comedy Of Gal With Yen For A Rich Husband Makes Lively Film

The rollicking story of a bread-winning secretary with a yen for a rich husband, and a playboy radio announcer who inherits two million dollars, Thor Productions' "A Millionaire For Christy" opens today at the Tem Theatre.

With the veteran film favorite Fred MacMurray in the role of the playboy, the comedy introduces lovely Eleanor Parker, an Academy Award candidate this year for her performance in "Caged," in a zany, comedy role that has critics comparing her with the late, beloved Carole Lombard.

For her role in the picture Miss Parker suffered through as grueling an ordeal as has any actress in recent years. She spent one full day in the surf at Santa Monica Beach, while waves broke over her repeatedly, getting just one scene for the film.

As for Fred MacMurray, of course, making comedies is old stuff. A ranking star for 15 years, MacMurray boasts such hit pictures as "The Egg and I" "Family Honeymoon" and "Father Was a Fullback."

Public Forum

Editor, Monroe Morning World,
Dear Sir:

At this time when so many subdivisions of Monroe are being provided, even at a very late date, with sewerage facilities, it seems quite suitable that residents who are required to connect up pay a little attention to costs entailed.

We are required to secure a plumber who charges form a dollar and a half per foot for the installation of requisite pipe and for his services. Probably the average property owner will have to have fully 100 feet of pipe laid. At $1.50 per foot this will entail expenditure of $150, and the plumber expects to be paid in cash. But this does not end it. The city of Monroe has an additional bill. Charge is made, we are told, at one and one half cents per square foot as installation charge. The average sized city lot is 50 by 150 feet and contains 7,500 square feet. At one and one-half cents per square foot this totals $112.50.

The two charges aggregate a total cost of $262.50. But it is hurriedly explained that the city will wait for its money and will permit payment over a period of 10 years.

We know of an instance where a house in Monroe was connected with the sewer system for $50. That was total cost for plumber and city payment. Of course that was years ago and prices have vaulted, but it seems that the present figures are so high as to work a hardship in many cases.

Again the complaint is made that property owners have for years paid a city sewer tax when they had septic tanks and not a vestage of sewer service for their homes. Will someone in authoity explain the present cost for the benefit of those who are now harboring serious doubts and who will appreciate a full explanation?

Family History Often Gives Vital Clue Of Rare Disease

By Alton L. Blakeslee
(By the Associated Press)

Minneapolis, Sept. 22.—(AP)—Questions about your family sometimes can spot rare diseases and save life.

The questions concern family history, to learn whether there are hereditary diseases, or diseases that show up because of intermarriage of close relatives.

This approach is medical use of genetics, the science of heredity. It can help doctors in diagnosing various puzzling diseases, and in calculating the patient's chances against it, Dr. F. Clarke Fraser, assistant professor of the department of genetics, McGill University, Montreal, told the American Institue of Biological Sciences.

Knowledge of heredity has grown steadily in the last 50 years. This medical use is one of the direct human benefits from this young science.

So far, Dr. Fraser said, it is mainly helpful in spotting rare diseases, ones that might often be mistaken for something else. Going into the family history often gives a vital clue.

A rare form of heart disease was diagnosed in one child after it was learned that the parents were first cousins, he said. Marriage of relatives heightens the chances that certain diseases will appear in the children. There is more chance that a recessive gene, or carrier unit of heredity, will come to the fore.

In this heart disease, sugar is stored in the heart muscles. The parents were told that there was one chance in four that subsequent children would also have the disease, Dr. Fraser said.

Water diabetes has been found to run back in families for four or five generations. This disease differs from sugar diabetes. In water diabetes, the kidneys fail to reabsorb water, and they excrete too much water, causing excessive thirst. It's due to a fault in the pituitary gland.

A child's disease was diagnosed accurately as water diabetes after questions brougnt out a history of kidney disease in the family.

In one family, three out of five children had dislocations of the hip, and clubfoot, Dr. Fraser said. The parents were related, indicating that a recessive gene was the villain. If this fact had been realized after the birth of the first deformed child, the parents could have been warned that the prospects for the next children also were bad.

Two children in another family were born with no adrenal cortex, part of the adrenal gland. The first one died. The second child is living, because the trouble was recognized. The child gets daily doses of an adrenal extract, plus salt, to make up the dificiency. The parents were fourth cousins.

Other kinds of diseases seem to run in families, and not because of inter - marriage of relatives. In early stages, such diseases may resemble other illnesses. The genetic history can help doctors put their finger sooner on the actual cause of the trouble.

Dr. Fraser now is setting up a department of medical genetics at Children's Memorial Hospital, Montreal, to make more effective use of genetic science in medicine.

New York —(AP)— The parasitic disease, amebiasis, may be spreading, Dr. Howard B. Shookhoff of the New York city health department writes. The disease can be spread by foodhandlers. It is estimated that 15,000,000 Americans may be infected, he said. The parasite, a protozoa, causes dysentery.

Chicago —(AP)— Wetting your hair everyday doesn't hurt it, says a note in the journal of the American Medical Association. Your hair "is entitled to the same care that one gives the face. A wet scalp, however, is prone to attract dirt."

Wilmington, Del. —(AP)— The synthetic rubber, neoprene, is being added to paper in a new method developed by the Dupont Company. The rubber is added in latex form to the paper pulp. New products, under development, or foreseen as possibilities, are a porch or summer rug that can be washed with soap and water and hung to dry without losing shape; disposable diapers, double - wall insulated bags for cold bottle or cans of beer; as backing on plastic wall tile that you install yourself.

Columbus, Ohio —(AP)— Two new gases have been discovered in the earth's atmosphere — carbon monoxide and methane, or marsh gas. They were detected in studies of the sun's infra red radiation by Ohio State University scientists. The amounts in the atmosphere are too small to do any harm. Nitrous oxide, or laughing gas, was detected earlier.

Slavery Reported Growing In Japan

Tokyo, Sept. 22.—(AP)—Slavery is increasing in Japan, the labor ministry said today.

The ministry said the known total of persons sold into bondage in the year ended last June 30 was 1,579. That was double the figure for the preceding 12 months.

Of the total, 674 were under the age of 18. One hundred were boys and 574 were girls.

Most of the slaves sold were children of poverty-stricken families. Most of the girls went into houses of prostitution.

"Lorna Doone," immortal novel of a feud to the death, has been brought to the screen by Columbia Pictures in a stirring version that accents its romance, splendor and violence. Barbara Hale and Richard Greene are starred in the new romantic adventure which opens at the Paramount Theatre today.

The derring-do romantic sweep and seething adventure which have characterized the productions of Edward Small are very much present in this, his latest swashbuckler. Since "Lorna Doone" is set in the extravagant period of 17th century England, the brilliant color by Technicolor has enhanced the production and helped to capture on the screen the age of splendor in all its violent beauty.

Miss Hale, the proud beauty of the renegade Doone family who dominate by force the lovely English countryside around Exmoor, and Greene, a young soldier, are in love despite his life-and-death struggle with the Doones. Greene rallies the farmers of the area in a desperate guerrilla action against the Doone soldiery to gain arms for an assault on the Doone fortress. Although Greene's followers are betrayed to the Doones he successfully storms the fortress with the aid of soldiers of the King.

In bringing "Lorna Doone" to the screen, director Phil Karlson has employed the cameras to maximum advantage in depicting the rousing action that swirls across the screen. Forest fighting, the storming of the Doone Castle, hazardous scaling of a precipit waterfall and hand-to-hand com and swordplay have all been picted with enthralling ardor.

Miss Hale is a spirited bea especially delightful to watch color by Technicolor. Greene plays his penchant for the spect ular costume drama, while s support is forthcoming from Benton Reid, as the aged head the Doones, William Bishop a villainous, fire - eating youn Doone, and Ron Randell, as a h wayman of integrity.

SWAMI HOLDS BIRTHDAY EVENT

Banquet Conducted In Hotel Frances: Dokey Celebration, Dance, Oct. 13

Swami Santha No. 102—Nomads of Avrudaka—held regular Darbar Monday night, September 17, at 8:30 p.m., Castle Hall, 127½ St. John St., after attending the fourth birthday party banquet at Frances Hotel.

Then routine of business matters—application of Erline Ethridge was brought up, also a telegram from Trucie Sink, Imperial Yuvarani of Houston, Tex. and C. W. and Ruby McLain of Jackson, saying sorry to miss birthday party and congratulations on fine work; also a note was received from the new Imperial Scribe, Elizabeth (Betty) Taylor of Cleveland, O., Congratulations for past four years and success for coming year.

Dr. H. H. Baur, read a part of letter sent by Arnold Myers, secretary of Al Hassen Temple No. 136 of Little Rock, Ark. The letter stated that Al Hassen Temple No. 136 of Little Rock and Zenana Santha No. 42, Nomads of Avrudaka of Little Rock, will have a Dokey and Nomad ceremonial at Pine Bluff on Saturday, October 13 at the Dokey Club. Rani Arnéll Carroll of Zenana Santha No. 42, wants Swami Santha No. 102, officers to confer the Santha Degree, and all Nomad candidates. She also wants the Monroe Nomads to put in "lesson of loyalty" and all the drill team from Swami Santha No. 102. So it was voted and passed on that Swami Santha No. 102 will accept the offer of Zenana Santha No. 42.

The program for Saturday, October 13 — Registration Saturday 10:00 a.m. to 2:00 p.m.

Nomad ceremonial at 3:00 p.m., followed by street parade, bands and drill team, all Dokeys, Nomads and Floats, then the Banquet.

The Dokey ceremonial starts at 7:30 p.m., and then dance will be from 10:00 p.m. until 1:00 a.m. Now all Nomads and Dokeys remember Saturday, Oct. 13, 1951.

Special notice from Rani Freda Henderson and drill team, Captain Tempie Hegwood, all officers of Swami Santha No. 102, members "lesson of loyalty" and members of degree team, please be at Castle Hall, 127½ St. John St., Sunday afternoon at 3:00 p.m. sharp.

HELD FOR SPEEDING

Monroe police officers arrested Carl B. Knighten, 24, 308 Montgomery street, West Monroe, Friday night and charged him with speeding at 75 miles per hour. He was released under a $100 property bond.
